Beach Drive case reversed

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

In a 4-3 split-decision, the Michigan Supreme Court last week reversed two earlier lower court rulings when it found that front lot owners along Charlevoix Township's Beach drive do, in fact, have riparian rights to Lake Charlevoix.

The case had been closely watched by the legal community throughout the state, especially lakefront property owners groups.

Riprian rights (also known as littoral rights) are the rights held by owners of property along a body of water, such as a lake. The rights include use of the shoreline and bottomlands for such purposes as accessing the water, erecting docks or boat hoists or permanently mooring boats.

The case which the court decided last week was originally filed in 2007 and started as a dispute between property owners in a Charlevoix Township subdivision situated on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix. The dispute arose between people who own property on the north side of Beach Drive, which runs along the north shore of the lake, and other property owners in the same subdivision. For years the front-lot owners have been using the lakeshore along Beach Drive to place docks and moor/hoist their boats. A number of the inland property owners wanted to (and some claim they have also done so for many years) put their own docks and boats on the lake along the roadway. In 2007 the front lot owners filed the lawsuit seeking to block them from doing so.

Since the initial filing, the Charlevoix County Road Commission and Charlevoix Township have also joined in the case.

First, Charlevoix County Circuit Court Judge Richard M. Pajtas ruled against the front lot owners saying they do not have riparian rights. That decision was appealed to the Michigan Court of Appeals.

In a decision issued in June of 2009, the Michigan Court of Appeals affirmed Judge Pajtas ruling, finding that the front-lot owners are not entitled to riparian rights. The court based its finding on the fact that the road was specifically dedicated to public use in the plat that the county accepted in 1911 and that the language of the dedication placed no restrictions on the public's use of the roadway.

The court also noted that the legal descriptions of the font-lots in question show the lots' southern boundaries at the north road edge and not the water's edge, the description makes no reference to riparian rights, and the properties are not taxed as waterfront properties.

In last week's opinion, writing for the majority (which also included justices Marilyn Kelly, Maura Corrigan and Robert P. Young Jr.) justice Stephen J. Markman writes that the two lower courts were wrong when they found that the county obtained true ownership (also called fee title) to the roadway when street was dedicated to the public in the plat. Instead, the majority held that the county only was given a "nominal" title to the land — meaning the right to use it for a road, but not for any other use. Based on this finding, the court's majority held that the county does not truly own the property between the lake and the front lot owners and therefore the front lot owners have riparian rights to Lake Charlevoix.

While both the majority and the dissent (which includes justices Alton Davis, Michael F. Cavanaugh and Diane M. Hathaway) agree that it is important to try to discern the intent of the person who dedicated the plat, both point to different facts to make their respective points.

The majority points to the fact that the plat includes one road that terminates at the water's edge and shows a dock to be located there as an indication that the road-end is the sole location where the plat grantor intended to provide public access to the lake.

Conversely, the dissent points to the fact that none of the front lot property descriptions include the lakeshore as a boundary nor make any mention of reserving riparian rights for those lots as a clear indication that the plat-maker did not intend to give such rights to those lots.

Similarly, the majority and lower courts draw different conclusions from the same language that established the plat in 1911.

The dedicating language reads, "the streets and alleys as shown on said plat are hereby dedicated to the use of the public."

The court of appeals held that this language puts no restrictions on the uses granted to the public for the roadway property, and thus full title for the land under the road belongs to the county.

The majority, however found that a reasonable person must infer from the language that the dedication of the streets and alleys "to the use of the public" implies that the grantor meant "to be used as streets and alleys" an nothing more.

The majority writes, "Read in context, the dedication grants to the public 'use' that is consistent with the understood uses of 'streets and alleys' at the time of the dedication ... We are convinced that riparian rights were not among those 'rights of a public nature' thought to 'exist in public ways of [this] kind.' No Michigan decision of that

There will likely be fewer docks lining the Lake Charlevoix shore along Charlevoix Township's Beach Drive this summer after the Michigan Supreme Court ruled last week that property owners on the north side of the road hold exclusive rights to the waterfront across the road from their lots.

Barnes was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital by Charlevoix Ambulance where he was treated for his injuries and released.

Police said the crash happened at about 10:45 a.m. on Michigan Avenue near Petoskey Avenue.

Police said Barnes was driving a 1994 Cadillac south on Michigan Avenue when he lost control of the vehicle on the snow-covered roadway, struck a guardrail and spun into a tree.

The Charlevoix Police Department was also assisted at the scene by the Charlevoix Fire Department and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office.

RULING

era, or any other, has held that a dedication of a road running parallel to the water conveys riparian rights."

But the dissent goes on to say that many earlier supreme court and court of appeals decisions about riparian rights in similar situation have been decided incorrectly based on incorrect assumptions about earlier, precedent-setting cases.

Finally the majority writes that even if it agreed with the minority's contention that decades of cases on the topic have been wrongly decided, the doctrine of "stare decisis" would strongly dissuade it from changing course now.

"Stare decisis" is a legal principle that says courts should generally follow precedents set down by earlier courts to effect consistency, predictability and stability in the law.

In one portion of its opinion the majority writes: "By failing to recognize that the rule of these cases is both correct and well settled, defendant's analysis would upset the altogether reasonable expectations of front-lot owners, title insurers, and prospective front-lot purchasers throughout the state."

In a footnote, the on the "stare decisis" issue, majority adds, "(T)he longer a judicial rule of property has endured, and the more time has elapsed since its establishment, the greater the public's reliance (upon it)."

Even the dissent concedes that there may be an argument for leaving what it contends are wrongly-decided cases in place

"This Court should, after all, consider such issues as the practical workability of the rule, the extent of reliance thereon, whether chaos or other harm would ensue from overruling it, and whether a change in facts, jurisprudence, or perspective has altered the rule's significance," Justice Davis writes.

"This may be one of those cases in which the incorrect but, apparently, extensively relied-upon rule ... should be allowed to stand. It may be so notwithstanding the fact that the abutting property owners may not have been taxed for riparian property and may reap a windfall at the expense of the public's right of access to the water, even though plain statutory language indicates that those landowners should have no such rights."

In a written statement about the decision, Charlevoix County Road Commission attorney Joel Wurster said the opinions of the lower courts and the split 4-3 decision of the supreme court show this was an area of law that needed more definition.

"Unfortunately, the Supreme Court majority's decision was not very favorable to the rights of the public with regard to the dedicated Beach Drive property."

Wurster goes on to write, "Regrettably, this decision adversely impacts the interests of the public, including many in the neighborhood that have long used and enjoyed this property in a responsible manner ... Despite this setback to the rights of the public, the road commission will continue to do its best to serve as a trustee of the many public interests that have been dedicated to it."

While the court's majority was not persuaded by the argument that the front lots in question have never been taxed as waterfront lots, it's possible that the township assessor may see it differently in the wake of their decision.

In an affidavit provided to the Michigan Supreme Court, the assessor said that as "water view" lots, the property owners were assessed $2,000 per front foot along Beach Drive, but said the properties would have been assessed $6,000 per front foot if they had been classified as "waterfront properties.

Crawl space fire damages home

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF WRITER

At approximately 9:50 a.m. Monday Charlevoix Fire Department and EMS were dispatched to a structure fire at 311 Crain Street in Charlevoix.

Fire officials said the occupant of the home saw smoke in the house at about 9 a.m. and started searching for the source.

"It was hazy in the house and smelled like burning plastic so I started searching around. After a little while I saw smoke coming from the floor and decided it was time to call the fire department," said Fred Stark, who is renting the home.

The fire appears to have started in the crawl space of the home, but the cause is still unknown.

"We know where the fire started we just don't know how or why it started," said Charlevoix fire chief Paul Ivan.

When fire crews arrived on scene there were no visible flames inside the house, but after determining where the smoke was coming from, they began dousing the fire.

"We sent someone into the crawl space and punched a hole through the floor to get to the fire," Ivan said.

According to Stark, as soon as the hole was created the flames shot up through the floor.

The fire damage was mostly limited to the structure of the home.

"About a quarter of the house's floor joists and one main support beam were burned, but there doesn't appear to be much other damage," Ivan said.

The fire was completely out by 11 a.m. and fire crews went to work cleaning up and trying to determine the cause of the blaze.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

New year, new changes

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

Happy new year, and welcome to 2011. Never thought I'd live this long, so I must say I am appreciative, thankful and looking forward to whatever this year brings. Some good things are on the horizon; one of them being my cell phone service. Not a big deal to some, but for anyone who lives in our neck of the woods, it's a good thing. They have improved data speed allowing quicker, clearer calls. I use my phone for emergencies and the usual check in with family and friends and it's wonderful when conversations don't get cut off mid-sentence. Phones of today are pretty chic and a far cry from my first car phone that looked like it was taken off the set of Get Smart.

While I am on the topic of phones I understand that 2011 will be the year for the push to pay bills by use of the iPhone rather than plastic. I admit to being years behind when it comes to technology, so it will be no surprise that in 2010 I started using my first debit card and paying bills online. I still haven't been able to do that trick of unlocking my car using a cell phone so I don't feel adept enough to pay a bill using one. My timing and tech sense could easily result in opening up someone's garage door.

Changes in the art of print continue to evolve. Even though sales have been steady with e-books and are expected to continue in 2011, I still prefer the feel of a paperback or hardcover book in my hands. My literary collection looks so beautiful on the shelves and right now I couldn't imagine a shelf without them. Speaking of books, we should all be grateful in tough economic times that our libraries provide so many free services. From lap sit read for toddlers to lectures and music. Even if you don't read, who wouldn't want to hang out with people who speak in such wonderful, warm quiet tones?

Other interesting news for this year includes the provision in the new health care law encouraging doctors and nurse practitioners to make house calls. The focus is to reduce hospital costs especially for individuals having multiple chronic diseases. I still have my dad's medical bag when he did house calls in the 1950s. Its unfortunate the medicine inside is still from that era. I'd love to help with house calls but your wellness suggests I don't. Thinking back to spending time with my dad when he made home visits, it warms my heart to know there is slight version of this in the Independence at Home Act.

Taxes on Social Security have been reduced and unemployment benefits will continue for the remainder of this year so that's good news for a lot of people in Michigan. As far as energy goes it looks like we'll see an increase in the cost for fuel so I would imagine those who can afford an electric car will be inclined to make a purchase. Maybe that will mean an influx of affordable used cars for the rest of us.

2011 will present our younger generation with having to work at more than one job. We will see less available vacation time so making use of stay-at-home time will be treasured again this year by just turning off the cell phone and reading that paperback or hardcover book I spoke of.

This year we'll see individuals with more gratitude for what they have, realizing so many have so little. This will be the year we will continue sharing or swapping our skills, visiting friends instead of hotels, saving money and reducing credit card use. In regards to using that almighty plastic, there are reports stating that credit card spending is down and more of us have set up saving accounts. It's nice to see we really are capable of learning appropriate money budgeting. So cheers to all of us for a conscientious beginning to a new year that brings with it clarity on what's important in life. Let's keep focused on the good things that have happened in 2010 and be hopeful for what's to come. It might not be a slice of heaven but at least you are present for 2011.

LETTERS to the editor

Editor,

The Charlevoix Community Christmas Project Committee would like to thank the people of Charlevoix for their support again this year. Because of all of you, we were able to help more than 200 families and 450 kids have a better Christmas with a turkey dinner and gifts under the tree. We are sponsored by the Charlevoix Ministerial Association and were helped by 15 churches this year. Their congregations, youth groups, and women's groups donated time, money, food and gifts. We also wish to thank all of the business people, service club members, the schools who helped and the Toys for Tots service men who put up boxes all over town, collected the toys, counted them and delivered them to the Christmas Project. A special thanks and hugs to all of you who so generously donated money for food and gifts.

We had more than 100 people help us at Bethany Lutheran the week of distribution. You set up tables, packed food boxes, put toys on the tables, prepared the teen room, mitten and socks room and the gently used coat, etc. room - plus bringing in food to keep up our energy, always had coffee and iced tea ready, ran errands for us, carried out boxes, handed out gift bags, packed up, tore down and cleaned up. Thank you, thank you. We are truly blessed to have all of you as neighbors and friends.

May God richly bless each of you in 2011.

Editor:

On the morning of Sept. 25 the Charlevoix Elks held their second annual "Show Your Colors" motorcycle poker run. The motorcycles were scheduled to leave downtown Charlevoix at noon. Unfortunately, the weather did not cooperate. It was 52 degrees and raining, with 25 mile per hour winds — the worst possible scenario for a poker run or bike show. Because of the weather conditions, the majority of the riders did not show up until the beginning of the pre-run safety meeting. Jessica Dominic, of Charlevoix, sang the national anthem followed by a moment of silence in honor of all fallen soldiers. When the meeting was over, the city police escort took their place and the bikes came to life with the noon siren. As they started to pull out to line up, surprisingly, there were a total of 68 dedicated bikers that showed up for the cause, despite the foul weather. The run headed south and toured around Torch Lake and back for a pig roast dinner. There was an auction of merchandise that was donated by generous local businesses and a 50/50 drawing. A good time was had by all. When the riders were asked why they would come out on a cold, windy, and raining day, the reply was " It's for a good cause."

The "Show Your Colors" event was to benefit local veterans and raised a total of $4,500 by the end of the evening. From the $4,500, $1,000 went toward donating gas and food cards to local veterans in need. In addition, $1,500 was donated to "The Forgotten Eagles," a motorcycle group dedicated to helping veterans in need throughout Northwest Michigan. Another $1,500 was donated to the family of fallen Marine Sgt. Jason Calo of Mancelona. Jason's life was tragically cut short, Aug. 22, 2010, while serving in Afghanistan, leaving behind a wife and two young children. The donation was accepted by Jason's mother, Jeri Manville of Mancelona. The remaining $500 went toward other miscellaneous local veteran needs.

The Elks of Charlevoix would like to thank all the local businesses, sponsors and participants that contributed to the 2010 "Show Your Colors" poker-run/benefit. Their generous donations made it possible to help veterans and their families throughout Northwest Michigan. We look forward to our third annual benefit which will be scheduled for September, 2011. Anyone interested in donating or participating in next year's event, can contact Ken Rogers at kenrogers62@gmail.com.

Charlevoix basketball program marks 100th year

MORGAN SHERBURNE
NEWS-REVIEW
SPORTS WRITER

The 2010-11 Charlevoix season marks the 100th anniversary of the first official basketball game in the town.

Bill Carey, now 80, remembers that his father played in those early days — a year earlier, in 1909, than that first game.

"My father played on the first day anybody started to organize basketball in high school," said Carey. "There was a basketball, and you picked it up, ran it down to the other end, and you put it in a bushel basket."

But his father's basketball career didn't last long.

"Players tackled and pushed and tripped and kicked and he quit," said Carey.

Carey himself, as many Northern Michigan residents know, is one of the finest athletes Charlevoix has produced. But the start of basketball was a little before his time.

A COLORFUL HISTORY

According to the book "Charlevoix II," a history of Charlevoix in photos by historian Bob Miles, the game Carey's father played in was likely played in the Bonthron building, a plumbing and heating shop that sat just before the bridge in Charlevoix on the east side of U.S. 31.

In the year following, the game migrated across the street to the Lewis Grand Opera House. There, in 1910, the first officially organized basketball game was played.

"The chairs of the opera house were removed so the teams could play," said David Miles, co-director of the Harsha House Museum in Charlevoix and Bob Miles's son. "During the first game, the ball went out the window. Luckily, the spectators saw it floating in the channel, patted it dry, and brought it back."

But the boys weren't the only people playing the game. During at least that first year, a girls' basketball team also debuted, however, Miles said, not much is known about the girls team — including whether the young women played after the 1910-11 season.

Over the next 20 years, the Charlevoix Rayders played first in a roller rink, and then in an uninhabited stable. In 1928, a new gym was built on Mason Street — the first to have a regulation floor.

It was in this gym that the first basketball team to play in the state finals honed their skills. The 1937-38 team, coached by the inimitable Ray Kipke — to whom the "Rayders" spelling of the Charlevoix mascot is often attributed — lost in the semi final round. Perry Smith is the only living member of that team, said Miles. Smith recently celebrated his 90th birthday.

And it was in this gym that the legendary Carey brothers played ball, and they dominated the court from 1944 to 1948.

"We pretty well cleaned up with everyone in these parts," said Carey, recalling the seasons he played with his twin brother, Bob. "We had undefeated seasons. Maybe the only (regular season) game we lost in our sophomore, junior and senior years was a game we lost to Petoskey."

After high school, Bob Carey played basketball, football and ran track, earning 9 varsity letters at MSU. He also earned All-American honors as a football player, and was drafted to the Los Angeles Rams. After playing for four seasons with the Rams, Bob played one season with the Chicago Bears.

Bill Carey graduated Charlevoix to play basketball and football at Michigan State University. He played one season of basketball during his junior year; when the Carey brothers played, freshmen were not allowed to play sports.

During the winter break of Carey's sophomore year, he was dressing for basketball practice when he received notification that he was ineligible for the season — a class, economics, had caught up with him.

Carey packed his bags for the remainder of the break.

"It took me 24 hours to get home. There were not that many cars on the roads those days. A Kroger (grocery) truck picked me up," said Carey. He helped the driver unload groceries at stores between Lansing and Northern Michigan.

Charlevoix celebrated the brothers' return to the town with a celebration called Carey Day in March of 1952. Charlevoix renamed itself Careytown for the day and presented the brothers with keys to the town.

"I've still got my key downstairs. Instead of serrations, the key has our name spelled, which doesn't get me into any place," said Carey.

Historian David Miles said that along with Charlevoix coaches Stewart "Irish" Coleman, who coached track and assisted with football, and the legendary basketball coach Ray Kipke, Michigan State football coach Clarence "Biggie" Munn attended the Carey Day celebration.

LEGENDARY COACHING

Kipke coached from 1928 to 1950 with a one-year hiatus during the 1944-45 season.

"Because of the war going on, people thought too much emphasis was placed on athletics. For the first time since 1926, Ray Kipke was not hired as a basketball coach. Kipke left Charlevoix, a new coach was hired and was anything but successful," said Carey.

Kipke was rehired in the following summer and was later inducted in the Michigan High School Coaches Hall of Fame. Don Carey was also inducted into the hall of fame for his basketball coaching career, which lasted from 1955 to 1985.

And, of course, the Rayders played under Keith Haske, who racked up ten district championships, six regional titles, four state Final Four appearances and two state runner up finishes during his 13-year tenure as the Charlevoix coach.

A NEW ERA

Now, in Charlevoix's 100th year of high school basketball, the town witnesses another wave of change with the changing of the guard from Haske to new coach Adam Wood.

Bill Carey, who, along with his wife Judy attends about half of both the boys and girls home games, approves.

"Adam Wood is going to do just fine. He'll do just fine. He played the game himself, and every indication shows he knows the game," said Carey.

Two new members appointed to Women's Resource Center board

The Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan, recently announced the appointment of two new board members for terms which began Nov. 22, 2010.

Joining the center's 14-member board is Linda Widrig Neuss and Sharon Schappacher. Board members with expiring terms include Diane Heinzelman and LuAnn Keinath.

New and current board members agree to support the mission and vision of the center which was founded in 1977 by a group of nine women. Through those founders, the WRC has grown to be one of the largest, most comprehensive and multi-faceted women's service organizations in Michigan.

Board members also agree to embrace the vision of the organization which is to be recognized as leaders for social change and respected as a strong voice for women, children, and families. They will be responsible for the overall governance of the organization accepting legal, fiduciary and ethical responsibilities by providing leadership and guidance for the agency's operation.

New members include:

Linda Widrig Neuss of Cheboygan is an Americas director of workplace services with Ernst & Young, LLP. Neuss leads a group of 3,000 people who provide all the administrative support to the external client servers within Ernst & Young in North and South America. She has served as board president for the legal administrator association with the State Bar of Michigan, in addition to committee and board work with her church and homeowner's association. Neuss is also a Stephen Minister with the United Methodist Church.

"It may be cliché, but I believe it takes a village of people to support children and struggling men and women and I would like to contribute in some way," Neuss said.

Sharon Schappacher of Petoskey was a certified public accountant prior to her current occupation as a real estate investor and hotel, rental property and billboard owner. No stranger to the Women's Resource Center, Schappacher has dedicated many hours to help with the Women Can/Women Do luncheons which are critical fundraisers for the organization. She has also served on the board of the Mackinaw City Chamber of Commerce, the YMCA of Northern Michigan and is president of the Petoskey Area Garden Club.

"I am interested in serving on the board because I believe the Women's Resource Center does so much good in our area," Schappacher said. "My areas of greatest interest are the battered women's shelter and WRC's work with teenagers."

The new board members represent two of the five counties served by the center, including Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet and Otsego counties.

For more information, contact the center's administrative office in Petoskey at (231) 347-0067 or visit the organization's website at wrcnm.org.

New office for NuStar Insurance

MARK LINDSAY
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Kathy and Bart Patton said they have opened the new office, located on U.S. 31 across from Charlevoix Motors, "to offer local residents a choice in insurance." Kathy Patton has been in the insurance business her entire career, and represents the second generation in her family being insurance agents.

"I grew up around my father's insurance office, learning the business while going to school" she said.

Kathy Patton began the business in Central Lake, originally as a Farmers insurance office. In 2001 she invited her brother-in-law Bart Patton to join her as a partner in the business. The Pattons decided in 2008 to become an independent agency, as a NuStar franchise office.

NuStar insurance agencies Inc. has been in business in Michigan for many years, maintaining offices throughout the state. Having opened their first location in 1950, NuStar is celebrating 60 years of service to Michigan clients this year.

"We offer policies from 20 different providers and can often save our clients money when compared to their existing coverage," Kathy Patton said. NuStar is an independent insurance agency and can offer policies from several companies rather then only offering one. "We decided over two years ago to become an independent agency because we thought it would offer more value to our clients" she said.

In addition to themselves, the Pattons employ three people at their two locations and they divide their time between the two offices. Kathy is most commonly at the Charlevoix location while Bart primarily works in Central Lake. "We already had many clients in the Charlevoix area" Kathy noted, adding "With the new location we can offer them a lot more personal service and benefit more from referrals."

NuStar offers comprehensive insurance policies for most any needs. They offer plans for home, business, auto and life insurance. "We have many people who prefer to keep all their insurance under one umbrella, to get better pricing and ease of maintenance," Patton said.

Kathy and her husband, Brian, have two adult children while Bart and his wife, Amy, have two school-age children. They are both very active in the community and volunteering locally.

"Having grown up in the area, this was the natural choice for our business," Patton said. Bart acts as assistant coach for the Central Lake High school varsity football team.

NuStar's Charlevoix office is located at 06777 U.S. 31 South, Suite D. The agency staff may be reached by calling (231) 437-3272 or toll free at (888) 972-8866. The office is open from 9 a.m.-5 p.m. Monday-Friday and by appointment at other times. Information is also available on the Internet at www.nustar-ins.com.

Great Lakes Energy seek People Fund applications

Local non-profit organizations have three opportunities to apply for a grant from Great Lakes Energy's People Fund in 2011. The deadline for applications for the first grant cycle is Tuesday, Feb. 1.

The People Fund is supported solely by Great Lakes Energy members who allow their electric cooperative to round up their bill each month to the next dollar. The donated funds are used to make grants to local charitable organizations such as food banks, senior citizen centers, youth programs and more.

"We would like to thank all our members who participate in our billing round-up program for the People Fund," Great Lakes Energy President/CEO Steve Boeckman said. "Because of their generosity, the Great Lakes Energy People Fund is able to support many worthwhile organizations."

In 2010 the People Fund's volunteer directors awarded grants totaling more than $184,000 to charitable and community organizations throughout the cooperative's 26-county service area.

To request an application, call (888) 485-2537, ext. 1313 or download the application on gtlakes.com. Grants from the first application cycle will be awarded in mid-February. Application deadlines for the two other grant cycles in 2011 are June 1 and Oct. 1.

Friends of the Library annual meeting set for January 13

The Friends of the Charlevoix Public Library will be hosting its annual meeting 6:30 p.m., Thursday, Jan. 13 with guest Crissie Staats, who will be on hand to discuss her life in Egypt.

Staats is a retired school teacher from Warren Consolidated Schools and currently lives in Horton Bay. She is an avid sailor and intrepid traveler. She has traveled extensively with her husband aboard their boat "IONA," sailing and living aboard for seven years while sailing from Detroit to Marmaris, Turkey. Most recently Staats had the opportunity to live and teach in Cairo, Egypt.

For the past two years she taught at the American International School – Cairo, a pre K–12th grade integrated school; teaching, science and math in the middle school. The challenges of living in the Middle East, in one of the more crowded cities of the world, provided insight on how different cultures deal with the most basic human needs and common problems.

Staats is now home and ready to share her adventures of living and working in one of the most vibrant cities in Cairo. For more information about the Friends of the Charlevoix Library, visit www.charlevoixlibrary.org.

St. Marys' success

As their Christmas Project, the employees at St. Marys Cement Company in Charlevoix chose to collect non-perishable food goods as well as monetary donations for the Women's Resource Center of Petoskey and the Charlevoix Food Pantry. The employees collected a total of $520 along with numerous cases of staples for both organizations. The company matched these funds to make a grand total of $1,040 for their 2010 Christmas Project this year. Pictured above St. Marys employees Jim Herriman (left) and John Coats help sort through some of the collected items before they were donated.

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

You could say that Charlevoix's Glen Sheppard was the E.F. Hutton of Michigan conservationists.

Because for more than 40 years, when he talked, people (and important people, at that) listened.

Sheppard, a one-time editor of the Charlevoix Courier who, since 1969 has published the semi-monthly nature periodical "North Woods Call" out of his Charlevoix-area home, died at Charlevoix Area Hospital Wednesday, Jan 5 following an illness. He was 74.

Born in Romulus in 1936, Sheppard knew at a young age that he wanted to be a journalist, his wife of 34 years Mary Lou said Thursday.

Those plans were interrupted when he served in the U.S Army infantry in the Korean War and then again later when he served another stint in Alaska.

After working at several newspapers, Sheppard's love of the north country and the outdoors eventually brought him to Charlevoix, where he served as editor at the Charlevoix Courier until 1969, when he bought the North Woods Call from its founder Marguerite Gahagan.

Sheppard

A review of just a couple of his writings during his tenure at the Courier reveal Sheppard's views on protecting nature from pollution and overdevelopment were already boiling to the surface. In a Dec. 20, 1967 column, Sheppard wonders what Santa will think of developments that had taken place in Charlevoix when he flies into town.

"The reindeer with the best nose may turn and tell Santa that water is more polluted than ever. But the old gent won't get in a dither over this. He knows that it happens everywhere. So why not Charlevoix?" Sheppard wrote.

So, when he took over the North Woods Call, a publication that already had a focus on the outdoors, he turned it into a publication on a mission to preserve it.

Indeed, every issue's masthead contained the following self-describing text: "An admittedly biased newspaper: Dedicated to the proposition that there is only one side to any issue involving natural resources... Nature's!"

On the Call's website Sheppard writes, "Other 'outdoor' media deliver a repetitious hook-'em and shoot-'em drill. Hard-knuckle conservation news and commentary is about as rare as a chipmunk under the bird feeder during a February blizzard."

Little Traverse Conservancy Executive Director Tom Bailey has known Sheppard (or "Shep" as many knew him) since Bailey was young and Shep was friends with Bailey's father.

"He really wanted to keep these (conservation) issues in front of the people," Bailey said. "In the 90s we'd talk about how conservation wasn't in the news anymore. Papers were cutting their outdoors and environmental coverage."

But when the "big papers" did pick up an environmental story, chances were that it was Sheppard's reporting that brought it to light, Bailey said.

"He loved the outdoors ... fishing and hunting. He was certainly a bulldog and he was proud of that. In some ways he was ahead of his time. He had a view point and made no bones about it. Some people loved it, and others hated it."

"His work always came from a deep love the natural world," Bailey added. "But he didn't want it fenced off like a museum. He believed in getting out there and enjoying it."

One group of people Sheppard had a special affinity for were the people who were

"I really didn't expect that he would be the New Year's baby, especially with him being born on the third," said Tanner's father, Nick Carrow, 29.

Tanner's mom, 27-year-old Ashley Carrow of Boyne City, was due on Dec. 26.

At 1 a.m. on Jan. 3, she woke up and was having contractions.

"She woke me up and said, 'I think it's time. We have to go to the hospital,'" Nick said.

By 3 a.m., the couple was at Charlevoix Area Hospital where Ashley spent the next several hours having contractions.

After several hours of labor, doctors decided Tanner needed to be born via emergency c-section.

Tanner was born at 5:04 p.m. He weighed 8 pounds, 4 ounces.

"When I first saw him, I was just happy that he was healthy and everything worked out the way it did," Nick said.

This is the Carrows' second child.

Tanner has an older brother, Landon, 6, who was also born at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

"Mom is doing really great, pretty tired, but great," Nick said. "I think we're just anxious to get home and we're happy that everyone is healthy."

For being the first baby of the year born at the hospital, Tanner and his family were given a basket of goodies from the hospital's gift shop.

"working in the field" to protect the state's natural resources — especially Michigan Department of Natural Resources conservation officers, who would regularly stop by at his house to share stories about their work.

"He would talk about 'the field grunts,'" Bailey said. "I think he really identified with them because of his time in the Army."

And it wasn't just conservation officers and other media who paid attention to what Sheppard wrote.

Mary Lou, who was not only "Shep's" wife, but who also runs the business side of The Call, said it was common for Glen to chat with higher-ups in state government, including visits from governors and governor candidates.

"He did have a lot of influence," Mary Lou said. "He knew who to talk to. He always called himself a reporter instead of an editor.

"His dedication was to the state of Michigan, and especially Northern Michigan," Mary Lou said.

She said even in recent years, when his health kept him from enjoying the outdoors as much as he did in his younger years, a big window in front of his desk and a healthy supply of bird seed kept him connected with the nature he sought to protect.

"And he could still dial the phone," she added.

Mary Lou said she plans to carry on with publishing The North Woods Call as long as she can, but she's hoping to find someone to fill the void left by her husband.

"I'm 77 and I'm not and editor or a publisher. I'm the clerk," Mary Lou said. "It will be a little different, that's for sure. We have a lot of friends who have offered to help fill the pages. We're hoping to put out a paper next week."

But putting out Shep's last Call won't be easy.

"I have one column that he wrote before his death." Mary Lou said. "It will be his last Northwood Ramblings. I haven't read it yet myself. I haven't had the courage."

There are no funeral services planned for Glen, but Mary Lou said a memorial service will take place at a later date.

Besides Mary Lou, Glen is survived by a son, Craig (Jennifer) Sheppard of Watauga, Texas; daughters, Cindy Gardner (Marty Martin) of Oakley, Calif., Pam Alspaugh of Bellvue, Wash., Sherry Marshall of Midland, Jackie (Don) Anderson of Elk Rapids; 11 grandchildren; four great-grandchildren. He was preceded in death by his parents, Lewis and Nellie (Hilborn) Sheppard.

Memorial contributions may be made to Anglers of The AuSable, PO Box 200, Grayling, MI 49738.

CHRISTINA ROHN
STAFF WRITER

Officials at the tri-county Charlevoix-Cheboygan-Emmet Central Dispatch Authority said a problem at AT&T's central Petoskey office apparently was the cause of a nine-hour 9-1-1 emergency phone system outage last week

Officials say they are still unclear as to what caused the lines to go down at the authority's dispatch center south of Petoskey around 9 a.m. Thursday and continue through to 6 p.m.

"All we know is something at (AT&T's) central office in Petoskey broke - something went dark," 9-1-1 director Bob Bradley said Friday. "We'll probably get a fairly detailed report next week with all the 'techy wiz-bang' stuff."

Bradley said when the outage occurred, he and his employees completed an internal system check and determined that the problem wasn't on their end.

"We do everything we can on the inside to make (9-1-1) as bulletproof as we can," Bradley said. "This is an electronic computer system and it's going to break."

According to Bradley, 9-1-1 wasn't the only place having issues on Thursday. He said that Kmart and a nearby radio station were affected as well.

On Friday, Amy Grundman, a spokeswoman for AT&T, said company officials are still searching for answers as to the cause of the outage.

"We're still working to determine exactly what took place, and are working closely with our emergency personnel partners to learn from this disruption and to further enhance safety for consumers," Grundman said. "We apologize for any inconvenience."

According to Bradley, the 9-1-1 lines have gone down in the past. And he says, each time, they learn from the experience.

"If nothing else, it was a good training exercise for us," Bradley said. "It's all a learning process. No two outages are the same ... it gives us a chance to refine our process."

During the outage, all 9-1-1 calls coming from the tri-county area were re-routed to Antrim and Grand Traverse counties' 9-1-1 dispatch centers. Bradley said his office was in contact with both of agencies by radio throughout the day.

"The longer it went, the smoother and smoother it got," he said. "Overall, I think it went very well ... we tried our very best to keep everybody safe out there."

Bradley said he anticipates meeting with Antrim County dispatchers and AT&T this week to see if there are any improvements they can make in the event that another outage occurs.

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

ELLSWORTH — An Ellsworth Community School junior was seriously injured in a single-vehicle traffic crash near her hometown early Sunday.

Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider identified the injured as the driver, Sandra Dee McDonald, 16, of Ellsworth. Sandra was transported to Munson Medical Center by East Jordan Ambulance where she remained listed in critical condition Tuesday.

Schneider said Sandra was driving on Six Mile Lake Road about a mile north of Premore Road (just inside Charlevoix County's South Arm Township) when she lost control of the vehicle on the snow-covered roadway and struck a tree.

"A passerby found the vehicle and called it in. We don't know how long she was there," Schneider said.

Authorities said Sandra was trapped inside the vehicle and firefighters from the Banks Township Fire Department had to use extrication tools to free her from the wreckage.

Ellsworth Public School Superintendent confirmed that Sandra is "a very good" student at the school and noted that the monetary donations are being accepted at the school and at The Front Porch Cafe, located at 9235 Main St. in Ellsworth.

School officials also said that the school's senior and junior classes are working to plan a benefit dinner for Sandra's family, tentatively planned for the Front Porch Cafe on Saturday, Feb. 5. Details will be released when they are finalized.

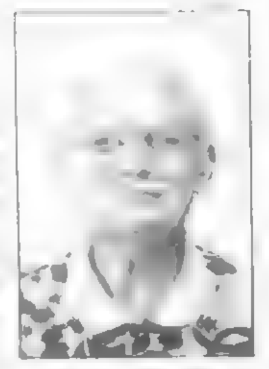
OPINIONS yours & ours

Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.

The language of politics: It's more than a game



EAR TO THE GROUND

Roger Knutson

The language we use to describe our world and our attitudes is important. It can direct what we feel about the subject addressed. Consider, for example, the different feelings associated with the two phrases "pro-life" and "anti-abortion."

There is a serious language-associated problem that we face almost every day in political reporting. It is the use of sports-related language to describe the political process.

In what is commonly called the political arena (sports language), media reports often suggest that one party or another is gaining "momentum" (sports language). When a critical piece of legislation is passed by our Congress, the media, both print and electronic, describe it as a win (sports language) for one party or another. Sometimes the President is described as winning (sports language) a legislative victory (sports language). It is almost as if he is the coach whom we can blame if the team doesn't win often enough. Losing coaches get fired, or if not fired, then spoken of as failures.

The most severe problem with the overuse of sports language is that it makes it easy for the citizens to consider themselves as only observers or fans of one party or another. Fans don't really participate in the game. They sit on the sidelines and cheer. Anyone running for office might be pleased to view voters as fans (remember that the origin of the word "fan" is the word "fanatic.") I don't wish our country to be operated by fanatics, nor have public servants elected to office by fanatics, especially if elected by only 51 percent of the fanatics.

In this sports analogy, the publicists and lobbyists are equivalent to cheerleaders, who try to make the crowd think that their team is the best, no matter what the team might be doing. It should be clear that publicists, lobbyists and cheerleaders don't deal in truth, they deal in hype. Lobbyists and publicists should not even be compared to cheerleaders. They are rather the hired flacks of powerful interests who have as their job, to hype their particular brand of truth, not to help the citizens.

Finally, why vote if you are only considered a fan? Cheering for your team is not an obligation, only a pleasant diversion.

I am a Democrat, not a fan of Democratic office-holders. I am not mindlessly loyal to Democratic office holders, like Chicago Cubs fans are mindlessly loyal. The President of the United States is not the coach of a particular party caucus, he is the elected leader of the whole country. Legislation should be considered in the light of its value to the whole country, not as a "win" for a particular "team." If we have two "teams" and "winning" has become the only consideration, we are in trouble. Sports language applied to politics is dangerous. Ignore it or reject it.

Draft master plan approved, will now go before city council

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Charlevoix city officials passed a major milestone in years-long effort to overhaul the city's long-outdated zoning ordinance Monday when the planning commission approve a draft update to the city's master plan.

The master plan was last updated about 30 years ago.

After many months of gathering community input, the planning commission unveiled its first draft of the plan at a public forum in June. Since then, the plan has been poked and prodded, molded and massaged into the version that the commission approved Monday.

The plan will now go before the Charlevoix City Council which will schedule another public hearing on it after which it can approve the plan as presented or send it back to the planning commission for further revision.

City planner Mike Spencer explained that a master plan is a comprehensive document that will help city leaders make both long- and short-term decisions in the coming months and years.

A big part of the plan is how the city's residents want to see land within the city utilized in the future. To that end, the plan includes a future land use map — which is the element of the plan that has generated the most public debate so far.

Spencer explained that the future land use map does not carry the weight of a zoning ordinance, but can, an generally should be used as a basis for creating — or in this case revising a city's zoning ordinance. (Updating the city's zoning ordinance will be the next big thing on the planning commission and Spencer's to-do list once the city council approves master plan.)

Spencer said recommendations for the future land use map have been drawn from examining existing uses for the various properties in the city and considering what the city's long term vision for a particular area of the city might be.

Spencer said the future land use map (and accordingly, the upcoming new zoning ordinance) will not have the exact same zoning classifications as the existing ordinance, which, in some cases adds to the complexities of drawing up the plan.

As planners drew up the proposed master plan, in many cases it was simply a case of classifying the property in the closest corresponding use to what the existing use or zoning is.

But in some cases changes are proposed. Some of the changes, Spencer said, are proposed because use no longer exists in that part of the city. For example, he pointed to the Andy's Party Store and an adjacent property that are still zoned industrial. He said the zoning dates back to when one of the buildings was used for milk production.

In other cases, the proposed changes grow out of a desire to streamline uses or create more continuity in a particular neighborhood.

One example of this, and an area that drew the most input from property owners was the area of U.S. 31, West Dixon and Pine River Lane. Although the properties in the area have essentially two current zoning designation (either commercial or high density housing), over the years a hodge-podge of uses has grown up there over the years. Everything from restaurants, hotel/condominiums, true condominiums, a bed-and-breakfast, single family homes, business and professional offices and parklands all dot the neighborhood.

The commission ultimately chose to designate most of the properties along U.S. 31 in that area as "mixed use." The Weathervane Restaurant was designated "central business district," the Weathervane Terrace was given a "hospitality commercial" designation and two properties to the immediate west were designated "high density residential."

Spencer also noted that the master plan contain more than simply redrawing and re-naming zoning designations

It also includes

— a community profile including summaries of its history, environment, demographics, existing land uses, "character areas," development, transportation, infrastructure, and other elements

— a community vision and goals section including a discussion on public involvement, "smart growth," visions and goals.

— a "Charlevoix Tomorrow" section that discusses areas such as community and neighborhood character, commercial development, employment areas, transportation, and community facilities

— a section on implementing the goals set out including priority projects, zoning analysis an "implementation matrix" and funding sources

Merit Network to host meeting on broadband Internet expansion

Representatives from the Merit Network have scheduled a community meeting to provide an introduction to the Charlevoix County communities on Merit's Broadband Stimulus Project, dubbed REACH-3MC.

The meeting will take place at 1 p.m. on Wednesday, Jan. 19, at the Charlevoix Public Library, 220 West Clinton St.

In 2010, Merit Network, Inc. received two federal grants from funds allocated through the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) of 2009, totaling more than $100 million for Merit's broadband project, REACH-3MC.

Merit officials described The Rural, Education, Anchor, Community and Health care – Michigan Middle Mile Collaborative (REACH-3MC) as a collaboration that will build much needed broadband infrastructure in many parts of the state. The first grant for $33.3 million will enable the construction of a 1,017 mile open-access network in Michigan's Lower Peninsula. The second grant for $69.6 million will be used to add an additional 1,270 miles of fiber-optic infrastructure in Northern Lower and Upper Peninsulas of Michigan. REACH-3MC is middle-mile infrastructure project funded through a program of the National Telecommunications and Information Administration (NTIA).

Merit Network structured the REACH-3MC project to include several sub-recipients, organizations that can leverage the new infrastructure to improve broadband access to homes and businesses along the route.

The route for REACH-3MC will bring this fiber build to the Charlevoix County area. During the Jan. 19 meeting, representatives from Merit Network will introduce the plans for this project and answer questions on how the community can take advantage of this high-speed network.

The meeting is open to the public and interested parties may register for this meeting at www.merit.edu/meritformichigan/meetings/

For more information on the REACH-3MC project go to www.merit.edu/meritformichigan/

EJ's Snow-blast marks 30th year

RACHEL BROUGHAM
NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

EAST JORDAN — From flying pancakes and bowling on Main Street, to snowmobile drag races and a chili cook-off, there's a reason hundreds of people attend the annual Sno-blast in East Jordan each year.

"This is our 30th year of Sno-blast. It's just a great celebration of winter," said Shannon Fender from the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce.

The 30th annual Sno-blast will take place on Friday, Jan. 14, through Sunday, Jan. 16, in East Jordan.

Each year, the event draws between 800 to 1,200 people to its events for all ages.

One of the most popular events each year is the snowmobile drag races on Saturday.

"The drag races always draw quite a crowd," Fender said.

The drag races begin with a radar run at 9 a.m., followed by the races at 11 a.m.

For those looking for competitive events without the sleds, there is a pancake toss at 11 a.m. on Saturday and a softball game in the snow at 1 p.m.

"The pancake toss is always a family favorite," Fender explained. "The pancakes are frozen and it's kind of like competing in discus for different age groups."

The festival kicks off on Friday with some new events, including a business expo from 4-7 p.m. at the East Jordan Civic Center.

"New this year is Friday Night on Main Street, which includes hayrides and local businesses will be open later and we have some events lined up for the kids," Fender said.

The East Jordan Sno-Mobilers Club will feature a chili dinner beginning at 4:30 p.m.

Crowning ceremonies for the Belle of the Blizzard and Winter Knight will be at 6 p.m. at the East Jordan Civic Center.

"Sno-blast is always a great time, especially in the winter when there might not be that much to do," Fender said. "It's a great time for families and those of all ages."

County offers veterans new ID cards

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

Charlevoix County is now honoring veterans in a way that helps them receive benefits for their sacrifices.

The county recently started printing a veterans identification card for veterans to present at local stores and restaurants where discounts are available.

"There are different places around the country and around the area that give discounts to veterans, places like restaurants and stores, but most want to see a photo ID," said John Hess, Charlevoix County Veterans Affairs director.

Some veterans already hold a federal Veterans Affairs card, but most acquire them to receive government treatment for a medical disability. The county card won't provide veterans with medical services, but it will provide them with identification to prove their veteran status and is easier to acquire.

"Many veterans in the area don't have ID cards and can't take advantage of the discounts. The (county) card will help them with that," Hess said.

To receive the county VA card all a veteran has to do is bring a copy of their official DD-214 (certificate of release or discharge from military active duty) to the county Veterans Affairs Office in the Charlevoix County Building and fill out a one-page form.

"After they've filled out the paperwork in the VA office they bring it to me and I print off the cards," said Brian Kelly, Geographic Information Systems coordinator for Charlevoix County.

According to Hess, it's more complicated to acquire a federal Veterans Affairs card and it takes longer to receive, but it starts at the same place in the county Veterans Affairs Office.

"We can help veterans receive the (federal) card, too. They have to bring in their DD-214 and fill out a three-page form. Then the form is sent to Saginaw to confirm their veteran status. After that comes back they go to Gaylord to get their photo taken and get their card. It's a more elongated process and we try to streamline it for the county card," Hess said.

Many stores and restaurants provide discounts to veterans and according to Kelly he would eventually like to put a listing of all those businesses on their website, but until then veterans should ask and present their county card.

"You should always ask about veterans' discounts when you are at a store. A lot of them have discounts, but don't advertise them," Hess said.

So far the county has issued only about 15 of the new cards, but would like to have more veterans come in to take advantage.

"The main benefit of the card is discounts, but it's not something that is simply given to veterans, it's something they've earned through their sacrifice," Hess said.

For more information about the county Veterans Affairs card or other VA benefits contact John Hess at (231) 547-7220.

Business After Hours –January 19th

It is a fact that companies who do not network are missing out on an opportunity to maintain their business relationships as well as an opportunity to tap into a rich stream of new contacts that can make them more successful! Join the Chamber and your colleagues at Business After Hours (BAH) hosted the third Wednesday of each month from 5 to 7pm.

January's BAH is scheduled for January 19th from 5 to 7pm at Grey Gables Restaurant and is brought to you by Petoskey News Review. It is free for Chamber Members or $10 for General Admission. Introducing the New & Improved Biz Breakfast

With a new year, there are many resolutions. Why not make one of yours to attend the First Friday Biz Breakfasts? Hosted the first Friday of each month from 7:30 to 8:30am, it is an excellent way to start your day! Providing you with Chamber and City updates and a special guest presentation at each event, attendees also have the opportunity to network and make invaluable contacts.

New this year is a new format! Like Business After Hours, the First Friday Biz Breakfast will now move locations each month. February 4th's Biz Breakfast will be hosted at Stafford's Weathervane Restaurant from 7:30 to 8:30am. The morning's event is brought to you by the Charlevoix Public Library.

Another new addition to Biz Breakfast is the Biz Breakfast Punch Pass. In an effort to assist in eliminating the morning hustle and bustle, the Charlevoix Chamber is excited to introduce to you the Biz Breakfast Punch Pass. For just $56, it includes 8 breakfasts plus one free and eliminates the need for receipts/invoices. A perk of becoming a card carrier is that it is based off of the number served. This means that if two people from your business attend the same breakfast, the same card can be punched. The only restriction is that it is valid from February 4 through December 2, 2011.

So, what are you waiting for? Pencil in the First Friday Biz Breakfast dates and pick up your Punch Pass today! To purchase your Punch Pass or to learn more, contact the Charlevoix Chamber at 547.2101 or info@charlevoix.org.

East JordanArea Chamber to host annual meeting Jan. 29

Event typically draws more than 200 people

The East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce's annual dinner and auction will take place on Saturday, Jan. 29, at Castle Farms in Charlevoix.

Second only to the membership dues revenue, the annual auction fundraiser is a critical part of the Chamber's operating budget, chamber of commerce officials said. The meeting also includes the chamber's annual awards presentations.

Chamber officials hope to compile the list of all auction items and donations into the auction booklet by Jan. 21.

To reserve space at the dinner or to make a donation to the auction, contact the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce at (231) 536-7351.

The cost to attend the event, which includes a sit-down dinner and the auctions, is $40 per person. Reservation need to be made for the event no later than Wednesday, Jan. 19.

New East Jordan siren will warn residents of danger

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF WRITER

EAST JORDAN — A high-tech siren is being installed at the new East Jordan Emergency Services building to alert residents of pending danger in the area.

The East Jordan emergency staff is busy working the kinks out of the new siren system, but when it's up and running it will allow firefighters to activate the alarm from anywhere in town to alert citizens of emergency.

"The siren is on the pole behind the (emergency services building) now, but we're working on replacing some parts to get it going," said Glen Thorman, East Jordan fire chief.

The former siren, which is more than 50 years old, is located by city hall. According to Thorman, it used to be the only means of notifying the firemen there was a fire emergency. After they advanced to using phones and pagers,. the siren still sounded, but to alert citizens that there was a fire so they would be aware trucks would be coming through town.

"When we get the new siren working it will be synchronized with the one in the middle of town. They will go off together when there has been a tornado spotted in the area," Thorman said.

For tornadoes the alarm will be a steady high-pitched squeal that will sound for three minutes then will shut off for a few minutes before sounding again. This will repeat several times.

"When there's a tornado watch we scatter trucks at high points around town to look for tornadoes," Thorman said.

When a tornado is spotted any of the firefighters will be able to activate the siren remotely from his or her hand-held radio. The new system will also allow workers at Central Dispatch in Petoskey to activate the siren.

The siren will be operational later this month and a test alarm will be sounded to make sure it's working properly. Emergency crews will advertise the test before it takes place so citizens know it's only a test and do not panic.

"We'll also do annual tests of the system, which usually takes place on the first Saturday of April at noon," Thorman said.

Other than during system tests the only time the alarm at the emergency services building will sound will be for severe weather and people should take cover when they hear it.

The alarm in town will still be sounded every day at 9:30 p.m. to announce the city's curfew and for a severe weather warning, but will no longer sound when there is a fire.

Geography experts

Charlevoix Middle School was buzzing with activity the week leading up to holiday break as students prepared for the school's first-ever geography bee. The school's social studies teachers administered the preliminary rounds with the final round taking place in a game show atmosphere in the gym on Dec. 17. The competition was tough, but ultimately eighth grader Nate Moon was crowned champion. Nate now has the option of taking a qualifying test in hopes of competing at the state level for a trip to Washington D.C. and a $25,000 scholarship. The 10 finalists for the first-ever Charlevoix Middle School Spelling Bee were front (from left) Zack Crandal and Phil Conway; back, (from left), Kara Simpson, Brendan Fralick, Cedar Strzyzewski, Champion Nate Moon, Mason Louiselle, Runner up Nate Lindfors, Ben Boss, and Montana Thompson.

Smart Financial Moves for New Parents

If you've just had a new baby, your life is filled with more joy (but less sleep). You're probably already aware of the time and effort you must invest in raising your child, but you may not have thought as much about another aspect — the financial one. Consider this: The average cost of raising a child to age 17 is now $222,360, according to a U.S. Department of Agriculture report on how much middle-income, two-parent families spend on their offspring. And this is the amount you might spend before your son or daughter heads to college. Clearly, you need to start making the financial moves necessary to take your child from diapers to a degree. Here are some suggestions for doing just that:

- Purchase sufficient life insurance. When it was just you and your spouse, it was a good idea for you to have life insurance — but now that you have a child, it's an absolute necessity. If you have any doubts about the value of life insurance, just look again at that $222,360 figure above, and then tack on the costs of four years of college. If you or your spouse were to die unexpectedly, would the survivor earn enough to raise and educate your child? In this day and age, that's not likely — so make sure you have adequate life insurance in place.
- Prepare a will. Obviously, you hope to enjoy a long life — one in which you see your child grow to adulthood. But none of us can predict the future, so it's essential that you draw up a will to provide for the care of your child, both financially and physically. When you create a will, you can name a guardian to step in and take care of your child, if necessary, and you can make sure your child receives your financial assets. However, many people go beyond writing a will and establish a living trust, which gives them more control over how and when they want their assets distributed. Your legal advisor can help you prepare a will and determine if a living trust is appropriate for your needs.
- Maintain adequate cash. To help pay for all those expenses related to child rearing, keep enough cash on hand. By having enough resources available in liquid accounts, you can avoid having to dip into your long-term investments to pay for short-term needs.
- Save early and often for college. It's never too soon to start saving for the high costs of higher education. A 529 plan is a tax-advantaged vehicle and may be a great option for your college savings. Contributions to a 529 plan are made with after-tax dollars, and have the opportunity to grow tax-free. Withdrawals used for qualified higher education expenses are also tax free. Furthermore, your 529 plan contributions may be eligible for a state tax deduction or credit depending on the plan and state.
- Stay balanced. As we've seen, it takes a lot of money to raise a child. But even as you're meeting these expenses, think about your own future, particularly your retirement. Strive to strike a balance between the money you spend on your child and the amount you invest in your 401(k), IRA and other retirement-savings vehicles.

You can't put a price-tag on your child's future, but when it comes to taking care of that child, you'll want to know the costs involved — and be prepared for them.

SOCCER

Rayder's Myers headed to Clemson

STEVE FOLEY
NEWS-REVIEW
SPORTS WRITER

Often times in life, it's not a matter of what you know, but who you know.

Luckily for Charlevoix High School soccer standout Ben Myers, he knows some pretty good people in the collegiate soccer community.

That, and it helps Myers simply knows how to play the game.

Following an outstanding prep career with the Rayders that saw him become the school's all-time leader in goals and points, Myers made a verbal commitment to play for Clemson in the always-strong Atlantic Coast Conference in mid-December.

Myers, a two-time Division III All-State first-team selection who finished with 32 goals and 47 points last season, plans to officially sign with the Tigers in February.

"I'm really excited," said Myers, who's been playing for Vardar - a metro-Detroit-based high-caliber travel team - in the offseason. "It's nice to have the pressure off of recruiting and just focus on the rest of my senior year and enjoy it."

Myers, who concluded his stellar career with the Rayders with 87 goals and 67 assists over four seasons, received plenty of recruiting and other college advice from Anders Kelto, a former Traverse City Central standout and former Brown University assistant coach who has been in contact with Myers for about a decade.

"He's a personal friend of mine and being a big player from Traverse City I felt really good with him and felt I could be honest with him," Myers said. "I know it's going to be hard and I'll have to work my way up, but it's where I want to be. At Clemson, I'll be playing at the highest level and I'll be working hard this summer to get there."

> "It's just been amazing, I've gotten e-mails from ESPN wanting to know about me being from Charlevoix,"

Clemson, under first-year coach Mike Noonan, is looking to reclaim some of its former glory. The Tigers won NCAA national titles in 1984 and '87. Last season, they finished 5-11-4.

"The recruiting process was really, really stressful for me deciding upon schools," added Myers, who was also considering Michigan State and the University of Denver as his final choices. "Being pressured and having some schools say they'd take my scholarship away if I didn't commit was stressful.

"I just kept my patience and kept my patience and when I was in Arizona, I played in a big showcase and had some big colleges to look at me like Clemson. They made me an offer and I took it."

Townsend scored a goal in Maryland's 2-1 ACC tournament win over Clemson last season, and could potentially declare for the MLS draft.

"I'm really excited to just be moving on," Myers said. "To just finish out my senior year here in Charlevoix and to be home with my friends is huge. I was living in the Detroit area, but I decided to come back because I missed by friends and I wanted to enjoy my senior year and play basketball.

"Soccer and basketball kind of feed off each other. There's a lot of the same muscle groups you're using."

Myers played under his father, Tom, until the age of 14 and then played for now Harbor Springs High School coach Ed Fantozzi for two seasons.

"It's just been amazing, I've gotten e-mails from ESPN wanting to know about me being from Charlevoix," Myers said. "Ed Fantozzi really helped develop me into a travel player and I really thrived in his environment. That and if it wasn't for Vardar, I wouldn't be going anywhere.

"Playing on Vardar was really key because otherwise I wouldn't have had any exposure. I'm excited to just be playing at the highest level because that's been my goal and I want to make it come true."

Skiing: Rayders take 4th, 5th in season opener

HARBOR SPRINGS — The Charlevoix-East Jordan ski boys ski team took fourth and the girls took fifth in the season-opening meet in Harbor Springs Thursday.

The Harbor girls finished first with 42 points, while Traverse City St. Francis-Manistee was second, 71; and Boyne City third, 87. Grayling was fourth with 133, followed by Charlevoix-East Jordan, 155; and Elk Rapids, 199.

Harbor won the boys' event with 45 points, while T.C. St. Francis-Manistee was second, 48; and Boyne City third, 85. Charlevoix-East Jordan was fourth, 133; followed by Grayling, 148; and Elk Rapids, 197.

"It was a great way to start the season with both the boys and girls teams both winning our first league meet," Harbor coach Jane Ramer said. "Both teams have been working very hard."

The Harbor boys were paced by senior Drake Doherty, who won the slalom in 50.5 seconds and was runner-up in giant slalom to T.C. St. Francis-Manistee's Stephen Siddall, who finished in 52.68 seconds. Doherty came in at 53.6.

Harbor's Abigial Hackman won the girls' slalom in 56.88, while T.C. St. Francis-Manistee's Nathalie Kenny won the GS in 55.81.

Brian Shutler led the Charlevoix-East Jordan boys as he was sixth in GS, 12th slalom, while Paul Stolt was ninth in slalom, 13th GS. Jonathon Lindfors was 22nd slalom, 22nd GS, followed by Tyler Engstrom, 23rd slalom, 30th GS; and Tag MacCreddie, 26th GS.

Harbor Springs, Boyne City and Charlevoix-East Jordan all competed in the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Invitational on Monday, Jan. 10 at Boyne Highlands. Results were not available before press time.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Rayder girls break 4-game losing streak

Jenna Way led all scorers with 18 points, Lynzie Gotshall finished with 12, and Sydney Carlson dished out six assists for the Rayders.

"Tonight's game was a big confidence boost for the girls," Charlevoix coach Leslie Hoffman said. "We were able to shoot well from the floor, and play solid defense."

The Rayders improved to 2-5 overall, 1-1 league. Halee Bouton had six points to lead Boyne, 1-6, 0-2.

Earlier in the week, on Wednesday, Jan. 5, Saint Ignace handed the Rayders a similarly lopsided loss 69-22 in a non-leauge contest.

Megan Peters scored six points to lead the Rayders.

Wisconsin-bound Nicole Elmbald score 18 points, Grace Wheeler had 17 and Sarah Cullip added 14 to lead the Saints.

St. Ignace won the JV game, 63-28. Katie Hybl scored 13 points to lead Charlevoix.

BOYS BASKETBALL

Rayders bounce back in convincing fashion

BOYNE CITY — Charlevoix's Brennen Ackerman scored 18 points and grabbed nine rebounds Friday as the Rayders remained unbeaten in the Lake Michigan Conference with a 63-38 boys' basketball victory over Boyne City.

The win comes after the Rayders suffered their first loss of the season to Suttons Bay earlier in the week on Tuesday, Jan. 4.

"The final score did not tell the whole story," Charlevoix coach Adam Wood said. "Boyne City is a tough physical team, but our defense kept their key players in check throughout the game."

Charlevoix improved to 4-1 overall, 2-0 in the league; Boyne fell to 3-2 , 1-1.

For the Ramblers, Caleb Roberts dropped in 18.

"Our effort was outstanding in the first half," Boyne coach Nick Redman said. "We just didn't shoot the ball well in the second half and we need to learn to be more patient on the offensive end and get better looks.

"It was a great atmosphere though. The gym was packed, it was exciting and it was a game that let us know where we stand."

On Tuesday, Jan 4, the Rayders' bounced fell 73-58 in a non-leauge loss to Suttons Bay.

Michigan State-bound Dwaun Anderson scored 30 points and Suttons Bay outscored the Rayders, 41-28 en-route to their victory over Charlevoix.

Charlevoix, which was 3-0 prior to the game, trailed 32-30 at halftime and surged to a five-point lead early in the third quarter. But the Norse responded, and Charlevoix never recovered.

"Going in, we knew we'd have to play 32 good minutes," first-year Charlevoix coach Adam Wood said. "We played maybe 2 1/2 solid quarters. We learned what it means to play 32 minutes.

"We did see some good things. In the end, it was a good experience for us and if we're fortunate enough to see them down the road in the regionals, we know we can play with them."

Keegan LaBlance and Boog Nitchman scored 14 points apiece to lead the Rayders, while Brennan Ackerman added 12.

Charlevoix won the JV game, 67-41. Charlie Hamilton scored 16 points and Tanner Catt added 12 for the Rayders.

State of the community

Leaders say community doing well despite challenges

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

We're doing pretty well, in spite of the tough times — that was the common message among the community leaders who spoke at the first-ever Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce State of the Community luncheon Wednesday.

The event, which took place at the Charlevoix Public Library, included messages from Charlevoix Mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson, Charlevoix Superintendent of Schools Chet Janik, Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners Chairman Joel Evans, chamber president, Erin Bemis and Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau director Lauren Brumley.

Carlson noted that despite cutting $500,000 from the budget last year, the city was still able to make $1 million in infrastructure improvements, implement new contracts for fire and EMS services, and completed several conservation-related projects which included $90,000 in grants.

He said looking forward, as the city has begun working on its budget for next year, no service reductions or tax increases are expected. He pointed to infrastructure projects for the coming year including Meech Street and continuation of water line replacement on Bridge Street. Other major ongoing efforts he highlighted included the pending revision to the city's master plan, which will be followed by an overhaul of the city's zoning ordinance. A new parks and recreation master plan is also on the to-do list.

Carlson highlighted one change that will be taking place on April 1 when the city will be taking over all operations at the Charlevoix Municipal Airport. Currently Island Airways serves as a "fixed-base operator" at the airport which means it handles much of the day-to-day general operations functions at the airport, such as selling fuel, maintenance, cleaning, and other functions.

Carlson said the move, which is expected to require an initial capital outlay to purchase some fuel and equipment and the hiring of some staff, is intended to make the airport more self-sufficient and eventually eliminate the need for the general fund to help pay for its operation.

City treasurer Rick Brandi told the Courier Thursday, that the city is not planning any significant changes to airport operations, for the most part, typical airport users will likely not see any difference once the city takes over operations.

From a tourism business climate standpoint, Brumley of the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau said despite the sluggish economy, the area saw a 7.3 percent increase in overnight stays last year and a whopping 233 percent increase in overnight tour group (motorcoach) visits during the year. She attributed much of the increase to efforts in marketing directed at the tour groups.

Reporting on the host organization's status, Chamber president Erin Bemis said she's noticed an increase in a positive outlook among the business community and sees that as a sign that the economy is on its way to recovery.

She highlighted the chamber being named the 2010 Outstanding Chamber of Commerce Award in the Mid-Size Chamber Category by the Michigan Association of Chamber Professionals. She also pointed to several new programs the chamber has initiated recently including

Ellsworth student still critical as community plans fundraiser

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

ELLSWORTH — An Ellsworth Community School junior remains hospitalized in critical condition more than a week after she sustained serious injuries in a one-vehicle traffic crash near her hometown.

Sandra Dee McDonald, 16, of Ellsworth was sustained the injuries in a crash that was reported shortly after midnight on Sunday, Jan. 9. Police said Sandra was driving on Six Mile Lake Road about a mile north of Premore Road (just inside Charlevoix County's South Arm Township) when she lost control of the vehicle on the snow-covered roadway and struck a tree.

Firefighters had to use extrication tools to free Sandra from the wreckage. She was transported by ambulance to Munson Medical Center where she remained listed in critical condition Tuesday.

Members of the community have since organized several fundraising efforts to help Sandra's family defray some of the costs associated with her medical care.

Cash donations are being accepted for the family in an account set up in their name at Charlevoix State Bank (any location).

A silent auction and spaghetti dinner benefit has also been scheduled for 4:30-7:30 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 5, at the Ellsworth Elementary School. Suggested donations for the dinner are $7 for adults, $5 for children and kids under 3 are free. Anyone wishing to make a donation for the silent should contact Jessica Pletcher at (231) 588-2544, ext. 11.

Students at the school have also organized a returnable pop can drive and will be organizing several smaller fundraising efforts at upcoming events and home athletic contests.

School board: new officers and meeting times

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

The Charlevoix Public Schools Board of Education recently swore in two new members, elected its officers for the year and made a change to the days and times that it will conduct its regular monthly meetings.

At its first meeting of the new year on Jan. 10, new board members Glen Catt and Nancy Allison were sworn in. Catt and Allison replace outgoing board members Jeff Stevens and Larry Levengood, who chose not to seek re-election in November. Catt ran unopposed for Stevens' seat while Allison won a three-way race for the partial term remaining on the seat that Levengood held.

The board reelected John McLean as board president. (McLean also ran unopposed to reclaim his seat on the board in November), The board also elected Bo Boss as vice-president and Valerie Snyder as secretary/treasurer.

The board also voted to change its regular monthly meetings from 7 p.m. on the second Monday of the month to 6 p.m. on the third Monday of the month.

Meeting will continue to take place in the large group room at the Charlevoix Middle School.

The next regular board meeting is scheduled to take place at 6 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 21.

the state of the community event, an upcoming first-ever business expo and education programs such as "Chamber 101" grant workshops and other seminars.

Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners Joel Evans told the audience that tough economic times have forced many belt-tightening measures at the county level as well. He praised the county staff members for performing well under the difficult circumstances of being asked to do more with less.

Evans said he sees a silver lining among all the dark economic clouds: The lean times have forced people and government in particular -- to learn how to operate more efficiently. He said he's hopeful that the lessons in thrift learned during the downturn will translate into continued savings when more prosperous times return.

Perhaps the least sunny report came from Janik from the Charlevoix Public Schools. He said the district continues to face great uncertainty in its financial future, despite major cuts it made prior to this school year. He said its unclear at this point if more cuts may be needed in the future. However, he said despite all the challenges presented by the budget cuts, students in the district continue to succeed and post top-notch state test scores.

Benefit planned for man recovering from eye injury

Community members are planning a benefit event for an East Jordan-area man who is recovering from an eye injury he sustained while working.

Organizers said recently Marvin Christner suffered an injury to his left eye while on a construction job. What was initially thought to be only a minor problem, ended up requiring surgery to remove the eye's lens. For now he is light sensitive, but unable to see.

Organizers report it may be several months before doctors can perform another surgery to put the lens back in which will hopefully restore his vision

A benefit dinner and silent auction to help cover Christner's medical expenses are scheduled for 4:30-7:30 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 21, at the Community Reformed Church in Charlevoix. A donation of $7 per adult and $5 per child under 5 is suggested.

A benefit fund has also been established at Charlevoix State Bank for those who are unable to attend but wish to donate. For more information contact Mary Berg at (231) 622-3731 or Angela Reynolds at (231) 675-3356.

Northern Michigan Chorale accepting registrations for spring concert

Registration for the Spring Concert of the Northern Michigan Chorale will take place from 6-7 p.m. on Monday, Jan. 24, and Monday, Jan. 31, at the Petoskey High School vocal music room. Parking is in the rear lot behind the High School. Rehearsals are from 7-9 p.m.

Choral director Peter D. Sims said the concert will be titled "Northern Michigan Chorale: By Request."

Explaining the title, Sims said, "After serving as the director of the Northern Michigan Chorale for the last six years, I wanted to give the singers themselves, an opportunity to choose the music that they have most enjoyed singing during my tenure. After voting, we've trimmed it down to nine wonderful selections, several of which are medleys that encompass numerous songs. The repertoire will range from George Gershwin to Rodgers and Hammerstein, Andrew Lloyd Webber to Paul Simon, with some Motown and patriotic tunes thrown in, too. Several of our soloists will also be featured."

The concerts will take place on May 6 and May 8 at the Harbor Springs Performing Arts Center."

The Chorale is a community chorus, with members ranging in age from high school students through adults. As a member, singers become part of a 90-plus voice choral group. Auditions are not necessary to join.

A membership fee for new members is $20, and family is $35. High School students pay $10. A music fee of $10 is also collected from new members. Students from North Central Michigan College, taking Chorale as Music 101, Chorale I for credit, will pay the music fee only. The contact person at the college is Judith King. For information, call Janada Chingwa at (231) 347-1618 or Larry Gerold at (231) 838-1757.

Countdown to the end of time-or is it?

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

There has been overwhelming sadness in the news about senseless shootings, floods, mudslides and even dead birds falling from the skies. One would think our life on this planet is ending as I write this. Well, in essence it is, so to speak, but to try to pinpoint a date and time, for me, is ludicrous. I am not about to confirm Dec. 21, 2012 as the date to have my things in order and the floors vacuumed. If all things cease to exist on a given date there is no need to pack, clean, or hoard water because you won't be around to worry about it. If you took this ending date to heart, you might purchase that condo in Hawaii you've been thinking about because you believe credit cards and passed due bills won't exist after 2012. This thinking might lead some to making very poor choices.

We can be easily influenced by the media, charismatic prophets and literature. I remember the first time I read George Orwell's 1984. I thought surely I was being watched by "Big Brother." Though this novel referred to government watching, to my benefit, it did curb some of my teenage actions because my parents told me eyes were everywhere. Later in life I volunteered with Big Brothers/Big Sisters realizing it carried a whole new meaning — not someone watching but someone caring. When I finished reading Celestine Prophecy, I would argue with my intellectual father that I knew what was going to happen in the end times and the Mayans had it right and if I follow vegetarianism it would bring me closer to a deity. Well, the veggie diet did one thing: it brought my cholesterol level down and gave me renewed energy. What brought me closer to a deity was my own faith.

It's a great thing having freedom of the press and freedom of speech but it's also important to come to your own conclusions after sifting through your information. Coming to any decision of when or how the world will end after reading and hearing information is similar to what you would do while listening to a debate or gleaning information while listening to an attorney making their closing remarks. Sort through, see what makes sense, what doesn't, have faith, know that you can't control everything and then make decisions which include purposeful thought and acceptance.

I am saddened that wonderful people have not been given the ability to live out their lives because someone mentally ill decided otherwise. I feel helpless to give the amount of aid necessary to help so many families who have lost homes and businesses to natural and man-made disasters. We read and listen to doomsday prophesies because there is an inordinate amount of events occurring around us. It's winter in Northern Michigan and dark days and long nights don't need gloomy prophecies. Weigh the information you hear and try not to obsess about the end times which, in my lifetime, has been predicted at least five different times and has failed to come to fruition.

Our focus should be on caring for each other, providing help immediately for those with mental illness, not be afraid to confront situations that will aid others and provide assistance where you see adversity present. We need to be cognizant of our own behavior and if we are unhappy with decisions being made for us than speak up and behave respectfully to make change. None of us will live forever and unfortunately some of us are gone too soon. Each day is a gift and with it comes renewed hope. To live life fully, appreciative and respectful of each other and our surroundings is a much better mind set than trying to figure out when end times will arrive. To put a positive spin on this, writer Richard Bach came to mind. He once said "What the caterpillar calls the end of the world, the master calls a butterfly."

SAY 'THANKS' TO A SCHOOL BOARD MEMBER THIS MONTH

Editor:

I recently read an article that described school board of education members as having the most important volunteer jobs in the state of Michigan while facing some of the toughest challenges. Just like in many communities, the Charlevoix board is represented by seven people that have demonstrated extraordinary dedication to our children and their academic learning.

The role of the school board is to promote the district's vision, mission and goals, develop policies to achieve them; encourage continuous improvement in student learning, ensure schools are accountable to the community; and advocate at the local, state, and federal levels in support of public education.

Our local school board is responsible for the learning of approximately 1,100 students. They oversee an annual budget of more than $10 million and provide employment for more than 100 people who work in our district. Most critically, school board members make decisions which affect our children for the rest of their lives.

In recognition of their dedicated service, January is designated School Board Recognition Month in Michigan. Sometime during this month, please take time to thank the members of our school board for their efforts on behalf of our community and its children.

The individuals serving as members of the Charlevoix School Board for 2011 are: John McLean (president), Bo Boss (vice-president), Valerie Snyder (secretary\treasurer), Kevin Pearsall, Mike Pearsall, Glen Catt and Nancy Allison. We all should be grateful for each person's dedication and their many hours of service to our schools.

Sincerely, Chet Janik
Superintendent
Charlevoix Public Schools

LOOKING FOR ANSWERS ON GAS PRICE DIFFERENCES

Editor:

I'm curious why gas prices per gallon in Charlevoix are the same as metro Detroit in the winter, but during the summer the cost is usually 30 cents per gallon higher. Can someone please justify these prices for me? I realize the price in the summer benefits the gas station owners, but certainly must discourage the locals and shock our visitors.

MARINES SAY 'THANKS' TO TOYS FOR TOTS SUPPORTERS

Editor:

The member of the Charlevoix community who are members of the Northern Michigan Marine Corps League want to personally thank all the caring people who contributed to the success of the recent Toys for Tots Christmas project. The project was made possible with the help of many volunteers who gave food, toys and warm hats and gloves. Thanks to the community and businesses who helped promote the project and gave generously by letting us put collection boxes in their stores. Thanks to the Charlevoix Courier for publicity, the churches that provided space and volunteers for arranging and distributing the toys, gloves, hats and food. The Marines, Ken Staley, Charlie Butcher, George Wahl and Russ Bolt, collected, 1,350 toys that went to 450 children fro 210 families in the Charlevoix area.

We hope as a community you will be proud that you were able to give a merry Christmas to so many. Thank you all so much. You really are good and caring people and we will see you next year.

Sincerely, Russell Bolt

Public hearings on master plan, budget set

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Charlevoix city officials have set public hearings for two of its most notable documents — a major revision to the city's master plan and the city's annual budget.

At its regular semi-monthly meeting Monday, the Charlevoix City Council set a public hearing for a proposed major revision of the city's master plan for 7 p.m., Monday, Feb. 7, at city hall.

On Monday, Jan. 12, the city planning commission voted to recommend approval of the revision to the city council. City officials have been working on the revision for many months. The plan was last updated about 30 years ago.

The council also set public hearings on a proposed final revision to its 2010-11 budget and the proposed budget for the 2011-12 fiscal year, which begins on April 1. Those public hearings have been set for 7 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 21, also at city hall. At the same meeting the council plans to consider amending its fee schedule for the coming year.

(The Courier will have a preview of the proposed budget in an upcoming edition.)

In other business, the council gave city manager Rob Straebel their blessing to pursue a grant from great Lakes Energy to design, and potentially install a disc golf course at the Mount McSauba Recreation Area.

Straebel said city staff estimates the project could cost about $4,300, the city's match for which might be about $1,000.

The council also approved a five-year agreement with the Lake Charlevoix Mariners youth sailing program to base its operation (including moor its boats) at the city's Depot Beach. As part of their request, organization official have help monitor other boats that might be moored in the area without authorization.

The council approved spending $11,865.08 on brackets and cut-outs (similar to fuses) for the city's electrical system. City officials said the new cut-outs will replace existing porcelain cut-outs which have been going bad causing power outages and utility pole fires.

The council also approved an agreement with the Federal Aviation Administration and the Michigan Department of Transportation for the second of two phase for the ongoing master plan study for the Charlevoix Municipal Airport. Under the agreement, estimated total cost of the project is expected to be $167,509 with the FAA the paying $159,134, the state paying $4,187 and the city paying $4,188. The airport master plan must be completed before the city will be permitted to move forward with the construction phase of its planned terminal expansion project at the airport, which the city hopes to begin in 2012.

The lake view homes, located on the other side of Beach Drive (a public road), shared the public lakefront land with the other residents of Pinepoint. Between the road and the lake there is a considerable amount of land going from the road to Lake Charlevoix banks. For decades, this land has been used by all Pinepoint residents for boating, kite flying, firework gazing, etc. At one time there was even a boat launch.

Over the years, homes in Pinepoint were bought and sold based on the fact that homeowners could have a dock, or share a dock with someone else in the neighborhood which was controlled by the Pinepoint Association.

Unfortunately, this system will come to an end based on a recent Michigan Supreme Court ruling that the aforementioned land was not for public use. I find this particularly disturbing because, if you talk to anyone who has owned property since at least the 1950s, that certainly was not the intent.

This has been a devastating shock to the Pinepoint subdivision. The cost to fight this lawsuit came as a tremendous expense to many of these back lot dock owners.

According to the definition of riparian rights, this road-to-bank county road property was not part of the front lot owner's properties in the plat when they purchased their homes.

Obviously, the back lot owners, their lawyers, and the road commission did not expect the lakeview owners to win the lawsuit because of the facts outlined. However, even after the front lot owners lost the first couple court rulings, they had the money to continue and successfully appealed the case to the Michigan Supreme Court.

I have no idea what will happen with the approximately 17 shared docks. Most of these docks were there decades before the current front lot owners purchased their property. This court decision gives these front lot owners, in some cases, an enormous amount of extra lake front property which they did not pay for and on which they have only paid taxes as lakeview, not lakefront owners. Will the rest of us see our home values decrease? We will see.

We have owned our property in Pinepoint for almost 40 years. We have utilized it as a summer home, and rental property. Our sons have wonderful summer memories, and now I watch my grandchildren experience the same. This new development makes us reflect on a lifetime of those incredible memories, and very sad to see our grandchildren grow up in a world of greed.

Commissioners consider meeting cuts to save money

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners is looking at eliminating some of the meetings commissioners attend across the county to save taxpayer money.

The commissioners regularly attend meetings of different committees to make sure they are informed and to provide their input on operations. They also receive a per diem for their time.

According to the board rules and procedures, "A Charlevoix County Commissioner who is the appointed liaison to a committee shall be eligible for payment for attending the entire meeting as follows: $50 per meeting and mileage for meetings lasting less than four hours and $75 per meeting and mileage for meetings lasting more than four hours."

The commissioners are now starting to take a closer look into the committees they attend to see which ones are necessary and which could be eliminated from their schedules to save the per diem cost.

"We have talked about some of the committees we attend, have attended in the past, and sometimes I've questioned whether it was beneficial to the county or not," said Joel Evans, Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners chairman.

"We ask everybody to take a look at ourselves as commissioners and say, 'I don't need to go to that meeting. I don't need to charge the county $50 to go to that meeting,'" Evans added.

Over the next month the commissioners are going to be evaluating the committees they attend to see if they can save some taxpayer money.

"There's a couple (committees) we've been involved in that I've had (the county clerk) do some checking on to see if indeed they're beneficial to the county to even be a part of," Evans said.

The Charlevoix-Emmet United Way and Human Services Collaborative Body are two of the committees the commission is considering eliminating from their regular meeting schedule, but according to Evans they will be looking at other committees as well to see if county money can be saved.

For the love of art

MARK LINDSAY
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

If you're going to study art especially Renaissance art what better place is there to do it than Italy?

Recently, Charlevoix's Sarah Klooster, at 2008 Charlevoix High School graduate and the 2007 Venetian Queen, was one of 23 students from around the country who were selected to spend a semester studying in Florence, Italy.

Klooster, who attends Hope College in Holland, is the oldest child of Vincenza and Conrad Klooster of Charlevoix. The Kloosters also have a son who is a senior at Charlevoix High School.

Florence is the capital city of the Italian region of Tuscany, and of the province of Florence. It is the most populous city in Tuscany and lies on the river Arno. Florence is renowned for its history and its importance in the middle ages and in the renaissance, especially for its art and architecture. Florence is often referred to as the art capital of Italy.

Klooster is currently studying communication at Hope College with a minor in art history. Her goal to work in the art field, possibly as a museum curator, was the primary influence in her decision to visit Italy.

"I developed an interest in the arts my senior year of high school" she noted. "I especially love Renaissance sculpture, the works of Michelangelo and Bellini really influenced my career choice," she said.

Klooster was able to complete her minor in art history while abroad as all the credits apply to her program at Hope.

The opportunity to study abroad came to Klooster through a long time family friend, Amy Otis, who is the head of the international education department at Hope.

"I'd had a desire to visit Italy for a while when Amy told me I should just go," Klooster said, adding, "She's the one who made my dream to study abroad into a real opportunity."

The program she participated in is available through the Associated Colleges of the Midwest, which Hope is affiliated with. The organization is a consortium of colleges that offer off-campus study programs to their students.

> "For me the trip was very much about self discovery and learning to be more independent"

Klooster arrived in Italy Aug. 25 and studied there through Dec. 11 of last year.

"The program is very open and we were allowed a lot of free time to really explore the culture and travel," Klooster noted. "When students first arrive on site, they are housed in the Pensione Ottaviani and then are placed with Italian host families for the duration of the program," she added.

She said students are encouraged to learn the language once there and attend only language classes for several hours each day upon arrival.

"Before the trip I had only a basic understanding of the language, I would consider myself to be fluent in Italian now," Klooster said.

The program includes trips throughout Italy and to other countries including England. The students spent time in Rome, Venice, Milan and many small towns while studying the local art culture.

"My favorite outing was visiting the cathedral in Venice," Klooster said. "We were given a private tour and led into the cathedral and seated in the dimly lit room, as they brought up the lights revealing the exquisite gilded mosaics that cover the walls and ceiling you couldn't help but cry," she said.

During her stay in Italy, Klooster grew close to her host family and continues to correspond with them regularly.

"I have a year and a half until I graduate, then I hope to return to Florence again," she said.

Klooster noted that because the program runs during the Thanksgiving and into the start of the Christmas season, so often the students are homesick.

"They set up a beautiful Thanksgiving dinner for all the students and their host families," she said. "It really made us all more comfortable and brought us closer to the community and our hosts."

"For me the trip was very much about self discovery and learning to be more independent" Klooster said. "Coming from an Italian family, I've always had a love of the culture. Now I have first hand experience and I hope that I'll get the chance to return to Florence maybe even to work in their museums one day," she said.

For more information on programs such as this you may visit the Associated Colleges of the Midwest website at www.acm.edu. Students may contact their schools individually to learn about opportunities in their area.

OBITUARIES

John Gordon: 73, Jan. 14, 2011

Gordon

John Dean Gordon of Charlevoix, formerly of Petoskey, passed away peacefully on Jan. 14, with his loving wife, children, and faithful dog Jake by his side. Born in 1937 in Adrian, John moved with his family to Mullett Lake in the 1950's, sparking a life-long love of sailing. After graduating from Cheboygan High School, he attended MSU, following in the foot steps of his parents and grandfather.

Hard-working and inventive, John was a born entrepreneur. Meeting MacDonald's founder Ray Kroc at a cocktail party, John quickly envisioned a solution when Kroc posed his problem of trying to keep hamburger buns warm and fresh. John's heating element design for a steamer included an aluminum casting, a part that became his foundation for more than 40 years as a foundry owner – first in the Lansing area and later in Northern Michigan. As a forward-thinking businessman in Mason, Michigan, John helped found and was the first president of that community's chamber of commerce where his work earned him the Governor's Minute Man Award.

In the mid-'70s, he met and fell in love with Judy Packard with whom he celebrated 33 years of marriage in October. Judy was his first mate, not only on their celebrated boat, FLASH, but in every other aspect of life. A skilled sailor, John "FLASH" Gordon – with his trusty crew – amazed fellow members of the Charlevoix Yacht Club season after season with an innate ability to harness the wind to his advantage. Combining business with pleasure, John founded AMCO Marine in the late '80s, producing precision downwind sailing gear and becoming recognized as a world expert in this regard.

But as hard as he worked, the lights of his life were his children and grandchildren to whom he provided hours of unbridled fun, gentle guidance and wisdom, and unconditional love.

John is survived by his loving wife, Judith Ann Gordon; a daughter, Barb Gordon-Kessel (Pat); a son, John Dean Gordon II (Jeannie); five beautiful granddaughters, Jody Burns, Allie Kessel, Brenna and Hanna Hudgens all of Traverse City; and Allison Gray of Petoskey; two sisters Sally Gordon of Cheboygan, and Phyllis Holiday of Alabama.

Funeral will be 11 a.m., Saturday, Jan. 22, at the United Methodist Church in Charlevoix. The Rev. Chris Lane will officiate. Visitation will be from 5-8 p.m. Friday, Jan. 21, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, and on Saturday at the church from 10 a.m. until the time of the service. Burial will follow at Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Memorial contributions may be made to Interlochen Center for the Arts, John Gordon Memorial Scholarship Fund, P.O. Box 199, Interlochen, MI 49643.

EJ High School to host drug forum

The forum will feature Shaynee Fanara, Charlevoix County Chief Assistant Prosecutor, Charlevoix County Undersheriff Chuck Vondra and Bay Area Substance Education Services (BASES) Executive Director Scott Kelley.

"Our goal is to raise awareness about drug use in our region, its trends, laws pertaining to drug use, and also let parents and community members know about the resources available to help youth who may be struggling with a drug use problem," said East Jordan High School Principal Tammy Jackson.

Resident to present research on B-52 crash

Petoskey resident Rick Wiles will commemorate the 40th anniversary of a B-52 crash into Little Traverse Bay with a presentation of his research into the crash at 7 p.m. Monday, Jan. 24, at the Petoskey Public Library Carnegie Building, 451 East Mitchell St.

Wiles' presentation will include a synopsis of the "white paper" he has written about a Jan. 7, 1971 crash of B-52 Stratofortress bomber crashed while flying a training mission over Little Traverse Bay. All nine members of the bomber's crew died in the crash.

In October, Wiles organized a 40th anniversary memorial service for members of the crew's family at the Michigan Department of Transportation Roadside Park along U.S. 31 in Hayes Township, the site of a memorial to the crew.

Speaking during the ceremony in October, Wiles said, based on his research into the crash and the subsequent investigation, he believes the aircraft simply broke apart when the airframe, weakened by the stress from years of low-level training missions simply gave way.

BOYS BASKETBALL

Radyers defeat Kalkaska, share league lead

KALKASKA — Brennan Ackerman had 17 points, nine rebounds and five blocks Friday in leading Charlevoix to a 50-39 Lake Michigan Conference boys' basketball victory over Kalkaska.

Charlevoix improved to 5-1 overall, 3-0 league. The Rayders share first place with Grayling, which notched an 80-58 victory over Elk Rapids on Friday.

The Rayders seized a 19-11 lead by halftime, then outscored the Blazers, 31-28, over the final two quarters. The Rayders were slated to face Elk Rapids at home on Tuesday. Results of that game were not available because of the Couriers Tuesday print deadline. The Rayders will travel to East Jordan to take on the Red Devils 7:30 p.m. Friday, Jan. 21.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Rayder girls fall to No. 7 ranked Kalkaska

KALKASKA — The Charlevoix Rayders girls varsity basketball team stayed within reach of ranked conference rival Kalkaska for the first half of Friday's game before ultimately falling to the Blazers 61-33.

Chelsea Matley had a game high 20 points and Sophy Menestrinz added 18 for Kalkaska as they improved to 8-0 overall, 2-0 league.

The Blazers, ranked seventh in the Associated Press Class C state poll, held a three point lead midway through the second quarter before expanding their margin to 31-19 at the break.

"They (Kalkaska) ran away with it in the third quarter," Charlevoix coach Leslie Hoffman said. "It was a 12 point game at halftime and then they hit back to back 3s in the third to break it open."

For Charlevoix, 2-6, 1-2, Lyndsey Gotshall finished with 12 points and five rebounds, while Kelly Greyerbiehl added 10 rebounds.

"Overall, I was impressed with the way we played," Hoffman said. "We were playing against a ranked team, but we played hard the whole game. We put together a strong first half, we just need to look forward to having another strong second half."

The Rayders were slated to face Elk Rapids at home on Tuesday. Results of that game were not available because of the Couriers Tuesday print deadline. The Rayders will travel to East Jordan to take on the Red Devils on Friday, Jan. 21 at 6 p.m.

County back on hunt for Grandvue board member

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners is searching to fill a vacancy on the Department of Human Services board only a month after appointing John Vrondran to the position.

Vrondran, was forced to resign from the position as a result of a Michigan County Social Services Association rule, which requires that a Department of Human Services board member "may not hold an elective office" while on the board. Because Vrondran is the Eveline Township supervisor, which is an elected position, he is ineligible for the board which oversees operations at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

Vrondran, who was appointed to the board in December to fill the vacancy left when board member Ron Moore's term expired, submitted his official resignation to the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners late last month.

"He had to resign because he can't hold both of the positions," said Chris Christensen, Charlevoix County commissioner.

The county commission posted the opening at the beginning of this month and has been accepting letters of intent from potential applicants. Seven people have expressed interest in the position and the commissioners now have the task of selecting a person all over again.

"I want to be clear and concise about the process we're going to use here just so we can apply it fairly across all candidates," Christensen said.

Two of the seven candidates were present for the commission meeting on Wednesday and had a chance to explain why they feel they would be the best selection for the position. The other five people will have a chance to interview at a later date and will be asked the same questions as the first two.

"There were quite a few people interested so we decided that it would be best to bring them in and take a few minutes for each one to come up and tell us why they want to be on the board. We thought it would be a more fair process, rather than just looking at a whole bunch of names and saying, 'Well, I'll pick this guy,'" said Joel Evans, Charlevoix County commission chairman.

The county commission plans to have the board vacancy filled later this month so they can go on with their duties of overseeing the operation of Grandvue.

Even though Vrondran isn't going to serve on the board, he will be providing his assistance when he can.

"Another individual who can give the county taxpayers the services that are needed at this time will get my support and assistance," Vrondran stated in his letter of resignation.

Quilt shop sews up national recognition

KRISTEN BATES
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

Quilting is a family affair for Charlevoix residents Sue and Mike Miller, owners of Hearts to Holly Quilt & Gift Shop.

Sue explained that all four of their daughters — Leslie, Shelly, Emily and Valerie — were involved with quilting. After receiving several quilts as gifts and a continuous request for more quilts, they decided it was time for Sue to learn the craft.

"Every time they would ask me about a gift, I would ask for a quilt. One day, I was told I needed to learn quilting myself. I decided to give it a try. We opened up the shop in October 2007," said Sue.

In May 2011, Hearts to Holly will join nine other new quilt shops across the country in the Quilt Sampler, which is published by Better Homes & Gardens twice a year.

For the past 14 years, the magazine has been profiling North America's top quilt shops. As part of this selection, they will introduce their quilt, "Charlevoix Breezes," which was designed by their daughter, Charlevoix resident Leslie Knoop.

"This was a family project. Mike, Leslie, Emily, my granddaughter Ryleigh and I pieced the quilt. Then, we sent the quilt to Las Vegas where Valerie did the quilting portion and Shelly helped with the binding. Shelly designed the label, too," said Sue.

Sue recalled that during a Friday morning chatter time, which is 8:30-10:30 a.m. Fridays at the shop, several of the quilters suggested trying to get the store featured in the spring issue of Quilt Sampler. Charlevoix resident Pam Smith went online, printed the criteria out, wrote articles on the shop and approached Sue and Mike. By July 15, all the paperwork was due. They were notified on Sept. 12 that they made the cut. They needed to send in original quilt designs, pick a fabric line and include information on the store as well as describe the Charlevoix area. In all, they sent in 15 different designs.

"Quilters like to visit the shops selected for the magazine, so we had to list several places in the area that people might like to visit, too. It's fantastic to be chosen. Over 3,000 stores applied," said Mike.

Sue commented, "It was a process to be selected for this issue and it seemed like the pieces just all came together at once. It is very exciting."

In October, they were interviewed and photographed by a team from the magazine. The shop will have a multi-page profile and a pattern for their featured quilt. Although they knew of their selection in the fall, they weren't allowed to share their good news until Jan. 3.

"We could tell our family and our employees about the upcoming issue. That was it! Since we recently posted it online and in the shop, people have been very happy for us," added Sue.

The queen-size quilt, full of pinwheels, squares and a border, is designed with a line of fabric named Charlevoix by Polly Minick and Lauri Simpson. These two sisters are Michigan natives and design for the fabric distributor, Moda.

"The Charlevoix line of fabric previewed this past fall. I sent an e-mail to the designers asking them if we could use this new line, which isn't available yet. On the salvage (edge of the fabric), it has the saying Charlevoix equals summer, beaches and rural Americana 1930-1940," said Sue.

KRISTIN BATES/CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Sue and Mike Miller are the owners of Hearts to Holly Quilt & Gift Shop in Charlevoix. Behind them is the "Charlevoix Breezes" quilt, which will be featured in Better Homes & Gardens' Quilt Sampler magazine in May 2011.

Currently, a "Charlevoix Breezes" quilt kit is available to pre-order through the shop. The kit includes fabric to complete the top of the quilt, the binding, a signed copy of the magazine and a label. Originally hand-painted by their daughter, Shelly, this cloth label will be a copy which depicts the store. The approximate cost is $150 with a deposit of $100 required at time of ordering. The kits will be available May 10. So far, they have 10 orders.

Throughout the year, the shop offers several classes, which are available for all ages. The next class will be from 11 a.m.-4 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 22, at the Charlevoix Public Library. Ann Loveless will be the instructor for creating a landscape lake collage out of fabric. Cost is $55 for the class plus supplies.

"It's been amazing. I am so proud of everyone who helped make this happen. It's just a really good thing," said Sue.

In April, Sue and Mike will find out if their shop makes the cover of the magazine, which is available on May 10.

The shop, located at 107 Mason St. in Charlevoix, is open 10 a.m.-6 p.m. Monday through Friday and 10 a.m.-4 p.m. on Saturday.

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Norwood Township's former supervisor whose attempts to operate a gravel mining business on his property were at the center of much controversy in recent years, died Wednesday, Jan. 19.

Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider confirmed that Wayne Wynkoop, 53, died at his home on Norwood Road around 10 a.m. He said his office is handling the case as a suicide.

Former Charlevoix Courier editor Benjamin Gohs said he got to know Wynkoop well while covering the township and Wynkoop during his years with the newspaper.

He said one thing that sticks out in his mind about Wynkoop was that he was always very friendly, even as the stress of his mining woes weighed on him.

"I spent a lot of time with him, both out at his property and in the office," Gohs said. "He was a helluva nice guy — that's what everyone's been saying to me since I heard the news."

"Working in this business, you get a real good feel for how to read people — when someone is shining you one. It wasn't like that with him." Gohs added. "He always had a smile and would ask you how you were doing."

No funeral services are planned.

Wynkoop had been at the center of much controversy in Norwood township south of Charlevoix since 2004 when he began mining limestone on his property. Around the same time Wynkoop was also elected to the post of township supervisor.

His neighbors complained to the township about the mining operation which ultimately led to the courts ordering Wynkoop to shut the operation down for non-compliance with zoning. In November of 2007 he resigned as township supervisor amid the tumult over the mine.

Wynkoop continued his efforts to obtain approval to mine gravel from his property. His fourth attempt at obtaining a special use permit was denied by the township planning commission in May of 2010. The debate spawned lawsuits and in 2009 Wynkoop was charged with a misdemeanor charge of violating the public trust stemming from his alleged actions while serving as township supervisor. That charge was ultimately dismissed.

Jury acquits Woodthorp on negligent homicide charge

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

An East Jordan man who had been a facing negligent homicide charge in connection with a fatal traffic crash in 2008 was aquitted by a 33rd Circuit Court jury following a three day trial earlier this month.

The jury returned the not guilty verdict in the case against Zachary Charles Woodthorp, 25, on Jan. 13. The charges were issued in connection with an Nov. 5, 2008 traffic crash on Boyne City-East Jordan Road that claimed the life of James Richard Browe, 65. The charge is punishable by up to two years in prison.

According to Charlevoix County Sheriff's office affidavit filed in the case, the crash involved at 2008 GMC pickup driven west by Woodthorp and a 2001 Chevy Impala driven east by Browe.

Police said Woodthorp told them he was traveling about 55 mph when he was blinded by oncoming headlights in his lane. Police said Woodthorp reported that he applied his brakes gradually to avoid losing control, swerved into the opposite lane to avoid the oncoming car, but the other car then swerved back into the eastbound lane resulting in the crash.

But police say evidence collected at the scene tells a different story. A crash reconstructionist had estimated that Woodthorp was traveling around 70 mph in the moments before the collision.

The trial had been scheduled for October of 2009, but the Charlevoix County Prosecutor John Jarema dismissed the charges a day before the trial was set to begin when technician from the Michigan State Police were able to recover data from the heavily-damaged crash date recorder in Woodthorp's car. The data showed Woodthorp was traveling the speed limit at the time of the crash

Fire destroys East Jordan home

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS REVIEW

EAST JORDAN — home on Waterman Road near East Jordan was a total loss after fire raged through the building for more than 18 hours.

At approximately 5:40 a.m. on Sunday, East Jordan emergency crews were dispatched to 4419 Waterman Road near East Jordan to a report of a home on fire. When they arrived on scene there were flames leaping from around the old farm house's chimney.

"The fire had gotten into the walls. We even had to get a backhoe in to tear down part of the structure to get at the fire," said Glen Thorman, East Jordan fire chief.

The fire wasn't the only thing the firefighters had to battle at the scene.

"When we arrived the temperature was 20 below zero and we had problems with our equipment freezing. One of our pumps would freeze and we'd have to switch to another one. By the time we got one thawed another would freeze," Thorman said.

With the assistance of Banks Township Fire Department and Boyne City Fire Department, they managed to extinguish the fire. Crews cleared the scene at 11:30 p.m.

According to county tax records, the property is owned by Jack H. and Sandra A. Fuson.

One firefighter received a minor knee injury after slipping on the ice at the scene and another was transported to the hospital for chest pain. Both were treated and released.

The fire rekindled in a debris pile at approximately 8:30 a.m. on Monday and fire crews were again dispatched to the scene to extinguish the fire. They cleared the scene by 9:30 a.m.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation.

"It looks like it may have started in the wood burner, but we're still looking into it. The house was a total loss," Thorman said.

Like Lincoln, Darwin deserves kudos, too

Roger Knutson

During the month of February almost every elementary school classroom in America celebrates, in some way, the birthday, on Feb. 12, of Abraham Lincoln, 16th president of the United States. I look forward to a time when those classrooms may also celebrate the birth of Charles Darwin, who was born on the same day in the same year as Lincoln. This year we celebrate the 202nd anniversary of their births.

Darwin was, of course, British, so we probably cannot anticipate an equal celebration of his birth. But Darwin arguably had as great or an even greater impact on the thinking of our modern world.

In 1859, just before the American Civil War began, when Lincoln was our president, Darwin published a book he had been working on for more than 20 years. "The Origin of Species," was a careful examination of the puzzling questions of how it could be that there were so many different kinds of plants and animals on earth, and why they were so different from one place to another.

Darwin was in some ways almost uniquely qualified to ask and try to answer those questions. As a young man, who had considered studying for the Episcopal ministry, he was offered the opportunity to voyage around the world on a British survey ship, the Beagle. In the early 19th century such a voyage was not without considerable hazard. Supplies of food, water and other necessities were problematic on long voyages. Mutiny and other violence was clearly a possibility.

Darwin visited much of the east and west coasts of South America, and most famously the Galapagos Islands off the coast of Chile. The voyage lasted five years.

Darwin did not "discover" or "invent" evolution. The idea that plants and animals changed with time had been around for a century at least when Darwin considered it. What no one had successfully explained was HOW plants and animals could change with time.

Darwin began with three unquestionably true ideas. First, he recognized that plants and animals of the same kind were individuals and not all identical. Within the same kind of organism there was variation. It's one of those things that "everyone knows." Not all squirrels are exactly alike.

Second, Darwin noted that the differences were passed along from one generation to the next. Spotted goats gave birth to spotted goats and brown goats to brown goats, as noted in the biblical story of Jacob in Genesis. Variation is inherited.

Third, Darwin did the simple arithmetic that establishes the overabundant reproductive possibilities of all plants and animals. All organisms produce more offspring than can possibly survive. A generation earlier, Thomas Malthus had suggested that the same might well be true of human beings.

Given those three self-evident truths, Darwin concluded that there must be competition among the super-abundant offspring, and that those having characteristics favored by their environment would be the ones to survive and produce following generations. Evolution occurs by the process of "natural selection."

This was hardly an earth-shaking notion to naturalists of Darwin's time. What produced the controversy was the suggestion that the same ideas applied to all the Earth's organisms, including us humans.

For declaring an idea that still raises hackles a century and a half later, we might well praise Darwin on his birthday. According to his biographers, he was a brave, shy, modest, affable, and confident man. He is properly buried in Westminster Abby, close to Sir Isaac Newton, and honored by everyone who has ever studied the natural world. A hero for his time and for our own.

City gets energy grant

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

City of Charlevoix officials recently learned the city has been awarded a $40,000 grant from the Northwest Michigan Council of Governments to fund energy conservation efforts.

At the time the city applied for the grant in November, city manager Rob Straebel said if awarded the grant, the city's Green Team (a collection of city officials who have been working on conservation efforts in the city) would work with Northwest Michigan Council of Government officials to decide on projects that will be suitable for the grant.

Straebel said after meeting with Council of Government representatives last week, the leading candidate project for the grant is replacing the boiler at the city's water treatment plant. He said the estimated cost of the project is about the same as the grant and is expected to save the city between $10,000-$13,000 per year in energy costs.

Straebel noted that the grant requires that 50 percent of the energy savings realized from the project(s) funded by the grant must go into a city account to be used for future efficiency projects.

Straebel also noted that a similar $50,000 grant the city received from the state paid for lighting and heating upgrades at city hall and the city's water plant last year. Those upgrades are also expected to save the city thousands each year.

The city's "green" efforts have also been noticed by the Michigan Municipal League. The organization's January/February edition of its publication The Review features a two-page story on the city's conservations efforts. To read the entire story from The Review visit www.charlevoixcourier.com.

Scam reports on the rise

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Charlevoix Police Chief Gerard Doan is cautioning area residents that his department has seen an increase in complaints from residents receiving scam letters and phone calls.

Doan said just in the past several weeks officers have been seeing an uptick the reports, many of them regarding lotteries.

He noted earlier this week one resident reported receiving a phone call from a person claiming that call recipient had won the Publisher's Clearing House Sweepstakes.

He said the caller said that representatives would be the house later in the day to award the prize, but that the call recipient needed to pay several hundred dollars in taxes up front.

The call recipient was suspicious, and did not provide the caller with any personal information. The Prize Patrol never showed up either, Doan said.

He said none of the people who have reported the scam attempts recently have fallen victim to them

Doan said another typical ploy is a call from someone claiming that a family member is in another country, such as Canada, has been arrested and needs you to wire him or her money to pay bail or fines.

He said many of these calls originate from Jamaica and the United Kingdom.

As always, Doan said never to give personal information such as bank account information to anyone you don't know.

Although cliché, he said following two long-standing axioms can often prevent a lot of trouble: "When in doubt, check it out" and "If it sounds too good to be true, it probably is."

Anyone with questions about possible scams may call the Charlevoix Police Department at (231) 547-3258 or the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office at (231) 547-4461.

Committee seeks help organizing, naming Pig Roast replacement

Community members working to organize a mid-summer festival to replaced the recently-retired Ellsworth Pig Roast are seeking help from others in the community.

Committed member and former Pig Roast committee publicity chair Alana Haley said the goal of the group working on the new festival to feature the best of small-town America. "Think baseball, hot dogs, apple pie and Ellsworth," she said.

Haley said the committee has slated the new festival for June 30 - July 3 in the Ellsworth Community Park.

"Moving the festival to be the weekend closest to the fourth of July allows us to incorporate the Fourth of July Fireworks into the festivities and the committee is pleased to be coordinating with the group that hosts the annual Fourth of July fireworks. Moving the venue allows us to make use of our new community park and will allow for water-based events in the future.

Haley said the new festival will feature many long-time favorite Pig Roast events like the grand parade, Fun Run, free kids games and the horse pull and will introduce new ones like a softball tournament, bonfire and community picnic.

"The most noticeable change will be in the food offering. We will be roasting some pig down in the park but will also offer other food concessions.," Haley said.

Haley said there are many ways community members can get involved in the new festival including joining the organizing committee, hosting a concession, becoming a sponsor, purchasing advertising in the festival's brochure, or hosting an event.

The committee is also conducting a name the festival contest. The winner will be honored in the Grand Parade on July 2. Entries due Feb. 1 and may be picked up at Ellsworth Market, The Ellsworth Post Office and Front Porch Café.

For more information contact Erin Nickel at (231) 588-2556 or nickelerin@yahoo.com; or Alana Haley at (231) 360-0676 or alanajhaley@yahoo.com. The committee is currently working on a website but for now information on the festival is being updated on Facebook under the name "Ellsworth Pig Roast."

Goss' 'Our Town' exhibit now open

NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

For nearly 25 years, the photos of G. Randall "Randy" Goss, have graced the pages of the Petoskey News-Review — his talented eye capturing the young and old, joy and sorrow of our community.

Beginning Saturday, Jan. 22, his work will be on display at the Crooked Tree Arts Center in Petoskey in an exhibit titled "Our Town: The Work of G. Randall Goss."

"I enjoy documenting the small town quaintness of things," Goss said of his work at the News-Review. "You don't work in a small town and expect to become famous. Fame has never been my goal, in fact, the recognition from this show is a bit embarrassing to me."

M. CHRIS LEESE/CHARLEVOIX COURIER

Randy Goss, photographer for the Petoskey News-Review, and judge for this year's Crooked Tree Arts Center photography contest, sorts through this year's contest entries at the center. "Critically judging my own work is easy, but judging others' work is very hard," Goss says.

Goss, a Charlevoix native, graduated from Charlevoix High School and then received a degree in fine arts and photography from Northern Michigan University. He later took classes at North Central Michigan College.

Goss worked for several years as a photographer in California, where he photographed the 1984 Summer Olympics in Los Angeles and worked with several nationally known photographers.

He returned to Northern Michigan in 1986 and was hired as the first News-Review photographer in 1987.

"Randy has preserved what we cherish in Northern Michigan — the community's celebrations and sorrows, the splendor of this region and the spirit of its people," said Gail DeMeyere, curator at Crooked Tree Arts Center.

"Because of Randy, there remains a photographic archive. Randy has quietly and more significantly, artistically, become our biographer."

The opening of "Our Town: The Work of G. Randall Goss" will took place from 4-6 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 22 in the Edith Gilbert Gallery at Crooked Tree Arts Center. The exhibit runs through Friday, April 15.

Lighthouse church wins holiday blood drive challenge

EAST JORDAN — Linda and Bill Chase have always been involved in their community. The East Jordan Ministerial Association as been involved in the six Civic Center American Red Cross blood drives held each year.

As members of one of those churches, United Methodist Church, Linda and Bill wanted to do more. In 2009, they began the "East Jordan Holiday Blood Drive Challenge."

"We wanted to put together a healthy competition between the five church sponsors of these regular blood drives," Linda said. "We know the need for blood increases during the holidays and knew we could help."

The United Methodist Church, First Presbyterian Church, Lighthouse Missionary Church, St. Joseph Church and Evangelical Lutheran Church all agreed to participate in a blood challenge.

The winner of the challenge — the church bringing in the highest percentage of donors when compared to their weekly attendance —was presented a traveling plaque by the American Red Cross. This year's winner was Lighthouse Missionary Church with 17 percent. United Methodist Church was second with 7 percent, then Evangelical Lutheran Church with four percent, St. Joseph Catholic Church with three percent and First Presbyterian Church with two percent.

"We would not have been able to do this without our wonderful support of our local churches," said Biz Bauer, American Red Cross senior donor recruitment representative. "I'd like to personally thank all that made this friendly blood challenge such a huge success."

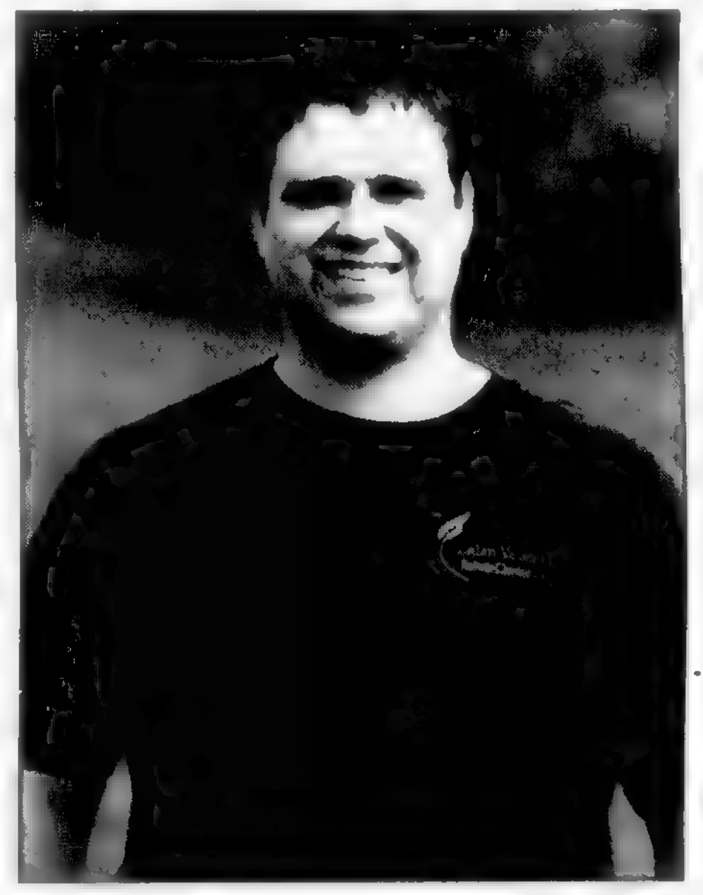
Physical therapist, Mike Aenis earns sports certification



Mike Aenis

EAST JORDAN — Mike Aenis, a physical therapist at Jordan Valley Rehabilitation Center in East Jordan, was granted certification as a board-certified clinical specialist in sports physical therapy in 2010.

Aenis is among 31 physical therapists in Michigan who have this certification.

In order to sit for the certification exam, the therapist must have 2,000 hours of direct patient care in the specialty area within the previous 10 years, 25 percent of which must have occurred within the last three years. For sports-certified specialist certification, the therapist must also be certified in CPR and emergency response. Aenis achieved this when he became a licensed emergency medical technician in 2005.

The specialist certification is good for 10 years, with the therapist then needing to recertify.

Aenis started his career with Charlevoix Area Hospital in 1994 as a physical therapy aide. He graduated from Grand Valley State University in 1999 and returned to his roots in Northern Michigan, and has been a physical therapist with the Charlevoix hospital since then.

In 2001, the hospital opened Jordan Valley Rehabilitation Center, where Aenis became manager of the facility. From 2001-05, he served as an injury management volunteer for Central Lake High School football games, and more recently has been involved with injury management for East Jordan High School athletic events.

Aenis and Jennifer, his wife of 12 years, have two sons, Brenden, 4, and Trevor, 6 months.

A beacon of hope for wayward teens

Beaver Island's Lighthouse School offers opportunities to teens who embrace the program

BY MARTHA IRVINE
AP NATIONAL WRITER

BEAVER ISLAND — This school isn't a place you end up by accident.

A small propeller plane flight or a two-hour ferry ride into the northern reaches of Lake Michigan gets you as far as St. James, the northern hub of Beaver Island. But it takes another half hour by car, down bumpy gravel roads, to get to the south tip of the island and the small cluster of classroom buildings and log cabins, shadowed by the historic lighthouse for which this secluded alternative high school is named.

"What the hell have I gotten myself into?" That's exactly what 18-year-old Katie Daugherty thought as she arrived at the Beaver Island Lighthouse School last September.

She was scared, felt sick to her stomach. She hardly talked to anyone.

It is a common response for newbies, as the students who've already been at the school a semester or two call the newcomers. All of them are here because they've either dropped out of traditional high school, or are at risk of doing so.

This is, however, no boot camp, no forced existence. These students come to the school by choice, and they decide whether to stay.

For many, it is a last chance to get a diploma, to wipe the slate clean and move beyond past mistakes. Some are trying to escape family problems or friends who are a bad influence. Some have been kicked out of home. Others, for whatever reason, simply haven't been able to make it in the usual school setting.

Daugherty was living with friends, shifting from place to place, when a youth counselor came across her case.

Torn up by her parents' divorce, and her father's remarriage, she had dropped out of school just months from graduation. She'd lost confidence, she says, hidden herself from the world — all but given up, really.

But now there was this place, and this chance.

"I wanted to prove to myself that I was worthy of it," Daugherty said, "that I could accomplish something very big."

Something very big in a very small place, where the surroundings and close living quarters in those log cabins make it impossible for just about anyone to close themselves off for too long. That's the hope, anyway.

This semester, like any other, there would be dramas and disappointments, but triumphs, too.

Four of the 25 students wouldn't make it at the school. Seven of the remaining 21, Daugherty included, would have the chance to graduate in three months' time.

This journey far off the beaten path might, indeed, change the course of the lives of the young people who dared to come here.

"But first," says Steve Finch, the school's site supervisor, "they have to trust us."

__ The students aren't allowed to have cell phones, and even if they did, most don't work here, anyway. So they have to use a community land line to make occasional calls home. They have computer time, and access to social networking sites and e-mail.

But with a schedule that sees them up at 7 a.m. or earlier most days, and in class six days a week into the evening, there isn't much time for that.

It's impossible, for instance, to say they missed a bus or couldn't find a way to school; classrooms are a short walk from the student cabins. And even if they wanted to skip, there's nowhere to go, except for a long hike through dense hardwood forests, or along miles of dunes and beaches that are usually more populated by deer than people, especially outside the tourist season.

A few students can't get used to the setup, and start packing. They don't like the rules, they say — or maybe it's simply that self-sabotage is a habit too ingrained to overcome.

"We traditionally lose one student in the first 24 hours," Ken Roehling, the school's education specialist, said.

Students come from districts all over Northern Michigan.

A few years back, he was working in sales, traveling the country. Then his own son, who was struggling at school, came here and graduated in 2004. Finch then spent time working with the school's summer construction camps and came to a realization.

"I figured I could end my life having sold a bunch of stuff, or I could help change some lives," he says. So he quit his sales job and took his current position.

When he arrived, the school had more of a lock-down atmosphere. That caused conflict between the students and Finch's tiny staff, which includes four teachers who live in the cabins with the students.

Finch decided to compromise on some things: He gave the students a bit of free time after meals, and told them that while they had to stay on campus, they didn't have to ask to go to the bathroom or to their cabins.

"It's my belief that if we treat them like derelicts, they're going to act like derelicts," says Finch, who immediately noted a shift in student behavior. "It didn't make things perfect, but it eased tension a lot."

Teacher Justin Noordhoek, whom the students affectionately call "J-dog," doesn't hesitate to blast a loud air horn to get the young men in his cabin out of bed in the morning.

Students who leave backpacks or other belongings in a classroom or the dining hall have to dance to get them back.

__ Acceptance from the island's roughly 650 year-round residents, is also important to the students, though they're not always sure they get it.

Senior Michelle Schlappi still remembers the comment one resident made as students served plates of spaghetti at a dinner they hosted at an island township hall: "Oh look!" the islander said. "They let all the students out of their shackles."

It was a joke to him, no doubt, but Schlappi's heart sank when she heard it.

"They assume we're bad kids," she says, "and we're not."

The perception of them as delinquents partly stems from the school's earlier days as a vocational camp in the 1970s and then a school where more students had been in trouble with the law.

Certainly, there's still some of that.

One past semester, Finch and the staff had sheriff's deputies bring a drug dog to search the cabins after they found a student's stash.

"Sorry I had to do that," Finch told everyone, when they didn't find more drugs.

But many students came forward to support him. "Don't apologize," one said. "We came here to get away from that."

May Sandel, another senior, readily acknowledges that she would've become a "hoodlum," as she puts it, had she not found this school. More bubbly than the hardened criminal type, though, she now talks excitedly about being a writer and a photographer.

"I just don't think I had the courage before I came here," Sandel says, "and I have a lot of that now."

__ By December, and the day before graduation, the campus at the Beaver Island Lighthouse School is a snowy wonderland — and the students a jumble of conflicting emotions.

They are excited, but also nervous and a little crabby.

"I almost don't want to graduate. It's like home here," Sandel says as she stands on a deck near her cabin overlooking the frigid, stirred-up waves of Lake Michigan. Early the next morning, she and the staff and the rest of the students head onto those waters, on a ferry bound for Charlevoix. There, family and friends meet them and head to a graduation ceremony at the VFW hall.

There is a saying at the school when people start getting teary: Wiping their eyes, students say, "The room is getting kind of dusty." That's been happening a lot the past few days.

Schlappi and Fisher give emotional speeches.

"The relationships we've built here feel as though they've lasted a lifetime," Fisher says, his face red and voice quivering, "as if these people were more of a family than friends."

Editors note: Charlevoix Public Schools has owned the school site since 1975. Since that time, the district has collaborated with Traverse Bay Area Intermediate School District and Northwest Michigan Council of Governments to provide work experience programs to disadvantaged youth, alternative education programs to youth at risk of not completing high school. Students of the Beaver Island Lighthouse School walk to lunch from their cabin on the last day of the semester in December. The Lighthouse School is an alternative high school located on Beaver Island. Students who attend here have either dropped out of traditional high school, or are at risk of doing so. Many see it as a last chance to get a diploma.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Rayder girls defeat EJ, Elk Rapids in conference

EAST JORDAN — Lynzie Gotshall scored a game-high 19 points and Charlevoix used a strong second half in downing East Jordan, 43-31 Friday in a Lake Michigan Conference game.

Charlevoix led 18-14 at halftime and pushed its lead to 10, 31-21, after three quarters.

"We kind of got off to a slow start," said Charlevoix coach Leslie Hoffman, whose team improved to 4-6 overall, 3-2 league. "We didn't take the best shots in the first half, so we talked at halftime and the best way to get out of a shooting slump is to keep shooting. We boxed out much better in the second half and got some second chance points and Dani (Barron) had five key points to pull us ahead."

Barron finished with seven points for the Rayders.

For East Jordan, 4-6, 1-4, Tanner McCune had nine points and Grace Howes hauled down 15 rebounds.

Earlier in the week, on Tuesday, Jan. 18, the Rayders beat Elk Rapids 67-47 at home.

Lynzie Gotshall had 15 points and four rebounds, and Jenna Way added 13 as Charlevoix handed the Elks their first Lake Michigan Conference loss of the season.

"I am very pleased with the overall team effort tonight on both defense and offense," Charlevoix coach Leslie Hoffman said following the game. "We played strong defense from the start, and it made our game smoother."

The Rayders were slated to take on Harbor Springs at home Tuesday and are scheduled to travel to Grayling on Friday. Game time is 6 p.m.

BOYS BASKETBALL

Win places Rayder boys atop league standings

EAST JORDAN — Andrew Potter and Andrew Plude scored 12 points each and Dylan Putman added 11 Friday as Charlevoix defeated East Jordan, 54-46, in a Lake Michigan Conference boys' basketball game.

Charlevoix's win, coupled with Grayling's 60-56 loss to Traverse City St. Francis, moved the Rayders into first place alone in the league. Charlevoix is 7-1 overall, 5-0 league. Grayling is 8-1, 4-1.

Charlevoix led, 29-20, at halftime but the Red Devils closed their deficit to three, 40-37, after three quarters.

"We had a couple of steals and several key free throws at the end and that made the difference," Charlevoix coach Adam Wood said.

Dustin Mellios scored 16 points and Austin Mellios added 12 for the Red Devils, 6-4, 1-4.

"It was a hard fought game tonight," East Jordan coach Darrin Weber said. "We played outstanding from top to bottom."

Earlier in the week, on Tuesday, Jan. 18, Brennan Ackerman scored 20 points, grabbed eight rebounds and made five blocks to lead the Rayders to a 53-47 victory over Elk Rapids.

Charlevoix trailed, 24-23, at halftime, then outscored the Elks, 17-9, in the third quarter to take the lead for good.

The win lifted Charlevoix to 6-1 overall, 4-0 league.

The Rayders were slated to take on Harbor Springs at home on Tuesday and then travel to Grayling on Friday. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

STEVE ZUCKER

Barnes

The flag in front of Charlevoix City Hall and other city buildings are flying at half-staff this week in honor of a former city mayor, well-known entrepreneur and community icon Josh Barnes who died Tuesday at the age of 82.

Barnes, who served two terms as mayor from 1994 to 1998, and was a co-founder of local lighting product producer LexaLite is being remembered by many as a generous man whose business acumen and communication skills were a major asset not only to the city but to many other sectors of the community.

Current Charlevoix mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson Jr. called Barnes a "pillar of the community."

Carlson noted that Barnes had a significant impact on the area's economy, not only through his business, which he relocated to Charlevoix in 1965, but also through many of his efforts while serving as mayor.

He said Barnes was instrumental in obtaining several grants that were key in establishing the city's industrial park, facilitated the city obtaining the final two parcels of property for the expansion of East Park, and in the Bridge Park project.

Carlson said Barnes played a key role in the city's move to a city manager form of government and helped the community heal following the 1997 Venetian Festival fireworks accident.

"He brought the strengths of a communicator and a business man together and helped bring a common sense approach to city government," Carlson said. "He always went into things with an open mind, just like in his business. He looked at things a little bit differently, but he was always fair and firm.

Longtime city employee and current assistant to the city Manager Linda Weller has worked with many mayors over the years.

"It was a pleasure and an honor to work with Josh," Weller said. "As a business man and a citizen, he always put Charlevoix first. His service to the community made Charlevoix a better place."

In addition to his business and government endeavors, Barnes had many other interest including sailing, scuba diving, and many other outdoor activities.

Several of those interests came into play when in 2006, city leaders tapped Barnes to work with Steve Libert, president of Great lakes Exploration, on his plan to use Charlevoix as a base of operations for his organization's effort to do research on, and perhaps one day recover a Lake Michigan Shipwreck that may be the famed LaSalle vessel, the Griffin. Last summer Libert inked a an agreement with state and French officials to continue his research on the shipwreck he found in 2001.

Contacted by the Courier Wednesday at his home in Virginia, Libert, who also owns a summer home in Charlevoix, expressed sadness at hearing the news of Barnes death.

"If it wouldn't have been for (Barnes), we wouldn't have had the support of the Charlevoix community," Libert said."Josh understood what we were trying to do. He had a background in underwater

Health department: Flu cases on the rise

Local doctors are encouraging everyone to take extra precautions to stay healthy as the height of flu season begins to take hold in Northern Michigan.

"Flu activity typically peaks sometime between late January and late February," said Joshua Meyerson, Health Department of Northwest Michigan medical director. "It looks like we'll see that pattern again this flu season."

Northern Michigan Regional Hospital in Petoskey has recorded there have been five confirmed cases of the flu and two have required hospitalization.

Medical experts stress that the single best way to avoid getting the flu is to get vaccinated every year. Those six months and older are encouraged to get the flu vaccine. And its still not too late. Vaccinations are still available at clinics around Northern Michigan. The Health Department of Northwest Michigan also offers the flu vaccine. The cost is $15 and Medicare and Medicaid are accepted and no one is turned away for not being able to pay. For more information, call (800) 432-4121.

Area leaders meet to discuss cooperative efforts

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

BOYNE CITY — Township, city and county leaders from all around Charlevoix County gathered on Monday in Boyne City to discuss the possibility of combining services to save money for all the municipalities.

It was the first ever Charlevoix County Elected Leadership Summit and the format allowed for all present to participate equally to propose their ideas and have a voice.

"The townships have an annual joint meeting, but this is the first time we've had one with the cities and townships together," said Michael Cain, city manager for Boyne City.

Sixteen different townships, cities and commissions took turns explaining what they are doing and the challenges in their perspective areas so they could all see what common issues the possess. According to Cain, it was a preliminary meeting to introduce some of the issues the groups have so they can gather together at another time to discuss options for solving problems. They also anticipate a time in the future when they will be forced to work together and wanted to work toward joining forces before that happens.

> "We're looking at out-of-the-box thinking. We're looking at creative ways to save money. So, if there is an upshot to this economic downturn ... I think it's really piquing some creative interests and creative ideas of what we can do better."
> — Rob Straebel, Charlevoix city manager.

"This is a great effort upfront because the reality that we have to come to terms with right out of the gate is it's going to be a lot easier for all of us to get along with one another if we work it out ourselves. Down the road when (state officials) tell us we have to get along if we haven't already started talking about it, it's going to be a lot more painful and it's going to be a lot more territorial and it will probably be an issue," said Chris Christensen, Charlevoix County commissioner.

The common theme for the meeting was that everyone is struggling in the current poor economy and they need to come up with creative ways to save money.

"You don't come to my office and say, 'well, we're doing it that way because that's the way we've always done it.' We're looking at out-of-the-box thinking. We're looking at creative ways to save money. So, if there is an upshot to this economic downturn that Michigan has been in or several years I think it's really piquing some creative interests and creative ideas of what we can do better," said Rob Straebel, city manager for the City of Charlevoix.

Some municipalities have already started working together to try to bring more tourism to the region and enhance the economy.

"The Breezeway is a great example of three areas, East Jordan, Ellsworth and Boyne Falls, cooperating on kind of a regional basis, a linear region," said Robert Anderson, city manager for the City of East Jordan.

Other examples of areas some of the municipalities are discussing working together on is the purchase of fuel for government vehicles to save money by buying larger amounts and the sharing emergency services.

No specific decisions were made at the meeting to combine services or to work together on projects, but the groundwork was laid down. Before adjourning the group decided to stay in contact to define two or three key issues so they can discuss them in more detail at the next meeting. A date and time for the next meeting has not been set at this time.

"I think what this was is an ice-breaker to make future plans," Christensen said.

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

Our minds have the ability to accept, reject and change outcomes. Such a powerful tool we've been given and not utilized enough at times. If something is bothersome, we have the ability to stop thinking about it and let it go, if we choose. If we are hopeful and positive, we can create an outcome for the better. How we react to something may seem insignificant, but it may affect someone else's perception for the better or for the worse. No matter what your circumstances are, if you expect favorable results, then the situation will change accordingly. It may take some time for the changes to take place, but eventually they do.

If you are on a board of directors or working with a fairly large staff of individuals, it helps to visualize favorable results. Being less of a devil's advocate will bring your projects to a successful completion. Smiling a little more may make others wonder what you are up to, but it's that smile that keep others thinking is a positive vein. Whenever negative thoughts appear, replace them with a constructive one. Persistence in thinking positively will teach your mind to ignore negative thoughts. This line of thinking also applies if you are struggling with a personal relationship. What you visualize in your mind about this person may happen, and not be a coincidence. It goes along with the saying "Careful of what you wish for."

Not everyone accepts this philosophy. It might be a person's own negativity that's keeping him or her from accepting change and the person's own view on life may be one that tends to look at the glass half empty. It's far easier to complain and criticize than to say something nice, especially during the winter months in Northern Michigan when the sun is rarely out. It also has been noted that negativity is a genetic trait much more so than a learned one. Some individuals seem to only focus on worst case scenarios. Their conversations follow suit and for those who listen and believe, those followers begin to question their own beliefs. With a little help, those thoughts can dissipate. Even individuals with a chemical imbalance can eventually realize that they can live a more productive life with the assistance of proactive thoughts.

For a dramatic example we can take a look at Abe Lincoln's life. He was determined to be positive and win the presidency even though he was surrounded by losses — his mother, his bride and numerous elections. His determination and forward thinking helped him become president and abolished slavery as well. In the realm of the movie industry, rejection takes place regularly and it takes an armor of positive thoughts to keep continuing. The film "Star Wars" had been turned down by every major studio. Its creator, George Lucas, never gave up and today products tied to this movie still continue to make millions.

As educators and counselors we are taught that for every negative comment made to a student or client you are working with four positive ones need to follow to erase the negative feelings. With that kind of ratio, it puts greater importance on the need to be careful how we say things to one other.

The ingredient that is important to include in this thought process is perseverance. It helps to write down what we would like to see happen and take the time to read it occasionally. This is what psychologists refer to as positive affirmation. Writing down our thoughts and what our goals are help us to visual the success we would like to see. If we do this, we are more apt to stay the course and achieve what we thought was impossible. If we think things will get worse they probably will. If we think things will get better they usually do. So, as we plow through snow banks and inundate ourselves with layers of warm clothing, keep the positive fires lit inside and you'll feel better for it.

Priest to speak on immigration reform

The Rev. Wayne Dziekan, director of the Secretariat for Justice and Peace for the Roman Catholic Diocese of Gaylord will return to the Charlevoix Public Library to address possible solutions to the complex problems of immigration during a program scheduled for 2:30-5:30 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 27th.

In the spring of 2010, the Rev. Dziekan spoke to an audience of 60 people in the at the library, providing an introduction to immigration titled "Another Point of View: Debunking the Myths of Immigration." Now, in the wake of the deportation of 17 Northern Michigan people, this second presentation will emphasize the need for a broad approach to the issue. He will give a brief overview of the root causes of the problems, and then guide the discussion about ways in which each person and the community can take part in the journey toward solutions. Organizers said the program will challenge the seeming inability of both the executive and legislative branches of the US government to find just, workable solutions.

The Rev. Dziekan has traveled extensively to Latin America, including Mexico, Bolivia, Nicaragua, Guatemala, and Peru. In his travels, he has worked with poor and indigenous people on projects designed to provide them with a secure, sustainable income, as well as serving in various capacities for the church. With a local friend and community activist, he led 13 fact finding trips to the U.S./Mexico border to study the causes of poverty. They have also operated a five-day "Summer Youth Mission Experience," providing an opportunity for area youth to learn about the reality of migrant workers and their impact on the local, state, and U.S. economies.

The program will include with a snack break midway through. For those who missed the first program, the half-hour video that was shown last year will be repeated from 2- 2:30 p.m.

The program is sponsored by the Little Traverse League for Peace and Freedom and is open to all. For more information, call Jean Engstrand at (231) 588-2135.

Work continues on trail planning

TINA SUNDELIUS
SPECIAL TO THE COURIER

The much awaited completion of the proposed Lake to Lake Trail that will connect downtown Charlevoix and the Fisherman's Island State Park is still undetermined, but trail committee members have been continuing steps to further the trail's progress as well as a "Round the City Loop" which the city's three beaches.

Although it had previously been reported that the trail, that was first conceived in 1992 would be open by last spring but Charlevoix City Planner Mike Spencer recently noted that the trail was never was expected to be completed that soon.

Although a large percentage of the trail is already present, changes in the proposed route have added time and money to the project.

Spencer noted that the portion of the route along the airport was going to include the entire Medusa Spur, once used to bring equipment and building materials, but the need for expanding the airport, and safety concerns regarding private airplanes crossing the trail, made it necessary to move the route. This change necessitated the need to complete an engineering study.

"We've applied for a grant from the Little Traverse Bay Bands Odawa Indians to pay for the engineering services for the trail." Spencer said. The trail crosses U.S. 31 by the city airport and extends in the right of way to Bells Bay Road and in order to get permission from the Michigan Department of Transportation to do that, an engineering study is required.

"We are now doing the nuts and bolts of how best to coordinate linking portions of the old Medusa Spur and portions of the trail that will run within the (state highway) right of way," Joanne Beemon, with the Charlevoix Land Conservancy and a member of the trail committee said. "A priority from the beginning has been to keep the trail away from traffic."

There are still many facets of the project to be considered including topography, traffic, and storm drainage to list only a few. Also, the committee is considering how a city-owned 10-acre wooded parcel of land on M-66 could be used as a trail head. Although planners are moving ahead on the project there are many details that are still to be determined any of which can alter any projected time frame or budget, organizers noted.

Years ago the city constructed the portion of the trail that spans from Carpenter Street to the Airport Terminal. It will eventually continue on city land between U.S. 31 and the Airport to just south of the Airport Bar, where the Medusa Spur crosses U.S. 31. The Snowmobile Club has used the portion of the proposed trail that runs from U.S. 31 to M-66 at Ferry Road, running behind Ace Hardware and Charlevoix Estates for years. The fact that most of this pathway already exists makes the project more viable, the committee noted.

The trail committee hopes to finance the project through applying for any grants as well as fundraising efforts, materials donated by St. Mary's Cement, construction provided by the snowmobile club and WATCH, a local non-profit environmental advocacy group, has procured a grant that will help pay for bike racks, signs etc.

"Everyone is strapped." Beemon said, "But when you look around our little town, you can see that we are not without resources. It is hard for people to envision a trail that goes into the state park and circles the city, and could one day easily have a spur to the high school. It's hard because we are so automobile dependant. But more and more cities, and especially areas that depend on tourism dollars, understand that multi-purpose trails enrich communities."

Upon completion, the trail will be maintained by a group effort of community volunteers including the snowmobile club, who intend to use it during the winter months as well as others.

"I think the trail is a very positive thing for the community," Spencer said, "Trails get people out and active and if people are using it that could help with the congestion issue in the summer.

Donations to assist in the construction of the trails are being taken through WATCH. The organization may be reached at (231) 547-5530 or via e-mail at watchcharlevoix@gmail.com.

Kiwanis seeks essay contest entries

The Charlevoix Kiwanis Club is sponsoring an essay contest open to all Charlevoix area students currently in the 5th grade. Students are to explain, in one to two pages, which non-profit group they think an award of $50 should be given and why they have selected that particular charity.

The club will select multiple student essay contest winners from the submissions and an award ceremony will take place to which winners and their parents will be invited. Each student who wrote a winning essay will be presented with a $50 check for the students, in turn, present to their favorite charity.

The Charlevoix Kiwanis Club officials said the club hopes to encourage grade students to think about all of the good things that the various charities do to help our community. The essay contest is named after former Charlevoix Kiwanis Club member Merle Vandenberg who served Kiwanis as president of the local club and as a Lt. Governor. Vandenberg was a teacher and dedicated his life to helping Charlevoix area students.

The essay contest is open to fifth graders attending Charlevoix Middle School, St. Mary School and Northwest Academy. Home school students may pick up information at Round Lake Book Store in Charlevoix.

CHRISTINA ROHN

If a regional Catholic high school is to move forward in the area, it must be a community effort.

This was the message Sunday from Charles Taylor, superintendent of Catholic schools for the Diocese of Gaylord, during a meeting to discuss the potential effort with area parishioners at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Petoskey.

"The diocese can't drive this — the community has to want it," he said.

According to Taylor, St. Francis Xavier School used to have a high school. In 1965, there were 999 students enrolled in the K-12 school — 292 in the high school alone.

In 1971, however, the high school was closed.

"In the end, the community just let it go," Taylor said.

Currently, the diocese has only four Catholic high schools in its coverage area, including St. Francis High School in Traverse City, Gaylord St. Mary Cathedral School, Manistee Catholic Central Schools and St. Mary School in Lake Leelanau.

During Sunday's meeting, Taylor explained that to open a regional Catholic high school near Petoskey, it would take major resources — ones that some of the larger parishes in the area could not provide.

"The Harbor Springs, Charlevoix and Petoskey parishes are maxed out — they cannot do one more thing ... that leaves you with the Boynes and Indian River to help out," Taylor said. "This cannot be just a St. Francis (Xavier) initiative."

The Rev. Dennis Stilwell, pastor of St. Francis Xavier Catholic Church in Petoskey, said people leaving Sunday's meeting should continue to be hopeful.

"Right now this is a dream — it's a grass roots effort ... if enough people want to do this, and are willing to stand by this, it could come to pass," Stilwell said. "I don't think people are discouraged, they have every reason to be encouraged."

Lisa Craig Brisson of Cheboygan, said she attended Sunday's meeting to get a handle on the status of the effort. Brisson, whose children attend first, fourth and sixth grade at the Bishop Baraga Catholic School in Cheboygan, said she wants to give her children the opportunity to attend a Catholic high school.

"I went to Catholic school through college ... I looked at my high school education as being fundamentally important, and I want that for my kids," she said. "We've considered sending the kids to Gaylord (St. Mary Cathedral School), but it's just so far. When we first heard this idea, we felt Petoskey might be an option."

"I understand how daunting this can be, but people have had far less (resources) and far more challenges, and have done it," she said. "I don't feel discouraged. I think this meeting reinforced what I thought all along — there is good support."

OBITUARIES

James "Jim" Marshall: March 9, 1930 - Jan. 24, 2011

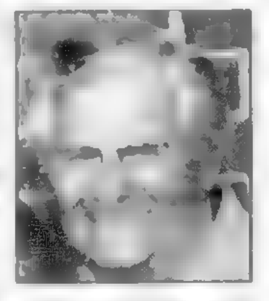
Jim was born on March 9, 1930, in Ann Arbor, to the late Horace and Elra (Willis) Marshall.

He is survived by his wife, Marilyn, daughter of the late Kouzman and Lois (Collins) Vassoff. Married on June 23, 1951, Jim and "Mari" shared 59 wonderful years together and had four children: Deborah Achtenberg (husband Ronald) of Sanford, Mich.; son David (Mary) also of Sanford; son James III (Linda) of Petoskey; and son, Roger of Gaylord. There are seven grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

Jim graduated Ann Arbor High School in 1949, and received a BS and an MA from Eastern Michigan University. After serving in the U.S. Navy during the Korean War he was stationed in Jacksonville, Fla., and the Mediterranean.



Marshall

He began his career as a counselor and assistant supervisor of one of the first correction camps for youthful felon offenders in Michigan. In 1958 he was employed at Plymouth High School where he taught American history and sociology while developing a program for the special education of delinquent and emotionally impaired students. In 1962, he was appointed principal at Children Psychiatric Hospital School at the University of Michigan Medical Center.

It was during Jim's tenure at Alanson Schools that the symptoms of multiple sclerosis began but the disease went undiagnosed until 1985. In spite of the MS, he was able to resume his love for counseling, serving as a part-time counselor at Chip Counseling Center in Charlevoix from 1982 until 2002. His former clients and many others who sought out his support continue to attest to the profound impact he has had on their lives through his unique and extraordinary depth of insight and compassion.

Jim and Marilyn enjoyed 38 fantastic years in Charlevoix, during which he served as drive chairman of the local chapter of the United Way. He was also a member of the both the Kiwanis and Lions clubs and cofounded Serenity House-Alano Club of Charlevoix as well as the Rotary Club's Charlevoix chapter. After 12 years of seasonal Florida living, the Marshalls returned to Michigan where they resided in Midland.

In addition to his enjoyment of cooking, Jim had a passion for reading histories and biographies and belonged to creative writing groups in Florida and Midland. Jim cherished his childhood memories of Columbia, Ky., and Ann Arbor which he shared in his writings and passed on verbally. Jim's legacy is our embrace of his lifelong urging for us all to seek knowledge, practice civility, transcend differences, and live in compassionate community.

Following cremation the family will share a life celebration dinner at his home. An upcoming summer celebration of Jim's life to be held in Charlevoix will be announced later. Those planning an expression of sympathy may make donations to Serenity House-Alano Club of Charlevoix or the Multiple Sclerosis Society of Michigan (nationalmssociety.org) or call (248) 936-0355.

OBITUARY

Josh T. Barnes: Feb. 11, 1928 - Jan. 25, 2011

Josh was born in Detroit on Feb. 11, 1928 the son of Thomas F. Barnes and Elizabeth Bennetts Barnes, both of Cornwall.

Josh grew up in Detroit, and graduated from MacKenzie High School in 1946. He attended the University of Michigan and was a lifelong Wolverine fan. He graduated from Lawrence Institute of Technology with a bachelor's degree in civil engineering. He later became a registered professional engineer, a status he maintained throughout his career. Following school he joined the army and achieved the rank of second lieutenant. While serving in the Korean War, he was acting captain of a crash boat. He liked to say his greatest talent was picking up people from hostile beaches in the middle of the night – but was having a hard time finding a job for that in peacetime. Upon his discharge, he started working as a sales representative for Lundston Associates.

From his father, who worked at Detroit Edison, Josh learned of the problems the company had with broken glass street lighting globes. In 1958, Josh's idea for the world's first clear polycarbonate street light globe (an earlier version of those on Bridge Street in downtown Charlevoix) led to the founding of LexaLite. Josh moved LexaLite to Charlevoix in 1965 as the business and his family grew. In order to succeed, Josh had to teach himself optical design, photometry and lighting application, and eventually earned multiple patents for his lighting designs. Josh took pride not only in the success of the company but in the "family" of LexaLite employee-owners he created. He was an early adopter of profit sharing, establishing an employee stock ownership program which ultimately owned 51 percent of the company. In addition to LexaLite, he continued to invest, consult and run various local businesses.

In 1994, Josh started the first of two terms as mayor of Charlevoix. During his tenure, he led the Bridge Park improvement project, the expansion of East Park and city hall improvements and was instrumental in shaping Charlevoix's future. In coping with the fireworks tragedy, Josh brought both professionalism and compassion to one of the most challenging times in Charlevoix's recent history.

Barnes

Josh was instrumental in myriad community developments, including founding the Charlevoix Yacht Club and what is now the Lake Charlevoix Mariners. He was involved in dozens of local clubs, associations, and charities.

Josh was an outdoor enthusiast and enjoyed sailing, skiing, scuba diving, and flying small planes and gliders. He loved lake lore and enjoyed re-finding the wreck of the Bradley freighter and working to bring the Griffin shipwreck research group to Charlevoix.

Josh is survived by his daughter Suzanne Balter (Michael) and grandchildren Andrew and Alison of Lake Oswego, Ore.; son Tom Barnes (Pam) and grandchildren Abbey and Lexie; daughter Valerie Snyder (Mark) and grandchildren Jacob and Luke of Charlevoix; daughter Shari Mennig (Hank) and grandchildren Amanda and Hannah of McPherson, Kan.; son Greg of St. Thomas, U.S. Virgin Islands; and best friend, Janet Stutzman.

Winchester Funeral Home will host a visitation from 5 – 8 p.m. on Friday, Jan. 28 A ceremony to celebrate Josh's life took place at the UCC First Congregational Church of Charlevoix at 3 p.m. on Saturday, Jan. 29, followed at 6 p.m. by a reception at the Weathervane restaurant.

In lieu of flowers, please send donations to the Lake Charlevoix Mariners, PO Box 122, Charlevoix, MI 49720 (www.lakecharlevoixmariners.com) or the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, PO Box 718, East Jordan, MI 49727 (www.c3f.org). Wise pleads guilty to robbery

COURIER EDITOR

The second of two people charged in connection with a March 2010 purse-snatching incident that left the victim with a broken hip has pleaded guilty to unarmed robbery.

Ashley Chere Wise, 23, of Charlevoix pleaded guilty to the charge on Jan. 21. The charge normally carries a maximum penalty of up to 15 years in prison, but she also faces a habitual offender, second offense sentencing enhancement that increases the maximum penalty by one-and a half times to 17.5 years.

Wise

Wise was the second half of brother-sister team who conspired in a strong-arm robbery that took place in the Kmart plaza south of Charlevoix on March 7, 2010.

On July 30, Wise's stepbrother and co-defendant Codey Allen Sisson, 20, was sentenced to serve 20 months to 15 years in prison after pleading guilty to the same unarmed robbery charge.

Police were called to the area around 3 p.m. to a report of a woman strong-armed robbery that had just taken place. The woman, a 68-year-old Central Lake resident, told police she was walking from Family Farm and Home towards the Kmart entrance when a man shoved her to the ground and stole her purse. Police said the woman sustained a broken hip during the robbery, which required surgery to repair.

While en route, officers spotted a man matching the suspect's description who was running behind a home on Stover Street and gave chase. Police ultimately arrested Sisson on Ross Lane.

According to a police affidavit, Sisson admitted to taking the purse and $320 from inside. Police said Sisson admitted that Wise dropped him off at Kmart and was to wait to him pick him up in the cemetery across the street after the robbery.

Wise is scheduled to be sentenced on the charge on Feb. 18 in Charlevoix County Circuit Court. In the meantime, she remains lodged at the Charlevoix County Jail in lieu of bond.

Commissioners pick Olstrom for Grandvue board

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF WRITER

After months of searching and controversy, the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners has selected a new member to the board that oversees the operation of the Grandvue Medical Care Facility.

Bill Olstrom was appointed to fill the vacant seat on the board with by a 5-1 vote at the commission's meeting on Wednesday, Jan. 26. Board of commissioners chairman Joel Evans cast the lone dissenting vote.

The seat has been vacant since October when Ron Moore's term expired. Since then the commissioners appointed John Vrondran to the seat, but because he holds an elected position as the Eveline Township supervisor, he is ineligible for the DHS board and was forced to resign.

Before the commissioners voted to fill the Department of Human Services board position on Wednesday, several concerned citizens spoke to encourage the board to choose the most qualified individual so the residents of Grandvue would get the best possible support.

"Isn't it the responsibility of this commission to reassure the citizens and their faction that they have the best available to them? I do understand, as politicians and public figures, you are required to remain as neutral as possible, but please do not forget that the residents and employees and families of Grandvue are also citizens and deserve your support," Julie Howard, a concerned citizen, said to the board.

There were seven applications for the position, but three withdrew from the running at the last minute before the selection was made.

"Tonight I am going to withdraw my name, and only because we have other people who I think will do a fine job. I feel we have someone who is capable of doing a good job and I hope you (the commissioners) make that decision tonight," said former county commissioner Shirley Roloff.

Olstrom has managerial experience and has served on several different boards in the area. He was born in Charlevoix and lived his entire life in South Arm Township. He worked for Harbor Industries for 39 years, served on the East Jordan Public School Board of Education, the East Jordan Family Health Center Board, the Charlevoix Airport Board and the North Western Michigan Industrial Association Board.

Olstrom faced the commission only moments after being appointed to the board. He asked for their support to get beyond the controversy that has surrounded Grandvue Medical Care Facility throughout the last year so they can focus on taking care of the residents of the facility.

"As the representative to Grandvue I really need the support of this board. In order for us to be effective we need your support," he said.

Doctor who trained many others joins area practice

Dr. Janet Talmo recently joined the Physicians Clinic of Charlevoix on the campus of Charlevoix Area Hospital. Dr. Talmo has more than 25 years of experience in medicine, including family practice and teaching, and she is now accepting new patients at her Charlevoix office.

Originally from the Grand Rapids area, Dr. Talmo practiced medicine there as part of the multi-specialty group Advantage Health. She also taught as an assistant professor at the Michigan State Medical School for 25 years and instructed residents through the Family Practice Grand Rapids Residency Program. Several students of hers are now doctors in our area. Dr. Andrea Wendling, of the Boyne Area Medical Center, was one of Dr. Talmo's residents in 1997, and was a partner with Dr. Talmo for seven years before moving up north.

"Dr. Talmo has a reputation for taking really good care of her patients and getting really invested in their care. She was always well-liked by the residents and won awards for her teaching," Dr. Wendling said. "

Other area doctors Dr. Talmo instructed are Dr. Catherine Wonski, Dr. Mark Smith, Dr. James Jeakle, Dr. Mike Harmeling, and Dr. Pamela R. Knysz of Charlevoix Area Hospital and Dr. Carin Nielsen of Northern Michigan Regional Health System in Petoskey.

"With many of us having been students of Dr. Talmo during our training, we are very excited to be able to work with her again," says Dr. Harmeling. "We're certain her warm personality and excellent clinical skills will be a great addition to our community."

Dr. Talmo said she is happy to have relocated to there area, where she enjoys the community and pace of life. She and her husband owned a cottage in the area for the past 25 years, and recently decided that they would like to move here permanently. Dr. Talmo's husband, Dr. Thomas R. Spooner, is an ear nose and throat specialist who now practices in Petoskey. For Dr. Talmo, the opportunity to practice at Physicians Clinic and Charlevoix Area Hospital was a perfect way for her to maintain her involvement in medicine, while meeting the goal of slowing down in an area both she and her husband love.

Dr. Janet Talmo

Dr. Talmo is board certified in family medicine. She earned her undergraduate degree at the University of Pennsylvania with a bachelor's degree in nursing and then received her medical education at the Michigan State University College of Human Medicine in East Lansing. Dr. Talmo completed her internship and residency at Grand Rapids Area Family Medicine, and she specialized in the entire scope of family, women and child care.

Dr. Talmo sees patients on Monday and Wednesday from 8:30 a.m.-3 p.m. at 14709 W. Upright St. She is also available to schedule earlier morning appointments if desired. To set an appointment, call (231) 547-6519.

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Lauren Brumley, who has served as the dirctor of the Charlevoix Convention and Visitor's Bureau and communications coordinator for the Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce for the past two years is moving on.

Brumley's last official day with the two organizations was Friday, Jan. 29.

Brumley, 24, is leaving the position to take design classes a Kendall College in Grand Rapids this coming spring and then she plans to enroll in a master of business administration program at Grand Valley State University in the fall.

Brumley said the decision to leave her position in Charlevoix was a difficult one for her.

"For the last two years, I have had the privilege of working with and for some of the most talented individuals and accomplished businesses. I looked forward to the many events ... there is never a dull moment. It provided me with an unparalleled experience that many will only hope to achieve and I have never been more grateful," Brumley said. "While I will miss Charlevoix, I'm excited for this new adventure. I look forward to hearing updates and I will certainly be back for a visit or two."

Laruen Brumley

Chamber officials have begun searching for Brumley's replacement and hope to have a new person in the position by March 1.

EJ chamber gives honors at annual meeting

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

Members of the East Jordan community gathered Saturday at Castle Farms in Charlevoix to honor local businesses and citizens at the annual East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce meeting.

The chamber of commerce hosted the event to announce the successes of local business during 2010, to motivate everyone for the upcoming year and to show their support.

"We come to you with a diverse background, united in our desire to support the businesses that we serve and the communities we love," said Tammy Jackson, 2010 East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce chairperson.

The chamber set goals at the beginning of 2010 and feels good about its accomplishments.

"Our goals this year were to sponsor web design and Internet marketing seminars, to promote the Breezeway, and to develop a new website and change the East Jordan E-Capsule format. We also had the goal to increase membership by 30 percent. We successfully achieved our goals and exceeded even our own high expectations," Jackson said.

This year, the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce presented four awards, including two new awards, the Spirit Award and the Business of the Year award.

The Ambassador of the Year award was given to Anora O'Connor from Castle Farms and Marci Palajac from House on the Hill Bed and Breakfast for being ambassadors for the Business After Hours events, for their work with spring cleanup and for organizing meetings.

"Together these two dynamic individuals have teamed up and have never missed welcoming our guests to all of our Business After Hours this year," said Mary H. Faculak, East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce director.

The Spirit Award was given to the entire Ellsworth community for their volunteerism and the ongoing revitalization of their district.

"There are still goals to complete, projects to do, but this commercial district is definitely moving upward and onward," Faculak said.

Business of the Year award went to East Jordan True Value and the Miller family for their support of the Lions Club, East Jordan Public Schools and other events in the community.

"Adapting and evolving throughout the years has made it possible for them to stay open, steadfast and successful even in these challenging economic times," Faculak said.

The Citizen of the Year award was given to Mark Penzien, owner of Penzien Funeral Home, for his humanitarian work here and abroad and for his dedication to serve the community.

"Unwavering selfless commitment and humble dedication to serve the community best describes this year's citizen of the year. Working tirelessly for the betterment of the individual and community while trying to stay behind the scenes and not be singled out and recognized is the manner in which our recipient lives," Faculak said.

After the chamber awarded and honored businesses and individuals in the community they emphasized their commitment to those they serve.

"The board of directors represents you the business owners and we'd like to hear from you anytime you have anything to share," Jackson said

BOYS BASKETBALL

Rayders keep finding ways to win despite adversity

Boys basketball team has 2-game lead in conference race

STEVE FOLEY
NEWS-REVIEW
SPORTS WRITER

GRAYLING Some how, some way, Charlevoix keeps on keepin' on.

The Rayders started Friday's Lake Michigan Conference boys' basketball showdown at Grayling already missing two key players because of illness and injury, then lost starter Ben Myers to a foot injury in the first quarter. Then, in the fourth quarter, three Rayders fouled out.

Still, the Rayders outscored the Vikings, 19-14, in the final stanza to pull out a dramatic 56-51 victory to remain undefeated in the conference and in first place.

"We were extremely proud of the boys tonight," said first-year Charlevoix coach Adam Wood. "As we told them in the locker room, it was a true team win. We had to have some guys really step up big tonight. It shows a lot of character for our kids.

"Very big win for us."

The win lifted Charlevoix to 9-1 overall and 7-0 in the conference. Grayling slipped to 9-2, 5-2. The Vikings now share second place with Elk Rapids, a 63-61 winner Friday over Traverse City St. Francis.

Dylan Putman scored 23 points, Wyatt Drost had 10, and Brennan Ackerman added nine points and six rebounds to lead the Rayders. Putman scored seven of his points in the fourth quarter, helping the Rayders break from a 37-37 tie, before fouling out. Ackerman and Joe Filipak also fouled out. Charlevoix was already down two key players, Matthew Klooster (illness) and Boog Nitchman (injury), entering the game.

"We had a miss-mash of guys in there at the end to hold on," said Wood, who added that Andrew Potter and Thomas Rich did a phenomenal job during crunch time as the Rayders seized the lead, then held the fort. "They (the Vikings) trap a lot, and I thought Andrew Potter did a really nice job at point guard to not only break the press, but to slow the pace once he did.

"We've been real excited about what Thomas Rich has been bringing to us. He's a senior and in the last two games he has given us more than we ever expected from him. He was a big part of that stretch in the final four minutes when we started running out of starters."

Steven Enos scored 10 of his game-high 28 points in the fourth quarter to lead Grayling, while Zane Tobin finished with 10 points.

The Rayders showed similar moxie in their Lake Michigan Conference contest against Harbor Springs on Tuesday, Jan. 25, as the Rayders played arguably their best all-around team game en route to earning a 63-42 win over the Rams.

"It's exciting when a team can come together. Nobody cares who gets the credit, it's fun to coach and it's fun to play."

In the Tuesday, Jan. 25 game, Brennan Ackerman finished with a team-high 16 points and three blocks, while senior guard Thomas Rich added a career-high 12 points and Wyatt Drost and Putman added eight points apiece for the Rayders, who shot 41 percent (22-of-54) in comparison to the Rams, who shot just 21 percent (13-of-61) from the field.

"That was a heck of a surprise for Thomas Rich," Wood said. "He's been earning every bit of it, though, in practice and he's been working really hard. You have to reward him and give him minutes."

Wood also lauded the effort of Drost, who also stepped up at the guard position with the loss of LaBlance and Nitchman.

"He (Drost) really stepped it up this game," Wood said. "He's been one of those guys who stays after practice for about 20 minutes and works on his shot. He's really developing into a nice player and he's a great athlete.

"It's been really nice to see what our guys can do and that's key because we're entering a tough stretch here," added Wood. "We're referring to it as the gauntlet."

The Rayders are slated to take on former longtime coach Keith Haske and the Traverse City St. Francis on Friday, Feb. 4 in Traverse City. Charlevoix won when the two teams met earlier this season.

As far as the adversity with having a starting guard leave the team and another injured for two months, Wood said his team has taken it all in stride.

"The kids have been great with it," Wood said. "As far as coming together as a unit, sometimes adversity can bind you together and I think our kids have really taken to that. Our team has bought into playing team basketball and that's what we preach."

The Rayders took a 15-10 lead after the opening quarter behind six points from Ackerman, who provided a spark off the bench. The Charlevoix lead grew to 28-17 at halftime as Ackerman, who's been battling illness, added six more points inside. The Rayders then extended their lead in the third and built a 50-25 cushion behind a pair of Andrew Potter 3-pointers and five straight points from Rich.

Friday's game was the first in a brutal seven-game stretch during which the Rayders played Petoskey Monday, losing 70-37; Cedarville on Tuesday, Feb. 1; and will face league-rival Traverse City St. Francis on Friday. All four games are on the road. Class A Petoskey, now 12-1, and has steamrolled its way to eight straight victories, Cedarville was 11-0 and ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press Class D state poll, and the St. Francis, under former Rayder coach Keith Haske, is always a difficult place for the Rayders to play. Results of Tuesday's game were not available before press time.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Girls notch win over Harbor Springs, fall to Grayling

STEVE FOLEY
SPORTS WRITER

GRAYLING — The Rayders girls varsity basketball team nearly dug themselves out of an deep deficit Friday but finally succumbed to the Vikings, 64-59 in a Lake Michigan Conference game in Grayling.

Teresa Schreiber scored 15 points, Jo Hamlin had 14, and Ann Hamlin added 13 as the Vikings held on to improve to 7-6 overall, 3-4 league.

Hannah Hybl and Jenna Way scored 15 points apiece to lead Charlevoix, 5-7, 4-3, while Sydney Carlson added 12 points. Hybl grabbed 12 rebounds, while Way had seven.

Grayling jumped to 14-4 first-quarter lead. Several times, the Rayders drew within a bucket or two but couldn't get the equalizer. Charlevoix inched to within two points with under a minute to play in the game.

"We got outhustled in the first half and it was hard to recover from that," Charlevoix coach Leslie Hoffman said. "We didn't come out ready to play. We kept playing hard, trying to come back from that.

"It (the comeback) was a great. It was something we can really learn from."

Earlier in the week, hard work on defense paid off for the Rayder girls as they kept Lake Michigan Conference opponent Harbor Springs from any type of offensive spurt en route to topping the Rams, 47-39 on Tuesday, Jan. 25.

Junior guard Jenna Way paced Charlevoix with 19 points and six rebounds, while senior guard Dani Barron added 10 points as the Rayders built a late lead and managed to hold onto it in the fourth quarter.

Charlevoix led 35-27 entering the fourth before the Rams closed it to four, 35-31. The Rayders then pushed their advantage back to 10, 42-32 midway through the fourth before closing the game out at the free throw line.

Charlevoix, which finished 13-of-21 from the line, shot 5-of-11 from the stripe in the fourth quarter and received seven points from Way, who along with guard Sydney Carlson, did an admirable job of dribble penetration and shot selection.

"I really felt it was two evenly matched teams that work hard on defense and do similar things on offense," Charlevoix coach Leslie Hoffman said. "It was evenly matched, but it just came down to us being able to convert on some matchups and some things down low in the paint. But at the same time, we got burnt a few times on help side and on their drives.

"We just kind of hung onto it there in the end."

Tied at 11-all after the first quarter, the Rayders took an 18-16 lead on the first of three Barron 3-pointers before Way had a steal and layup to make it 20-17 at the half. Charlevoix then opened a 27-18 third-quarter cushion on another Barron triple and closed the stanza behind a quick 6-2 run to take an eight-point lead into the fourth.

Way then took over in the fourth, using dribble penetration to create offense for both herself and teammates.

"Jenna did some great things," Hoffman said. "Between her and Sydney (Carlson), they did a good job at the guard position, got some good looks and drove well."

Also for Charlevoix, Hannah Hybl finished with six points and 11 rebounds.

"This is a big boost for us," Hoffman said. "Knowing we're going into a tough matchup on Friday at Grayling. We know (Grayling) will press up the whole game, so this is a big confidence booster, but we also know there's some things we have to work on.

"It was a great team effort and at the end, we were able to control the ball and control tempo when we needed to."

For Harbor, Elena Ongaro finished with a team-high nine points and four assists, while Kristen Albert had seven points and six rebounds. Also for the Rams, who held a 16-15 lead midway through the second quarter, Jenna Lechowicz and Emily Ford had seven points apiece, while Maggie Walker grabbed four rebounds.

"We pushed the ball well in transition in the first half, then we got away from it in the second half and that hurt us," Harbor Springs coach Jennifer Foley said. "Jenna (Way) was the difference maker and we had a difficult time with her."

In the JV game Charlevoix defeated Harbor Springs 49-39. Anna Way had 20 points and Karley Pearsall added 12 to lead Charlevoix. For Harbor, Stephanie Sylvain had 11 points, while Katie Barkley added 10, and Mallori Keller had eight.

In the freshman game Charlevoix beat Harbor Springs Charlevoix 49-20.

Charlevoix Boy Scouts hosted the event, with a "Northern Knights of the Round Table" theme, and as such oversaw the events rather than competing. To add to the knights theme Burger King provided lunch for the attendees.

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

After many months of meetings and fine-tuning, the Charlevoix City Council on Monday approved a major update to the city's nearly three-decade-old master plan.

And now the hard part begins — using the newly-approve master plan to guide a major overhaul of the city's even more outdated zoning ordinance.

Although there has been a great deal of public input on the master plan in its preliminary stages — especially centering around a handful of properties in the area of U.S. 31 and Pine River Lane and West Dixion Avenue — only two people spoke at the last public hearing that took place before the plan's approval Monday. Both Bob Hoffman, speaking on behalf of the owners of Pointes North Inn and the Bridge Street Inn and (to a greater extent) city resident Pete Phillips said they were concerned about the lack of specifics in the master plan.

City planner Mike Spencer explained that the master plan is, by design, not intended to be big on specifics — that's the role of the zoning ordinance.

Using a building project as an analogy, think of the master plan as the rough sketch that defines the approximate size, shape, and location of a building and the zoning ordinance as the detailed blueprints with everything spelled out down to the carpet and paint.

Spencer acknowledged that other property owners have expressed similar concerns about the absence of specifics in the master plan.

"This is one of the difficult parts of the process, your zoning ordinance is supposed to be created in accordance with the master plan, but you don't come out with both documents at the same time," Spencer said. "What I've told property owners is that its important that they stay up-to-date with the next phase of the process."

Spencer said like the master plan, the work on the zoning ordinance will again start with the city planning commission and then, after public input and hearings, it will make its way before the city council. He estimated that the process will likely take about a year to complete.

"We hope it will go smoothly, but you're not going to please everyone," Spencer added.

As planners drew up the master plan revision, in many cases it was simply a case of classifying the property in the closest corresponding use to what the existing use or zoning is.

But in some cases changes were made. Some of the changes, Spencer said, are proposed because a use no longer exists in that part of the city. In other cases, the proposed changes grow out of a desire to streamline uses or create more continuity in a particular neighborhood

Spencer also noted that the update to the master plan was long overdue, pointing to state law which encourages communities to update their master plans every five years.

The complete master plan may be viewed online at

Navy Seaman Apprentice Logan D. Nuttall, son of Deborah L. Nuttall and Ronald H. Nuttall, of Charlevoix, was recently promoted to his current rank upon graduation from recruit training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill

Nuttall received the early promotion for outstanding performance during all phases of the training cycle. Training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations." This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. "Battle Stations" is designed to galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, teamwork and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of honor, courage and commitment. Its distinctly "Navy" flavor was designed to take into account what it means to be a sailor.

Grant will help inventory road/stream crossings

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation has awarded the Conservation Resource Alliance an $8,000 grant to incorporate all of the road/stream crossing inventory data for the Lake Charlevoix watershed into the existing web-based "River Restoration in Northwest Michigan" site (www.liaa.info/crabmp/default.asp). This database, designed by alliance and Land Information Access Association, includes the framework for an interactive and updateable tool for tracking sediment input at sites throughout 15 counties in northwest Michigan. The database is web hosted in an existing interactive water quality database for maximum accessibility and now serves as a template for groups throughout the Great Lakes basin. The number of watersheds incorporated continues to grow with the addition of the Lake Charlevoix watershed road/stream crossings and this information is available to anyone with internet access.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation also supported alliance's first-ever infrastructure project completed on Beaver Island with a $2,300 grant, which assisted in removing a problem road/stream crossing and improved passage for fish traveling between Lake Michigan and Iron Ore creek. Organization officials said for years, the jasper-tinted creek emptied into Iron Ore Bay by a combination of four inappropriately sized culverts failing in structural integrity and poor placement. With the potential for "coaster" brook trout recruitment from upstream stretches of Iron Ore Creek to the big lake, the replacement of the only road crossing on the creek became a priority given that it crosses immediately adjacent to the mouth. A partnership between several diverse groups resulted in the $34,350 replacement of the existing structure with one more conducive to fish passage. In addition, the new structure complements aesthetics of the location. The partnering groups included the Conservation Resource Alliance, US Fish and Wild-

Search for life may not be fruitless

Roger Knutson

Few ideas in astronomy are as exciting as the possibility that there might be other planets like Earth around distant stars. And even more exciting is the chance that such planets might house some sort of living things. Until recently, the possibility of "exoplanets," as they are called, was in the realm of science fiction. Now a satellite named "Kepler," in honor of the 16th century German astronomer, is busy examining 156,000 stars for evidence that there are planets circling them.

There is good information suggesting that more than 1,000 exoplanets are circling those stars. So far, none of the planets seem to be like Earth. They are too big, or too hot, or not rocky enough. Expectations are high that we will soon know of planets that are in what astronomers call the "Goldilocks zone" not too hot, not too cold, but just right. There is optimism that we will be able to eventually determine whether life might exist on such favored planets. Should we find such evidence, it would surely rank as one of humankind's greatest discoveries.

It is not necessary to look so far away for evidence of exotic life forms. As we continue to explore the hottest, coldest and most remote parts of earth, we find an increasing number of what biologists call "extremophiles," that is, creatures that thrive in extreme environments, like hot springs, Antarctic rocks and the deepest ocean depths. All such places have an abundance of living things, although many of them are microscopic. Maybe life on a seemingly too hot or too cold world out there somewhere isn't out of the question.

The extremes of winter here in Northern Michigan also hold their own living surprises. There are microscopic algae and bacteria that thrive on the surface of snow at temperatures well below freezing. And since even such tiny things might be food for something, it should be no surprise that there are a number of insects that stalk around on the snow surface and gobble up those tasty morsels. Most of the insects are commonly called "snow fleas," although they are not related to fleas. Many of them have evolved from more ordinary flies and beetles to live in extremely cold conditions and manage quite nicely in our harshest winter weather.

Life is extremely flexible and resilient. We should not be too surprised to discover it almost any place in the universe.

One additional winter natural history note. A pair of pileated woodpeckers has been spotted numerous times in North Charlevoix this winter. Look for these magnificent birds. They are the size of a large crow, with a brilliant red crest.

They seem untroubled by being observed.

'Fair' trade is key to immigration reform

Most people recall the story of the good Samaritan who found a man badly beaten. Might it have been possible to look down the road to see who had beaten him and why? Could this be the way many Americans view the issue of immigration? We can leave jugs of water along the migrant's remote paths in the desert to help them survive dehydration, hypothermia and most certain death from exposure, but is this enough?

Poverty has existed in Mexico and Central American countries for years, and has been increasing substantially each year.

Last spring almost 100 people, concerned about this issue, met at the Charlevoix Public Library with the Rev. Wayne Dziekan, a Northern Michigan immigrant rights advocate who has lived in Central America. His experiences have taught him much about the plight of the poor and the root causes of their poverty. We learned about the push/pull effect: the forces which push people off their historical lands and pull them to commit to the dangerous journey north to find work in the U.S. We will meet again at the library at 2:30 p.m. Sunday, Feb. 27, to explore creative constructive ways to address the problem.

We need to examine the undeniable link between the "free" trade agreements — NAFTA, CAFTA and SAP (Structural Adjustment Policies) and the increased migration from Mexico and other Central American countries.

Immigration has more than doubled since the passage of NAFTA. More than 3 million farmers have been displaced and 1/3 of NAFTA-created jobs have disappeared. Poverty has increased substantially since the implementation of SAPs. These programs direct that the IMF (International Monetary Fund) dictate that these economies look to private sectors (privatize) to create prosperity, decrease spending on social programs, education and health care, resulting in massive unemployment. SAP directs countries to look to trade and exports and set up incentives for foreign investors. Farmers cannot compete with subsidized agri-businesses and go out of business and immigrate.

As one who has traveled to Central America many times as a Witness For Peace delegate, I understand the agonizing decision made by farmers to leave family, community and the rolling hills of a coffee farm, unable to compete with huge multi national coffee companies, and embark on a perilous trip north facing the stark realities of beatings by gangs, bandits, vigilantes, hostile environments, possible starvation and death. As one of the migrants said "I would rather risk dying in the desert, than endure the shame of watching my children suffer from hunger in their own land."

Do they take our jobs? Are they a burden on our economy? Their jobs are mostly in the low-skill/pay area — the dangerous meat packing industry, agriculture and service areas. When undocumented workers receive their rights and assert themselves in the workplace, studies show real wages stabilize, and in most cases, rise for everyone.

The National Research Council estimates that over the next 75 years new legal immigrants will contribute $611 billion to Social Security and each year undocumented workers pay $20 billion, none of which they will be able to collect.

They will continue to knock on our doors until we change our draconian economic policies. It's time our legislators to wake up. We don't need "free" trade but "fair" trade policies. Fences will not work. Janet Napolitano, Homeland Security Director quipped, "Show me a 50 foot wall and I'll show you a 51 foot ladder."

Regional health centers team up to enhance care

Northern Michigan Regional Health System and Beaver Island Rural Health Center have entered into an agreement to enhance their partnership, the two organizations announced Monday.

Officials said the agreement will further expand the "framework of mutual collaboration between Northern Michigan Regional Health System and Beaver Island Rural Health Center to share, plan, and develop services that support the delivery of high quality, cost effective health care for Beaver Island residents." It will also support infrastructure as needed for the continuation of medical care in the appropriate medical setting off the island, whether it be at Northern Michigan Regional Health System or another medical facility.

"We look forward to expanding our relationship with Beaver Island Rural Health Center through this agreement as it aligns with our mission to increase access, improve quality, and reduce costs of health care to Northern Michigan residents," said Reezie DeVet, president and CEO of Northern Michigan Regional Health System.

Goals of the agreement include investigating potential solutions for purchasing support, supplies, and equipment, as well as exploring community and medical education opportunities, and expanding telemedicine and connectivity between Beaver Island Rural Health Center and the mainland.

"Through this expanded partnership, Beaver Island Rural Health Center patients will have enhanced access to technologically advanced health care that is expected by island residents and increasingly demanded by healthcare policy and regulation, and, if additional health care is required, seamless transfer to higher levels of care on the mainland," said Northern Michigan Regional Health System board chair, David Buzzelli.

According to The Beaver Island Task Force Committee, Beaver Island Rural Health Center is "painfully aware" of the great challenges its isolation and fragile financial resources represent.

"The agreement is the culmination of months of hard work between Beaver Island Rural Health Center and Northern Michigan Regional Health System," said Denny Cook, president of Beaver Island Rural Health Center. "We are very pleased that it has been passed by the boards of both organizations. It lays the groundwork for working together in the future to provide even better healthcare services to Beaver Island."

Having had a long-standing relationship with Beaver Island Rural Health Center, Bill Jackson, president and CEO of Charlevoix Area Hospital, said the relationship between Northern Michigan Regional Health System and Beaver Island Rural Health Center is yet another aspect in complementing the care provided to the Beaver Island community.

Charlevoix artists, Legs Inn featured on CMU TV series

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — Charlevoix artists Meredith Krell and Steve Toornman and Cross Village's Legs Inn were recently featured on the most recent installment of the Central Michigan University Public Television program "Destination Michigan."

The show aired at 7:30 p.m. Monday, Feb. 7, but a special encore presentation will air at 11 a.m. on Saturday, Feb. 12. CMU Public Television is available on broadcast channels 6 (out of Alpena) and 27 (out of Cadillac) or on Charter cable channel 6. (The Courier received notice of the show's air dates too late for last week's edition.)

Toornman said the show's producers contacted him and his wife about appearing on "Destination Michigan" after they sent out press releases around the state about an art show they were planning at their studio in mid-August. He said crews from the show taped the segment during a two-hour visit on the day before their Aug. 13 art show.

Toornman said he and Meredith do drawing, painting and prints and have had their studio in Charlevoix for about 10 years. Their art has appeared in nationally juried exhibits and magazines and they have received many awards for their work.

He said they sell their work mostly through art shows and in various galleries, but the studio is open by appointment. To see a small sampling of their work visit the couple's website www.merfnsteve.com.

The episode of "Destination Michigan" will also feature stops in Ludington, Big Rapids and Chelsea.

"Destination Michigan" is an original series on CMU Public Television that celebrates the people and places of Michigan. The show features WCMU's staff producers Sarah Adams, Courtney Brooks and Kurt Wilson, along with special features from television veteran and outdoor enthusiast Bob Garner.

Gerald 'Jerry' David Staublin:
Aug. 31, 1929 - Feb. 3, 2011

Jerry was born on Aug. 31, 1929, in Rockford, Ill., where he graduated from West Rockford High School. A few years later, while studying at the University of Illinois, Jerry met the love of his life, Arla Rose Rice, on a blind date arranged by a mutual friend. From that moment on, Jerry said, he "was walking two feet above the ground." They were married on Oct. 6, 1951. Jerry was drafted into the U.S. Army and, just days after returning from his honeymoon, left to begin military service. He served as a second lieutenant in the Korean War and was awarded the Purple Heart.

After returning home from the war, Jerry completed his education, earning a bachelor's degree in civil engineering from the University of New Mexico. Over the next 15 years, he and Arla lived in Ohio, Pennsylvania and Michigan. In 1966, they settled in Charlevoix, where Jerry worked for Medusa Portland Cement Company until his retirement. Together Jerry and Arla raised three children, in whom they inspired a deep appreciation for the importance of education and the wonder of music.

All forms of music held a special place in Jerry's heart. A talented musician who was well known in the community for his beautiful bass singing voice, he sang in a number of community groups over the years, including the Northern Michigan Chorale, the Choral Society, the Charlevoix Men's Chorus, the local barbershop chorus, numerous barbershop quartets, the choir of the Bay View Association of the United Methodist Church in Petoskey and the choir at First Congregational Church in Charlevoix, where he and Arla were active members. He was also a longtime supporter of the Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra.

Staublin

Jerry served on the Charlevoix Area Hospital board of directors, including as president of the board. In his free time, he loved to play tennis and golf with friends.

Jerry is survived by children, Laura Staublin of Fulton, Ill., David Staublin of Rockford, Mich., and Daniel Staublin of San Francisco; sister, Jeanne Deringer of Vancouver, Wash.; and grandchildren, Philip, Thomas and Dana Staublin.

He was preceded in death by his parents, Percy and Vera Staublin; his stepmother, Maurine Staublin; his loving wife, Arla, in 1996; and a daughter, Julie Ann, who died six hours after her birth in 1953.

Jerry's children would like to express deepest gratitude to his extended family and friends near and far, the amazing staff at the Georgia House assisted living facility in Charlevoix and the incredible Hospice team at the Health Department of Northwest Michigan. The love, care and support you provided to Dad, especially in his final months, have meant more to us than you could ever know.

Visitation took place from 12:30-4 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 6, at Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. A musical celebration of Jerry's life, followed by a luncheon for family and friends, will took place at 11 a.m. on Monday, Feb. 7, at First Congregational Church in Charlevoix. In lieu of flowers, the family suggests donations in Jerry's memory to Hospice of Northwest Michigan, 220 W. Garfield, Charlevoix, Mich. 49720 or the Charlevoix First Congregational Church Special Music Fund, 101 State Street, Charlevoix, Mich. 49720.

Millie also was a devoted companion and nurse to her mother-in-law, Zelma Withers, who died in 1985.

Two very helpful friends in recent years are JoAnne Beemon of Charlevoix, and Kathy Remington of Zephyrhills, Fla. and Nova Scotia, Canada.

Memorial donations may be made to Hospice of Northwest Michigan, or the Charlevoix Historical Society.

Visitation will be 6-8 p.m., today, Wednesday, Feb. 9, at Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, the Rosary will be recited at 7 p.m. Funeral Mass will be 11 a.m., Thursday, at St. Mary's Church in Charlevoix. Burial will be in Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

Wojan Window & Door wins industry award

Wojan Window & Door Corp. of Charlevoix recently earned an industry award from USGlass Magazine for having the "most significant commercial door or window product of 2010."

Wojan received the recognition for its new M-950 series of architecturally rated commercial aluminum windows with a 3 1/4-inch frame depth, a wider thermal break and a 1-inch insulated glass unit. These characteristics provide significantly improved energy efficiency.

M-950 Series windows have already been installed on several projects throughout the Midwest and South, including an apartment complex in Waunakee, Wis., a housing project in Mount Clemens and military facilities at Fort Belvoir, Va., Camp Lejeune, N.C., and Fort Benning, Ga.

Even as interest in the M-950 appears to be on the rise, the Wojan team has already completed other new projects for the company, such as the M-950B series — blast-resistant windows typically used on military bases — as well as a new line of sliding glass doors.

Next up for Wojan will be blast-resistant hurricane windows that can be installed in hurricane-prone regions of the country.

Since 1952 Wojan Window & Door Corp. has been producing aluminum windows and sliding glass doors in its manufacturing facilities in Charlevoix and Coldwate. Wojan, who's father Walter Wojan founded the company, is a lifelong resident of Charlevoix and has led Wojan Corp. since 1970. For more information on Wojan Corp., visit Wojan's website at www.wojan.com.

Chamber announces finalists for annual awards

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

In a break from tradition, Charlevoix Area Chamber of Commerce officials recently announced the two finalists in four of five award categories for the organization's upcoming annual meeting and awards ceremony — now known as the Annual Gala.

Chamber president Erin Bemis announced the finalists during the organization's first Biz Breakfast of the year at the Weathervane Restaurant Friday. Bemis explained that in previous years the nominees and winners had been kept a closely held secret right up until the event. However this year organizers thought they would change things up a bit announcing two finalists in each category in advance. She said one benefit of the revised process is that it allows the chamber to recognize the efforts of more people each year.

The finalists for this year's awards are:

Outstanding Citizen:

- Charlevoix Police Chief Gerard Doan
- Charlevoix Area Hospital CEO Bill Jackson

The purpose of this award is to recognize an individual who, over a number of years, has given freely of time, talents, and resources to make the Charlevoix area a better place to live.

Ambassador of the Year:

- Jay Balasz, DDS, owner of Jay Balasz Dentistry
- Peggy Kusina, Castle Farms, gift shop and tour director

This award recognizes an individual who promotes the spirit of the Charlevoix community and/or the Chamber of Commerce and its programs.

Business of the Year:

- Charlevoix State Bank
- Ace Hardware

Inspirational and visionary, this business operates at a level that inspires others and exhibits vision that goes beyond "business as usual." The Business of the Year demonstrates success and exceptional performance in business practices, customer service and community involvement.

Customer Service Award:

- Marsha Jones, manager, Charlevoix Burger King
- Dean Behan, owner/operator of Behan Window Cleaning

Service excellence is a top priority for this award. The recipient, an employee of a member business, exemplifies high standards giving priority attention to every customer, client or guest.

There will be one award for which finalists will not be announced until the winner is named on the night of the event: The Chairman's Award. This award recognizes an individual who has volunteered time and/or resources to help the Chamber of Commerce. The chairman of the board selects this person with approval by the Chamber's board of directors.

The Gala, is scheduled for Saturday, Feb. 26, at Castle Farms on M-66 south of Charlevoix. A hors d'oeuvres and cocktail hour starts at 6 p.m., followed at 7 p.m. by dinner and the awards presentation, live entertainment and dancing. A silent auction will help raise funds for the Chamber Scholarship program, and there will be a cash bar. Tickets are $50 per person.

Chamber officials are also seeking donations goods or services for the silent auction. For more information on the Gala or to contribute to the silent auction, contact the chamber office at info@charlevoix.org or (231) 547-210. Auction donations are needed by Feb. 14.

What: Chamber's Anual Gala

When: 6 p.m., Sat., Feb. 26

In other business Monday the city council approved five new job descriptions for newly created positions at the Charlevoix Municipal Airport. The city will be taking over management of operations at the airport on April 1 from Island Airways, which had served as the airport's "fixed base operator" for years. The positions include a full time operations manager, a part time customer service position, and seasonal or part time maintenance and fuel ramp workers.

Future land use maps

The color-coded maps at left are the future land use maps which are part of the new city master plan approved by the Charlevoix City Council Monday. The color represents the future land use classification for each property. The classifications are more general than zoning designations, but will be used both as a guide in an upcoming overhaul of the city's zoning code and in the future as property owners make re-zoning and variance requests and in other decisions about land use in the city. For a closer look, the maps and the complete master plan may be downloaded from the city's website at www.cityofcharlevoix.org.

Brush Up on Your Estate Plan Basics

During your lifetime, you make a lot of moves to provide financial security to your loved ones. You put away money for college for your children. You save and invest for your own retirement so that you won't burden your grown children with significant expenses. And you purchase adequate life insurance to enable your family to maintain its lifestyle should anything happen to you. Yet, if you're going to help preserve your family's financial well-being after you're gone, you also need to take one additional step: Create an estate plan. Toward that end, you'll want to start by learning a few of the estate plan basics, such as these commonly used tools:

- Will — For most people, a will is probably the most essential estate-planning document. Regardless of the size of your estate, you need a will to ensure that your assets and personal belongings will be distributed according to your wishes. If you die intestate (without a will), your belongings will be distributed to your "heirs" as defined by state laws — and these distributions may not be at all what you had in mind.
- Living trust — A simple will may not be sufficient for your needs. Consequently, you may want to design a living trust, which provides you with more flexibility in distributing assets. For example, you could direct your living trust to disperse assets to your children or grandchildren at specific ages. Also, a living trust makes it possible for your assets to be distributed without going through the often time-consuming, and public, probate process.
- Beneficiary designations — Over time, your life may change in many ways, through marriage, remarriage, children, stepchildren and so on. That's why it's important to periodically update your beneficiary designations on your insurance policies and retirement accounts, such as your IRA and 401(k). These designations are powerful and can even supersede the instructions left in your will or living trust, so it's essential that you've got the right people listed as your beneficiaries.
- Irrevocable life insurance trust — Depending on the size of your estate, your heirs may ultimately have to pay estate taxes, though the estate tax laws have been in flux in recent years and may continue to evolve. If estate taxes are a concern, you may want to take steps to alleviate them, such as establishing an irrevocable life insurance trust, under which you'd transfer a life insurance policy out of your estate and have the trust distribute the proceeds to the beneficiaries you've chosen.
- Power of attorney — A power of attorney allows you to appoint a person (an "Attorney-in-Fact" or "Agent") to handle your affairs if you can't do so yourself.
- Health care directive — A health care directive allows you to name someone to make health care decisions on your behalf, should you become physically or mentally incapacitated. Estate planning can be complex, so you'll need to work with your tax, legal and financial advisors to make the arrangements that are appropriate for your needs. It may take some time to develop your estate plan, but it's well worth the effort.

BOYS BASKETBALL

Tough week nets three losses for Rayder boys

After racking up an impressive 9-1 record in the first 10 games of the season, including a two-game lead in the conference standings, the Charlevoix boys varsity basketball team emerged from a particularly tough stretch in their schedule last week with three losses, one of them to conference rival Traverse City St. Francis.

Friday's 70-49 loss to St. Francis left the Rayders with a one-game lead over both Grayling and Elk Rapids the in Lake Michigan Conference boys' basketball race.

The loss was the Rayders' third straight — but first in the Lake Michigan Conference — and it dropped them to 9-4 overall, 7-1 league. It came in their fourth game in seven nights, and it was the climax of a brutal four-game stretch of road games that began one week earlier with a win over Grayling. Losses to Petoskey and Cedarville preceded Friday's defeat at St. Francis.

"We're going to get a couple days rest here and try to come back on Monday and really start to get after it," first-year Charlevoix coach Adam Wood said following Friday's game. The Rayders were slated to host surging Boyne City in a conference game on Tuesday, Feb. 8. "We told the boys, 'When you face adversity like this and times get tough, character really shows up.' ... We have a choice to make, we can fold or we can work hard and try to get back. Our conference is tough and we're going to see everybody's 'A' game. We have to bring our 'A plus' game. If at any point we don't do that, somebody's going to get you."

St. Francis, which remained alive in the hunt for the league championship with Friday's win, improved to 7-5, 5-2 and now trails the Rayders by 1 1/2 games. The Gladiators led, 27-26, at halftime then left the Rayders in the dust with a 28-11 third quarter.

Riley Bullough, who finished with 12 points, made two 3-pointers in the third quarter, while Byron Bullough also nailed a triple. Chris Miller added 19 points for St. Francis, while Byron Bullough had 11. The Glads finished with six 3-pointers on the night.

Brennan Ackerman scored 13 points and Andrew Plude had 11 for Charlevoix, which won the first meeting between the schools, 66-58, on Dec. 16.

"The biggest thing was we didn't contest their shots well enough," Wood said. "The good shooting got contagious and once one of them hits a 3, it seems like all of them started going down. They did a good job of getting Sean Sheldon the ball in the middle of the floor and he's pretty tough for anybody to stop.

"Obviously when one team starts pulling ahead the way they did on us, some of that emotion fades away and it gets frustrating. It might have been tired legs, I don't know. Maybe we hit a wall a little bit. As that third quarter progressed, we just didn't do a good job of recovering on their shooters or denying Sheldon the ball."

Friday's game was a rematch between the two teams.

On Tuesday, Feb. 1, the Rayders fell to Cedarville who was ranked No. 1 in the Associated Press Class D state poll, 68-56.

Ackerman had 17 points and eight rebounds for the Rayders, while Plude added 15 points, and Dylan Putman had nine points and six rebounds.

"I was hoping our energy level would be a little bit higher," coach Wood said of the Rayders' game with Cedarville. "I think we did struggle with that a little bit. I told the boys that's (playing back-to-back nights on the road) not an excuse, but it is a tough situation, and it's something we're not accustomed to. Emotionally, two games in two nights is not an easy deal. I don't think our energy level was completely there."

Cedarville won the JV game, 57-50. Sawyer Russell and Tanner Catt scored 14 points each for Charlevoix.

On Monday, Jan. 31 the Rayders lost to Petoskey which was then tied for 10th in the Associated Press Class A state poll, 70-37.

Putman scored 11 points to pace the Rayders, 9-2, who saw their six-game win streak come to an end.

Charlevoix's Ackerman scored on a putback early in the third quarter to cut the Northmen advantage to 11, 32-21.

Then, Petoskey pulled away scoroing 27 straight points.

Charlevoix committed 10 turnovers including eight consecutive during Petoksey's game-breaking spurt, and every time Charlevoix gave it away, the Northmen converted on the other end. The Northmen turned the ball over 10 times on the night, none in the third quarter when they pitched the near-shutout.

Plude's 3-pointer early in the fourth quarter broke a seven-plus minute Charlevoix scoring drought.

Both teams were coming off emotional — and crucial — wins in their respective leagues three nights earlier. The Northmen downed Traverse City Central, 65-51, to improve to 5-0 in the Big North Conference, while Charlevoix held off Grayling, 56-51, to open a two-game lead in the Lake Michigan Conference.

"We planned on playing a lot of bodies tonight because we have to turn around and drive two hours up to the U.P. (Tuesday), and then obviously the biggest fish to fry comes on Friday," said coach Wood, whose team's only other loss this season was at defending Class C state runner-up Suttons Bay, which was 8-3 and features one of the state's top players in Michigan State-bound Duwan Anderson. "Petoksey's a really good team, and we were really impressed with them. To be honest, I was really happy with where we were at halftime, knowing that we have our minds on a lot of different things that are coming this week.

"As we told the boys, you take that third quarter out of there and it's probably a nine-point game. But that's what it means to compete all four quarters especially against not only a bigger team, but a really good team.

The Rayders will host Kalkaska at home at 7:30 p.m. on Friday, Feb. 11.

Charlevoix girls drop games to T.C. St. Francis, Petoskey

Ellen Kendziorski hit four 3-pointers in the second half and finished with 15 points as St. Francis maintained its share of the Lake Michigan Conference lead with a 47-29 win over the Rayders Friday.

St. Francis improved to 12-0 overall, 8-0 league. Charlevoix, for whom Friday's loss was the third straight, slipped to 5-9, 4-4. The Gladiators remain in a virtual tie with Kalkaska atop the league. The Blazers, a 61-15 winner over Boyne City on Friday, are 13-0, 7-0. Kalkaska was slated to host to St. Francis on Tuesday, Feb. 8.

The win was Petoskey's seventh straight, and it lifted the Northmen to 12-2. Petoskey was ranked 10th in the Associated Press Class A state poll and was in lead the Big North Conference at 6-0.

The Northmen streaked to an 18-0 lead, led 21-5 after one quarter, and were up 42-8 at halftime.

Megan Peters scored five points to lead Charlevoix, whose record fell to 5-8 following the game.

"We knew that Petoskey is a great team and that they've been playing some really good basketball," said Charlevoix coach Leslie Hoffman. "I think we were intimidated from the get-go and that definitely showed.

"The second half, we did a little better job, and we did go and attack the basket. We're putting it behind us, and we're just going to use it as a learning experience."

Petoskey won the JV game, 47-31. Katie Lewis scored 16 points and grabbed eight rebounds for the Northmen, while Liz Fraser had nine points, and Emily Kent added seven. For Charlevoix, Katherine Hybl and Karley Pearsall scored 11 points apiece, and Bailee Stevens added six.

The Rayders were slated to host Boyne City on Tuesday, Feb. 8 and then host Kalkaska on Friday, Feb. 11. Tip off is at 6 p.m.

ANNUAL DRINKING WATER QUALITY REPORT OF THE City of Charlevoix Water Supply

January 2011

It is designed to inform you about the quality drinking water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water. The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally occurring minerals and in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity.

Our water comes from Lake Michigan, considered surface water. The State has performed an assessment of our source water in 2004. A determination of sensitivity and susceptibility to contamination was by made reviewing our source water chemistry, and potential contamination sources nearby the lake. The State has determined that our source water has a moderate sensitivity rating along with a moderate susceptibility to contamination. You may obtain a copy of the State report by contacting the City of Charlevoix Water Treatment Plant.

We are pleased to report that your drinking water is safe and meets all State and Federal requirements.

This report is a snapshot of the quality of the water we provided to you in the year 2010. Included are details about where your water comes from, what it contains, and how it compares to Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and State of Michigan standards.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Jim Caldwell at the Charlevoix Water Treatment Plant, (231) 547-3256, or Don Swem at the Charlevoix Water Department, (231) 547-3273. We want our valued customers to be informed about their water utility. The City of Charlevoix Water Supply routinely monitors for contaminants in your drinking water according to Federal and State Laws.

This report shows the results of our monitoring for the period of January 1 thru December 31, 2010. All drinking water, including bottled drinking water, may be reasonably expected to contain at least small amounts of some constituents. It's important to remember that the presence of these constituents does not necessarily pose a health risk.

Contaminants that may be present in source water include: Microbial contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations and wildlife. Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals which can be naturally occurring or result from urban stormwater run-off, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining or farming. Pesticides and herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture and residential uses. Radioactive contaminants, which are naturally occurring.

Organic chemical contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban storm water runoff, and septic systems.

The State of Michigan and Environmental Protection Agency require us to test our water on a regular basis to ensure its safety.

We met all monitoring requirements for the year 2010.

Charlevoix Water Treatment Plant and Distribution System personnel sampled and tested for over 100 contaminants that were NOT detected in our water supply. The following constituents were detected at low but safe levels, well below the MCL (Maximum Contaminant Level)

In the following tables you will find many terms and abbreviations you might not be familiar with. To help you better understand these terms we've provided the following definitions:

Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l) – one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter – one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) – A picocurie equals one part per trillion; the measurement of radiation in water.

Nephelometric Turbidity Unit (NTU) – nephelometric turbidity unit is a measure of the clarity of water. Turbidity in excess of 5 NTU is just noticeable to the average person.

Action Level (AL) – the concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

Treatment Technique (TT) – A treatment technique is a required process intended to reduce the level of a contaminant in drinking water.

Maximum Contaminant Level (MCL) – is the highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

Maximum Contaminant Level Goal - (MCLG) is the level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

NA: not applicable

ND: not detectable at testing limit. * Turbidity – turbidity is a measure of the cloudiness of the water. We monitor it because it is an indicator of our filtration system.

Lead and Copper – Lead and copper testing is on a three (3) year schedule, test results reported here are from the 2009 year, next round of testing is year 2012.

If present, elevated levels of lead can cause serious health problems, especially for pregnant women and young children. Lead in drinking water is primarily from materials and components associated with service lines and home plumbing. The City of Charlevoix is responsible for providing high quality drinking water, but cannot control the variety of materials used in plumbing components. When your water has been sitting for several hours, you can minimize the potential for lead exposure by flushing your tap for 30 seconds to 2 minutes before using water for drinking or cooking. If you are concerned about lead in your drinking water, you may wish to have your water tested. Information on lead in your drinking water, testing methods, and steps to minimize exposure is available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791 or at http://water.epa.gov/drink/info/lead/index.cfm

Unregulated contaminants are those for which the EPA has not established drinking water standards. The purpose of unregulated contaminant monitoring is to assist EPA in determining the occurrence of unregulated contaminants in drinking water and whether future regulation is warranted.

We're pleased that your drinking water meets or exceeds all Federal and State requirements. We have learned through our monitoring and testing that some constituents have been detected. The EPA has determined that your water is SAFE at these levels.

All sources of drinking water are subject to potential contamination by substances that are naturally occurring or man made. All drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that the water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline at 1-800-426-4791.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

Call us if you have any questions.

Blood drives — American Red Cross officials say the recent winter weather caused numerous blood drives around the state to be cancelled which has furthered threatened already seasonally limited blood supplies. To schedule an appointment to donate call 1-800-REDCROSS (800) 733-2767 or visit www.RedCrossBlood.org for more information. Individuals who are 17 years of age, meet weight and height requirements (110 pounds or more, depending on height) and are in generally good health may be eligible to donate blood. Donors should bring their Red Cross blood donor card or other form of positive identification when they come to donate. As an added incentive, those who come to give blood through Feb. 28 can enter to win an all-expense paid trip for two to Chicago to see the NCAA Division I Men's Basketball 2nd & 3rd Round playoff games March 18 & 21. Airfare and a three-night hotel stay are included. For more information, see redcrossblood.org/greatlakes.

No new cuts in city budget draft

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

It may not be the best of times, but at least its not the worst.

That seems to be the tone of Charlevoix city officials as the city council prepares to consider the proposed budget for the 2011-12 fiscal year next week.

A year ago as city leaders wrestled with the budget they were forced to make some difficult (and some unpopular) choices as they worked to cut $500,000 from the budget.

City treasurer Rick Brandi said this year, the proposed city budget isn't expected to need pruning before its passed.

He said that's thanks to two factors: First the difficult cuts made last year and efforts on the part of city staff paid off in the form of a slightly better than expected year-end position this year.

Secondly, this year, with last year's lessons in mind, city department heads went back to the drawing board and built their budgets from the ground up, looking for any place they could save money.

The result, Brandi said, is a proposed budget that comes to the council already down to its fighting weight.

Brandi

While none of the major cuts excised from last year's budget have been restored this year — including reducing the city's support of the well-known Operation Petunia by about $27,000, eliminating a part-time position in the recreation department and putting off some projects such as fixing the roof at the municipal golf course, no new cuts are proposed.

Although city officials are considering not staffing the skate park, Brandi said any other spending reductions in the budget would likely not be noticed by residents.

(Lifeguards have been added back into the budget on a scaled-back plan based on an offer last summer by resident Bill Schuiling to contribute $10,000 for three years to pay for the lifeguards at the city's three beaches.)

Straebel

As noted earlier the budget is a mix of good and bad news.

First the bad news: Revenues in the general fund are projected to drop again this year by about $175,000 (about 5.2 percent). The bulk of that drop is because of an anticipated 7.5 percent drop in taxable value — which corresponds to a loss of about $166,000 in tax revenue.

"It is important to recognize that the economy in general, and specifically in Michigan appears to be slowly climbing out of the worst recession in many decades ... Nevertheless, economic impacts on municipal governments generally lag the overall economy," city

Authorities said Aronson was driving a 2000 Ford pickup north on Pleasant Valley when he collided with a Freightliner propane truck traveling south. The propane truck was driven by Patrick Kruskie, 46, of Boyne Falls.

Three teens charged for threatening phone calls

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

Three Charlevoix-area teens are facing criminal charges amid allegations that they used some new technology to aid them in making a series of harassing and threatening phone calls last fall.

Last week the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's office charged Trenton John Bradley, 17, Jonathan Philip Saur, 18, and Joshua Scott Hogan, 16, with one count each of malicious use of telecommunication services, a 6-month misdemeanor. Bradley and Saur were charged as adults in Charlevoix County's 90th District Court while Hogan was charged as a juvenile in 7th Probate Court. After their arrest, Hogan was released to his parents' custody, while Bradley and Saur were released on personal recognizance bonds.

Charlevoix County Chief Assistant Prosecutor Shaynee Fanara said the charges stem from multiple harassing and threatening phone calls the teens allegedly made over several weeks last fall. She said the defendants were allegedly aided in disguising their identities during the calls through technology that allowed them to change the Caller ID information the phone sent and modified the sound of their voices.

Fanara said the defendants are accused of making multiple calls to a Charlevoix-area family during which they made harassing and threatening statements to the call recipients. She said on one occasion, using the same scheme, the defendants were able to have a plumber sent to the victims' home on an supposed emergency call in the early morning hours.

The defendants are also accused of making a threatening phone call to the Odawa Casino Resort outside of Petoskey and to a elderly widow in the Cheboygan area.

Fanara said the call to the woman in Cheboygan appears to have been made at random, but put the woman in fear and prompted her to spend the night another location.

She said the calls to the Charlevoix family also put them in fear and prompted them to change the locks on their house.

Fanara said Charlevoix County Sheriff's office investigators were able to track down the source of the calls through interviews with various people and search warrants.

She said one other teen who was involved in the calls to a much lesser extent was not charged because he was just days away from entering military boot camp, he apologized to the victims and paid full restitution for the lock changes and the plumber's time.

She said it appears that not all of the teens were involved in all of the incidents.

"This goes way beyond a prank," Fanara said. "These kids were putting people in fear and for that there needs to be consequences."

Hogan is scheduled to enter a plea in his case on March 2. Saur and Bradley are scheduled for pre-trial conferences in their cases on March 8.

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

Preparing for a trip got me wondering about people and their pets. The topic of animals came to mind as we have someone staying in our home to watch our critters while we are away. I am certain there are many doggie and cat hotels out there that lovingly care for our creatures, but it's also nice for your pets to remain in familiar surroundings, lowering your stress level and theirs as well. In my brief years farming, I'd hire an extra hand to stay at the farm so having someone to stay at our home was not much different.

Having raised children, grandchildren and a myriad of pets and farm animals, I respect the comfort, therapy and protection a four-legged creature provides on a daily basis. Rarely does an animal talk back, hold a grudge or turn away if they see you coming.

I've had the pleasure of working with special needs individuals utilizing a horse as therapy for over 20 years. The best part is witnessing a child's improved physical and emotional wellbeing. It's a beautiful sight to see horses, dogs and cats wrap themselves around an individual to give them a hug without expecting anything in return. Since an animal cannot speak in human terms and requires assistance with food, bathing and bathroom needs, it reminded me that babies, toddlers and animals are similar. Love is unconditional from all of them unless we have done something to affect them adversely.

In a study completed recently, 14 percent of spouses said they would rather give up their spouse than their pet. Now there's something to ponder. This fairly high number indicates the importance placed on our feathered or furry friends and also the needs of a spouse who may be in need of some extra attention. I've read studies that the presence of a pet gives an individual a boost in their survival rate. It seems we need our pets more than we realize.

We've known for years the benefits of dog therapy. Abused children respond more quickly with the use of an animal and special needs children display less frustration if they can spend time one-on-one with a soft and furry creature. Programs involving therapy dogs have been successful not just in schools but also in libraries, nursing homes and foster homes. Even something such as an aquarium of fish can soothe a stressful situation. Some dentists are beginning to set up tanks in view of their patients to encourage the patient to relax and focus on the rhythmic movement of these beautiful little creatures.

You need to be careful when choosing a pet and the number of pets you own. You may have already realized that some pets can be a source of added stress. In my own case, owning a dog that kept friends from entering the front door or owning animals whose hair drifts across the wood floors like tumbleweed adding to our housework. Since I often wear black during the winter, it's easy to see I own a pet from the first time you meet me. Situations like this are when I cover my golden retriever and long-haired kitty's ears and announce that maybe we should own a wired-hair dog or hairless cat.

When you think about it, a pet can bring joy, lower your blood pressure or increase it depending upon the age of your pet and amount of training that's been accomplished. This companionship coupled with a few frustrating situations can lengthen your life, make you feel accepted for who you are, greet you with enthusiasm and appreciate all you do for them. So if you haven't thought about owning a pet, now may be the time to do so. If you already own a pet, enjoy its company — their lives on earth are always much too short.

Kiwanis club thanks community for support

The Kiwanis Club of Charlevoix is very pleased to report that last year we were able to donate $9,142 to various charities. Of this amount, we gave $2,304 to state and international projects through the Kiwanis of Michigan and Kiwanis International Foundations. Our total donations at the local level were $6,838. Camp Daggett received $1,222. Our contributions to the Boy Scouts, Cub Scouts and Sea Scouts totaled $2,340. Our support of local schools through a thesaurus project, an essay contest, Junior Achievement, the Builders Club and a math/science scholarship totaled $1,768. In addition, we were able to provide support to Head Start Priority One, the Red Cross and Kids Against Hunger.

Some of these funds came from Charlevoix Kiwanis Club member donations, but mostly it is the local community we have to thank, since they were the ones who supported our various fundraising activities. The next time you buy a kielbasa from our trailer during the Venetian Festival or Applefest, know that you are contributing to charities such as those mentioned above. There are no paid helpers working our kielbasa trailer. It is all volunteer labor, so everything we take in less the cost of food and drink sold is available for us to donate to charity. In the same way we appreciate your support of our nut, maple syrup and rose sales.

Thank you Charlevoix, and please continue to support all of our local service clubs.

Ken Kline, President

Charlevoix Kiwanis Club

GRAPHS BY WENDY WOLFSEN

BUDGET

manager Rob Straebel writes in his introduction to the budget summary.

But amid the gray, there are bright spots.

First, the city is projecting it will carry over about $54,000 more than expected in the general from this year to next amounting to a surplus of about $72,000. With the surplus from this year, a reduction of about $33,000 in spending, and an anticipated general fund budget deficit of just under $70,000 next year, the two years combined are break-even and leave the city with a healthy fund balance of about $1 million. At 32 percent, (of the $3.2 million general fund budget) Brandi said that level of fund balance is well above the 20 percent most auditors recommend.

Some other budget highlights include:

— The budget proposes no increase in the city's tax mill levy, which is 9.05 mills for operations, 2.1 mills for infrastructure and 1 mill for trash and rubbish pickup. (One mill is a dollar in tax for each $1,000 of a property's taxable value)

— The city's total budget (all funds included) is about $16 million. In that amount is about $1.4 million in capital expenditures. Planned among those expenses are motor pool purchases, replacement of a water main on Bridge Street, street an utility improvements on Meech Street and improvements to the city's electrical system.

— The budget calls for an increase in city water and sewer rates by 4 percent and 6 percent respectively. City officials expect the rate increase will cost the average residential customer about $3.05 per month or about $36.48 per year. The increases are part of five (for water) and six (for sewer) year plans to gradually increase revenue in the water and sewer funds to bolster the respective funds' reserves.

— The budget factors in an expected 2.25 percent pay increase for union employees and 1 percent for non-union employees. Contracts for fire and police personnel are yet to be negotiated.

The city council will conduct a public hearing on the proposed 2011-12 budget during its next regular semimonthly meeting at 7 p.m. on Monday, Feb. 21 at city hall. Copies of the complete budget are available for review at city hall and at the Charlevoix Public Library.

Bethany Lutheran Church welcomes new pastor

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

The Rev. James Athey has come a long way since he started down the path to become a Lutheran pastor, but he wound up starting his work in the ministry only about 145 miles (as the crow flies) from where he grew up.

Athey, 28, who completed his pastoral education at Concordia Seminary in St. Louis in November, was ordained into the ministry and installed as the new pastor at Bethany Lutheran Church in Charlevoix on Jan. 9.

Athey grew up in Green Bay, Wis., attended the University of Wisconsin-Green Bay where his majored in humanistic studies and minored in history. He began his studies at the seminary in 2005 and during his time there he received clincal pastoral education at Christian Hospital and Lutheran Senior Services.

He and his wife Amanda met through an online dating service while at the seminary and they married in May of 2007.

Amanda, 27, is a native of Flint. She spent most of her childhood living in Clio and majored in zoology at Michigan State University. She has worked in many different occupations including working in veterinary clinics, and substitute teaching, but now has moved into the job she had always planned to take — a stay-at-home mom.

The couple's first child, Ezekiel James was born on Sept. 30, 2009, in St. Louis.

Athey said while growing up he never had thought about going into the ministry. He expected to pursue something scientific, such as paleontology or biology.

"But as I got into college, it started to become more important to me to keep connected to my home church," Athey said. "I had a sense of wanting to serve God with my life. I felt a calling in my heart."

He said his first priority is getting settled in and getting to know the congregation, but then he wants to help the church blossom.

"My focus here is to help Bethany build itself up as a strong family church that will have a positive impact on the community. We want the people of Charlevoix to feel blessed to have this church in the community," Athey said. "I've been warmly welcomed here by people who are eager to serve and share the Gospel."

And although his Green Bay roots make him feel right at home in a Northern Michigan winter, he's also looking forward to enjoying all of the area's summertime offerings without the St. Louis heat.

Bethany Lutheran Church a 163-member congregation of the Lutheran Church Missouri Synod. The church is located at 11906 U.S. 31 North. Weekly worship services are at 11 a.m. on Sunday. The church's telephone number is (231) 547-9446. The church's website is www.bethanycharlevoix.com.

Business After Hours
Tonight February 16th

It is a fact that companies who do not network are missing out on an opportunity to maintain their business relationships as well as an opportunity to tap into a rich stream of new contacts that can make them more successful! Join the Chamber and your colleagues at Business After Hours (BAH) hosted the third Wednesday of each month from 5 to 7pm.

February's BAH is scheduled for tonight from 5 to 7pm at Kelsey B's and is brought to you by Harbor House Publishers and the Charlevoix Chamber. It is free for Chamber Members or $10 for General Admission. Complete with a 50/50 raffle, cocktails and hors d'eourves, and excellent company, it will be an evening you won't want to miss!

For additional information, contact the Charlevoix Chamber at 547.2101 or manager@charlevoix.org.

Introducing the New & Improved Biz Breakfast

It is a fact that breakfast is the most important meal of the day, providing your mind and body with the energy needed to get through the day! With a new Business After Hours styled format, the First Friday Biz Breakfast will now move locations each month. March 4th's Biz Breakfast is from 7:30-8:30 with a location TBA. The morning's event is brought to you by Fox Motors.

Another new addition to Biz Breakfast is the Biz Breakfast Punch Pass. In an effort to assist in eliminating the morning hustle and bustle, the Charlevoix Chamber is excited to introduce to you the Biz Breakfast Punch Pass. For just $56, it includes 8 breakfasts plus one free and eliminates the need for receipts/invoices. A perk of becoming a card carrier is that it is based off of the number served. This means that if two people from your business attend the same breakfast, the same card can be punched.

So, what are you waiting for? Pencil in the First Friday Biz Breakfast dates and pick up your Punch Pass today! To purchase your Punch Pass or to learn more, contact the Charlevoix Chamber at 547.2101 or info@charlevoix.org.

The Business-to-Business networking event is scheduled on Wednesday, March 23rd from 5 to 8pm and will take the place of the March After Hours. Complete with delicious appetizers, a full bar and give-aways, it will be the kick-off to an excellent showcase of what Charlevoix businesses have to offer!

Interested in participating? The chamber still has open booths for only $250 for our members. Different rates apply for non-members and non-profits; please inquire to learn more about this opportunity. Exhibitor registration forms are available by contacting the Charlevoix Chamber at 547.2101 or info@charlevoix.org.

OBITUARY

Lee Ann Teagan: June 30, 1942 - Feb. 13, 2011

Lee Ann Teagan, beloved wife, proud mother and grandmother, devoted sister, teacher and friend to all, age 68, died on Sunday, Feb. 13, 2011 in Auburn Hills. She was born Lee Ann Hendry on June 30, 1942, in Detroit to James and Mildred Hendry, the youngest daughter of three children. She was a longtime resident of Troy and moved to Auburn Hills, in 2002.

Mrs. Teagan was a graduate of Redford High School in Redford and earned a degree in education from Western Michigan University.

Lee Ann poured out her life in service to others. She created a home of warmth, love and hospitality, where her ever widening circle of family and friends always felt welcome. She was an eager and thoughtful hostess, who sought to create a perfect atmosphere to make everyone truly feel at home. Her life of service extended beyond home. Mrs. Teagan taught preschool at Troy Co-op Preschool for 37 years making a lasting impression on more than 1,400 children and their families. She also shared generously of her gifts and time with church and community. She loved the beach, and spending time at her house in Charlevoix. She was loved by all, and will be greatly missed. Lee Ann will be remembered for her welcoming smile, her kind words, her wisdom, her warm heart, her giving nature and her principled character. She is survived by her husband, of 48 years, Timothy, her children Shawn (Deb) and Lori Ann Rumel (Mike), grandchildren Merrick and Lane Ann Rumel and sister Neva Rose Kehrer.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

A 17-point first quarter deficit against the No. 6-ranked team in the state?

Sophy Menistrina scored 19 points and Chelsea Matley added 15 Friday as Kalkaska handed the Rayders a 79-50 Lake Michigan Conference loss.

The Rayders, who got a career-high 18 points from Dani Barron, trailed 19-2 to start the game and 22-5 after one quarter.

By halftime, the Rayders had trimmed their deficit to 10, 36-26, and the crept to within five points early in the third quarter. Kalkaska, which is 14-1 overall, 8-1 league, and ranked sixth in the Associated Press Class C state poll, responded and re-established a double-digit lead, 52-39, by the end of the third.

"The final score doesn't show how close the game actually was," Charlevoix coach Leslie Hoffman said. "We showed a lot of grit especially after being down 19-2 at one point. Two minutes into the second (quarter) we really started to pick it up. Everybody was working together and getting tips and steals. Going against the sixth-ranked team in the state, we saw a lot of good things."

Jenna Way added 13 points, eight rebounds and eight assists for the Rayders, 6-10, 5-5, who were to play at Elk Rapids on Tuesday, Feb. 15, and will play host to East Jordan on Friday, Feb. 18.

Way scored 14 points and Hannah Hybl added 10 three nights earlier as the Rayders snapped a three-game losing streak with a 58-19 drubbing of Boyne City.

Megan Peters grabbed eight rebounds for Charlevoix, while Hybl had six rebounds, Barron finished with five rebounds and four assists, and Sydney Carlson dished out six assists.

The Rayder JV girls' team defeated Boyne City, 45-22. Karley Pearsall scored 15 points and Bailee Stevens had 12 to lead Charlevoix.

WRESTLING

Two Rayders advance to regionals

MUNISING — Charlevoix High School wrestlers Austin Cesaro and Jake Novotny finished in the top four in their respective weight classes Saturday at the Division IV Individual District Tournament at Munising High School.

Cesaro, 103 pounds, and Novotny, 140, advance to the Individual Regional at Rogers City High School on Saturday, Feb. 19. The top four finishers in each weight class at the regional advance to the Individual State Finals at the Palace of Auburn Hills March 3-5.

Cesaro placed second in Saturday's district tournament while Novotny was fourth. Both are freshmen.

Cesaro opened with a pin of Ali Rittenger of Munising in 3:30, then was pinned by Bill Bentgen of St. Ignace in 3:49 in the title match. Cesaro is 36-11 on the season.

Novotny went 2-2 on the day. He was pinned by Joe Krause of St. Ignace in his opening match in 1:20, then rebounded to win two matches by pin, before falling to Krause on a pin in 3:37 in the consolation final.

Novotny, who is 24-22 on the season, pinned Joe Balicki of Iron Mountain in 2:23 and Christian Tollini of Onaway in 2:22 to reach the third-place match.

Durkee's victories both came on pins, the first over Daniel Davis of Frankfort in 2:32, the second over Nick Kester of St. Francis in 2:07. Pentold's win came on a pin of Kristina Ventimiglia of Newberry in 2:12.

The Rayders fell to host Mancelona in a semifinal match last week in the Division IV Team District Tournament, 36-30. The Ironmen then lost to Traverse City St. Francis, 69-0, in the championship match.

St. Francis advances to the Team Regional on Wednesday, Feb. 16, at St. Ignace. The Gladiators, champions of the Lake Michigan Conference, will wrestle Newberry in a semifinal match. St. Ignace and Iron Mountain meet in the second semifinal. The regional champion advances to the State Finals Feb. 25-26 at Kellogg Arena in Battle Creek.

BOYS BASKETBALL

Rayders rebound, hit stretch run in first place

A little tattered, perhaps a little bruised.

But alive and well and still atop the Lake Michigan Conference with two weeks to go in the regular season.

Such is the lot for the Charlevoix High School boys' basketball team, which entered the week 11-4 overall and 9-1 in the league, one game ahead of second-place Elk Rapids.

The Rayders were scheduled to pay the Elks a visit on Tuesday, Feb. 15, in what shapes up to be Charlevoix's opportunity to put some space between itself and its closest contenders in the conference. An Elk Rapids win would move the Elks into a first-place tie with the Rayders. Charlevoix won the first meeting with the Elks, 53-47, on Jan. 21.

Charlevoix is scheduled to play host to East Jordan in a conference game on Friday, Feb. 18, then goes to Harbor Springs for a league game on Tuesday, Feb. 22. The Rayders won the first meeting this season with both teams, 54-46 over East Jordan, and 63-42 over Harbor.

The Rayders rebounded from their brutal seven-day, four-stop road trip by crushing both Boyne City and Kalkaska last week to right the ship, so to speak, after losing three of four.

That four-game stretch began with a 56-51 victory at Grayling, followed by losses to Petoskey, Cedarville and Traverse City St. Francis. At the time, the one-loss Northmen were ranked 10th in Class A, the unbeaten Trojans were ranked No. 1 in Class D, and St. Francis — under former Rayder coach Keith Haske — appeared to be picking up steam. The Gladiators had won seven of eight and stood 9-5 overall, 6-3 league at week's end.

Back in the friendly confines of the Charlevoix High School gym, the Rayders came out swinging and connected, first by knocking out Boyne City, 69-39, then by flattening Kalkaska, 72-44.

"We were curious to see how the boys would bounce back from the week that we had last week, and to come out the way we did we were very excited," Charlevoix coach Adam Wood said. "With the two days off I think we got some fresh legs and kind of a new perspective and got recharged for the rest of the season.

"This is a good boost for us going into the next few weeks going into the (state) tournament."

Dylan Putman scored 17 points and made four steals in leading the Rayder past Boyne City, which came in riding a three-game win streak but was put on its heels from the get-go by an aggressive and hot-shooting Rayder squad.

"There was never any doubts," Putman said. "We're a good team and we work well together. We just learned how to play physical, like against Petoskey, they're Class A, they're big. And even St. Francis seems like a Class A school. We've got that physical mindset now."

Joe Filipiak added 12 points and Brennan Ackerman had 10 for the Rayders, who dominated in every aspect of the game. They outrebounded the Ramblers, 32-14, and forced Boyne into 21 turnovers.

The Rayders made 28 of their 56 field goal attempts (50 percent) including a 6-of-18 clip from 3-point range. Boyne, meanwhile, was just 16-of-44 from the floor (36 percent) including 2-for-15 from 3-point range. The Ramblers, who could muster just four offensive rebounds all night, did not make a triple until late in the third quarter, and by then, they trailed by 38 points.

"We just played five-guys-at-a-time man-to-man defense and the boys really talked and played aggressive and switched well," Wood said. "When we do those little things, the product on the court just comes forth. I give all the credit to the boys in their effort and their intensity that was raised on the defensive end tonight."

The Rayders followed a somewhat similar path to victory against overmatched Kalkaska on Friday. Six Rayders scored at least six points and the Rayders made 27 of their 49 field goal attempts (55 percent) including 8-for-14 (57 percent) from 3-point range. They led 16-8 after one quarter, and 38-16 at halftime.

Ackerman scored 12 points, Matt Klooster had 11, Andrew Plude added 10, and Putman had nine to lead the Rayders, who, when it's all said and done, would appear to have gotten plenty to the good out of that four-game strech of road games. Despite losing three of four, the Rayders remain in first place in the conference, and the fact that they faced such stiff competition on the road should serve them well as the regular season winds down, and the state tournament begins.

"We've told the boys that when you're on top, you are not the hunter anymore, you're the hunted and it takes a different approach I think," Wood said. "When you're hunting, you always have that edge. When you're being hunted you have to bring that A-plus game every night. People come after you and they want to take you down. … We have to make sure we continue to focus and be ready for everything that comes."

The Rayder JV team won both of its games last week, beating Boyne City, 52-44, and Kalkaska, 65-31.

Sawyer Russell and Tanner Catt scored 12 points each and Chandler Novotny added 10 to lead the Rayders past Boyne. Russell and Catt had 15 points each in the victory over Kalkaska.

Economic alliance reports sucesses

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

Representatives from the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance met with the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners on Wednesday to discuss their progress in the county and region throughout the last year.

The economic alliance meets annually with the board to update it on their activities and this year they report success.

"I think the NLEA serves a greater purpose. They've been regionalizing their efforts over the four counties over the year, bringing them and the cities together, which has done wonders for the economy and success of the region," said Chris Christensen, Charlevoix County commissioner.

The organization works with communities and companies within the county and throughout the Northern Michigan region. They help develop infrastructure, attract businesses, write grants, preserve historic districts, develop business parks, do financial analysis and other services to help promote progress.

"The Northern Lakes Economic Alliance serves the role of a resource and we know and everyone knows that it's entrepreneurs who create the jobs. We serve as a resource to local governments to help create the infrastructure on an environment that would make it conducive for entrepreneurs to grow and expand, start companies or grow companies and create jobs," said Andy Hayes, economic alliance president.

During 2010, the organization reports assisting with writing grants for 23 projects in the region worth $7,499,724. It conducted 1,625 hours of counseling to local businesses and cities about how they can grow economically, helped create 300 jobs and retain an additional 315 jobs, assisted with 16 new business startups and have conducted numerous seminars on how to start a new business.

Hayes

"I see a lot of progress in the area. It seems like Charlevoix has found its niche with summer events and Boyne City as well. They've really come a long ways, but what about my favorite city, East Jordan, where I was born and raised? How much is the NLEA involved with East Jordan?" asked Joel Evans, Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners chairman.

"We've spent a great deal of time with East Jordan. We were involved with the restoration of the whole downtown area you see now," Hayes responded.

He went on to say that they have helped many small businesses get going, they consulted the city manager on projects and helped businesses acquire buildings, but it is a work in progress and East Jordan is still trying to find their niche.

According to Hayes, the alliance works throughout the Northern Michigan region because the success of the county depends not only on what is happening within Charlevoix County, but on the surrounding area as well.

"Economic development is regional. We know for a fact that four out of 10 people who live in one county work in the next. What happens in Charlevoix County affects Emmet County and affects Antrim County, so working regionally is important," Hayes said.

Christensen said the county feels the organization is moving in the right direction as they bring the region together.

"I hope as the state and larger agencies we have to work with start to push for more rationalization, that the NLEA helps us transition into it smoothly, so we can continue to develop in the region and in Charlevoix County. They are helping us get ahead of the curve," Christensen said.

Council approves budget, skate park will be supervised

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

What a difference a year makes.

A year ago city of Charlevoix official were wrestling with how to cut $500,000 out of the budget for the 2010-11 fiscal year and were forced to make some difficult — and some unpopular decisions.

At Monday's budget hearing for the 2011-12 budget, not a single public comment was offered.

"That was probably the shortest budget hearing in history," mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson commented as he closed the short-lived hearing.

The lack of public input isn't necessarily a sign of community apathy or a sudden windfall for the city. Instead it's because the difficult cuts have already been made. None of the cuts made last year — such as $27,000 in funding for the annual Operation Petunia — have been restored. Also, as city treasurer Rick Brandi told the Courier earlier this month, this year department heads were instructed to rebuild their budgets from the ground up looking for anywhere savings might be found.

The result is a budget that calls for no tax increase, no expected new service cuts, and still includes about $1.4 million in capital improvements. The budget, as approved Monday calls for spending to exceed revenue by about $70,000. However, when combined with an anticipated budget surplus from this fiscal year (ending March 31), the general fund balance a year from now is anticipated to be at about a healthy $1 million.

Brandi said he wasn't concerned about impact of the recently-announced budget proposal by Michigan Gov. Rick Snyder on the city's budget. If approved, Snyder's proposal would strip another $52,000 in revenue sharing funds from the city. But Brandi said the tax valuation estimates used in creating the city's budget were very conservative and the actual values will likely make up the difference in the reduced state funding.

Board approval

One item that city officials had been considering discontinuing during budget discussions was staffing for the city's skate park. However recent discussions between city staff and members of Charlevoix Community Skatepark (the non-profit organization that led the effort to establish the park in 2006) resulted in an agreement that will keep the park open and supervised.

Terms of the agreement include that the non-profit group will cover the difference between the parks operational costs and its revenue — an amount expected to be around $1,500-$2,000. The city will make bathrooms at the nearby ballfields available in lieu of portable toilets. The park will be staffed from noon 6 p.m. on Saturdays in May and from 3 p.m.-dusk Tuesday-Sunday in June, July and August. The park will be closed and locked when no staff members are present, and all staff members must be interviewed and approved by city recreation director Teresa Hart.

Previously, the park was open Saturday and Sunday in May and September and every day starting at noon in June, July and August

Wicked winds

Winds blowing at 35 mph and at times gusting to near 50 mph create a fine mist out of the spray from waves crashing against the Pine River Channel breakwater Friday. Despite the high winds, only a couple of small power outages were reported in the area.

Budget proposal grim for Charlevoix schools

Slipping enrollment, Governor's proposed cuts may add up to more budget woes

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

It was just about a year ago that officials at Charlevoix Public School were forced to make some difficult choices that ended in cutting $1.4 million from the district's budget.

And if some recently released numbers don't change, the district could find itself in the same position this year.

Last week Michigan Gov. Rich Snyder released his proposed budget for 2011-12 and in that budget called for cuts to education funding to the tune of about $470 per student. But when that number is added to expected increases expected in the rate districts pay for their employees retirement, the per-pupil impact jumps to $709.

For Charlevoix Public Schools that adds up to a loss of more than $750,000 in revenue.

To make matters worse, the district's enrollment continues to decline.

Earlier this month schools around the state conducted the second of two student count days for the school year. Charlevoix's numbers (unofficially) came in at 1,061 students. That's down 13 students from the fall count day.

(The state figures student enrollment for a district using counts in February and September. The two numbers are then "blended" with 25 percent weight given to the February number and 75 percent to September's.)

District superintendent Chet Janik said most of the student departures, (four at the middle school and nine at the high school) were related to family relocation out of the area for personal or financial reasons.

Janik said there are no indications that an increase in enrollment is on the horizon. That means even if the number stays the same in the fall, the district will lose another $100,000 in revenue.

Janik said it's important to remember that its still early in the budget game.

"We're in the first inning of a nine-inning game," he said. "But (the cuts) would have a devastating effect."

In May of 2010 the school board was forced to cut $1.4 million from its 2010-11 school year budget. Those cuts included 14 teaching positions, 1.5 administrative positions and $166,000 in non-personnel reductions.

To discuss what these latest numbers mean for the school district and its budget plans for next school year, the school board, administrators and staff representatives will be meeting for a special school board meeting at 5:30 p.m. on Wednesday in the middle school library room.

Rayders, Red Devils to appear on Quiz Central

The Charlevoix Rayders and East Jordan Red Devils quiz teams are slated to appear on the Central Michigan University Public Television show Quiz Central this week.

At 7:30 p.m. on Wednesday, Feb. 23, the Rayders battle the St. Ignace Saints, kicking off Quiz Central's Blue Division second round games. Then, at 5:30 p.m. on Saturday, Feb. 26, the Red Devils take on the Montabella Mustangs. An encore presentation of both games will air at 2:30 p.m. and 3 p.m respectively on Sunday, Feb. 27.

Quiz Central's sixth season features 64 teams from high schools around Michigan. Teams compete on "Quiz Central" in four divisions, based on school size. Division champions will be awarded four $2,500 one-year scholarships to Central Michigan University.

COUNCIL

Skatepark representative Laura Stebe, a mother and several teens talked to the council at Monday's meeting about the importance of not only having the park available, but also that it be supervised.

Stebe and others noted that the supervision keeps the foul language, vandalism, bullying and drug use that seem to plague unsupervised parks in other communities at bay.

Stebe also said the organization is confident through its fundraising efforts it can sustain the park's operation for several years to come.

In other business:

City planner Mike Spencer said the city currently has no regulations regarding such businesses and the moratorium provides a stop-gap measure to give the city time to come up with legally-sound rules regulating their location and operation. He said the measure comes at an ideal time as the city is currently in the process of overhauling its zoning ordinance after approving an update to its master plan earlier this month.

The city council also gave its blessing to a new festival the downtown development authority and the Charlevoix Convention and Visitors Bureau is working on for the Fourth of July weekend.

The festival, still in the planning stages, would be dubbed "The Great American Picnic," is tentatively slated for Saturday, July 2 in East Park. The three main components of the festival would be a barbecue competition, a micro-brewery sampling area and "high quality" musical entertainment.

Downtown development authority director Keith Carey said the idea of the festival is to try to capitalize on some of the Fourth of July-driven business in the area without trying to directly compete with the many other Independence Day celebration in neighboring communities.

Carey said for this year, at least, because the downtown development authority's coffers are so bare, its financial participation won't likely go beyond helping with the entertainment portion of the festival.

He added that many details of the festival are still being worked out. Ultimately, the council voted to recommend to approval of the request for the festival and to suspend the city's rules for alcohol in the park. (By city charter, city manager Rob Straebel has the final say on the request).

Lincoln's letter: Better than any text or tweet

Roger Knutson

More than 40 years ago I rescued from a discard pile a framed facsimile of a hand written letter, dated Nov. 21, 1864, from then-President Abraham Lincoln to a Mrs. Bixby in Boston. The facsimile was one of many copies prepared and distributed by Berry Brothers Ltd. from Detroit, identified on the copy as Varnish Manufacturers. A note accompanying the letter states that an embossed copy of the letter is displayed on a wall at Brasenose Collége, Oxford University, England "as a specimen of the purest English and most elegant diction extant. It is said that as a model of expressive English, it has rarely, if ever, been surpassed."

Copies of the letter like the one I have were widely distributed and displayed. The note suggests that "Every home where it hangs upon the wall will, in some way, be bettered." The letter was distributed in 1905, and certainly deserves rereading.

"To Mrs. Bixby,

Dear Madam,

I have been shown in the files of the War Department a statement of the Adjutant General of Massachusetts that you are the mother of five sons who have died gloriously in the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any word of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the republic they died to save. I pray that our heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost, and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.

Yours very Sincerely and respectfully, A. Lincoln"

I hung the framed letter on the wall above my desk at Luther College, and must have read it a thousand times over the course of 30 years. Simply reading it is an emotional experience even after a thousand re-readings. Maybe words like those should be on everyone's wall. I am sure we would be bettered.

No Twitter message or cell phone text will ever equal it.

Editor's note: An entry on the Brasenose College's website about the Bixby letter reads. "In his book 'One hundred and one famous poems' (Chicago 1916), R.J. Cook stated that the original letter was at Brasenose College, and the College has been receiving requests to see it for over a hundred years. Unfortunately the story is one of the more persistent Oxford myths. The letter is not at Brasenose, nor is it in the Bodleian Library, another location often given for it.

The inclusion of the letter in the film Saving Private Ryan led to a renewal of interest in it. It is now generally accepted that only two of Mrs. Bixby's five sons died in battle."

Thanks to Mount McSauba crew

Editor,

Recently, more than 130 students from East Jordan Middle School were treated to a day of skiing, snowboarding, sledding, and skating at Mount McSauba Recreational area in Charlevoix. These students earned this trip through a school-wide positive behavior support program known as East Jordan Middle School PRIDE. Appropriate school routines and behaviors are taught in all areas of our school and surrounding areas (buses etc.). Students who consistently exhibit these behaviors were invited to attend.

The entire Mount McSauba crew should be thanked for the use of the facilities, assistance with rental equipment, food service, etc. The entire staff was helpful, and positive with each and every one of our middle school students. A special thanks to Teresa Hart (city recreation director) and Bo Boss (Mount McSauba manager). Their help was instrumental in the organization of this event.

Again, thanks to those above mentioned parties and we look forward to even more students being eligible to attend next year.

Sincerely,

Matt Peterson, East Jordan Middle School teacher, on behalf of the students and staff

Thanks for blood drive support

Editor:

I would like to take this time to thank the Charlevoix community for all their wonderful efforts to help make blood drives in this area a huge success.

Our past blood drive collected 61 pints of blood with three first-time donors. This is really a wonderful turn out for January. I am hoping for 100 pints for the next drive which will be Thursday, March 10, see you there.

Thank you to the following businesses that give so generously: Bergmann Marine, Clothing Company, Family Farm and Home, Glen's Market, K-mart, Oleson's Foods, Petals, Round Lake Bookstore, Subway, Sunny Bank Assisted Living, Villager Pub, and Whitney's of Charlevoix.

We had 22 volunteers that each worked three-hour shifts: Shirley Vance, Rita Orlowski, Marbeth Belenski, Lorraine Jerlatis, John Henry, Mary Bradley, Lil Left, Myrna Boss, Barbara Anthony, Carolyn Navarre, Marcia Trimper, Carol Calcaterra, Carolyn Klender, Carol Hearld, Alicia Mosher, Joannie Carlson, Judy Colt, Jan Gibbs, and if I forgot someone I am sorry. Many of these people volunteer EVERY time we have the drive. A grand "thank you!"

Without the use of the Community Reformed Church, the Lions Club and our new volunteer group the Rotary Club who set up and tear-down the facility for the drive, none of this would be possible.

Thanks for giving,
Louise Hilligan

EJ schools staff learn to handle bullying

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

EAST JORDAN — The East Jordan Public Schools faculty and staff gathered for the Aggression Prevention Workshop on Friday to learn how to protect their students from bullying in the schools.

Dr. Marcia McEvoy, a licensed psychologist and author, presented the workshop to help teachers and staff know the signs of, problems with and strategies for reducing bullying in the schools so kids can focus on learning. The administration at East Jordan says they don't have an excessive problem with bullying, but they want to actively work to stop any issues before they start.

"I've been listening to the community since I arrived here in East Jordan. I've noticed that aggression and substance abuse in the schools are the main concerns," said Susan Wooden, East Jordan Public Schools superintendent.

The workshop included a lecture, large group activities, small group activities, video clips, role-playing and guided practice to teach the staff the patterns of bullying and ways to prevent and stop it.

According to McEvoy, teen violence is a serious issue in schools. It has grown 500 percent since 1960, she said.

"Bullying is about power and control. It is a form of aggression that is repeated, intentional and involves an imbalance of power between the people involved," McEvoy said.

A child being bullied can have their learning experience disrupted while in school, but it can also affect their whole lives and the lives of everyone else involved.

"Bullying isn't only harmful to the target.. It's also harmful to the bystanders and even to the bully," McEvoy said.

She went on to say that research shows that those involved in bullying have higher divorce rates, are more likely to be involved in abusing relationships and have trust issues when they reach adulthood.

"Sometimes people can even remember the details of their bullying the same way as someone with (Post Traumatic Stress Disorder) will remember a traumatic event in their life," McEvoy said.

The training showed specific strategies that teachers can use during high-risk bullying times, such as between classes, recess and lunch time so they can intervene. It also showed them ways to help students stand up for each other without risking being a target them selves.

"I think this training is very helpful. We're learning strategies that we are going to implement right away to help students," said, Jennifer Cary, special education teacher in the East Jordan Middle School.

At the end of the training McEvoy gave the school the task of coming up with a plan to implement the strategies discussed in the class.

"I always check back with schools after workshops. The schools who implement all the strategies I presented have a 40 to 80 percent turnaround with their bullying problems," McEvoy said.

McEvoy will be returning to East Jordan several times throughout April and May for the next phases of the workshops. She will be teaching students, parents and the community what role they can play in stopping bullying.

The next seminar, Helping Kids Get Along at School: What Parents Can do to Reduce Student Cruelty and Improve Peer-to-Peer Relationships, will be for parents from 6:30-8 p.m. on April 25 at the East Jordan High School auditorium and cafeteria.

Zonta women authors luncheon set for May 14

The Charlevoix Area Zonta Club will host its annual Literary Delights — a Michigan Women Authors' Luncheon from 11 a.m. - 3 p.m. on Saturday, May 14 at the Charlevoix Public Library. Tickets for the event are $40 per person and include a catered lunch and basket raffle drawings.

The group's featured author for February is Kristina Riggle. Riggle lives and writes in West Michigan. He debut novel, Real Life & Liars, which is set in Charlevoix, was praised by Publishers Weekly for its "humorous and humane storytelling." OBITUARIES

Laurie Ann (Lyons) Howell, 58, passed away peacefully on Feb. 3, 2011, at home, surrounded by her family. Cremation has taken place. A memorial service took place on Tuesday, Feb. 8, at Boyne Falls School, the Rev. Tim Wright of the Greensky Hill and Horton Bay United Methodist Churches officiating. Funeral arrangements were handled by Stackus Funeral Home of Boyne City with visitation taking place at the funeral home on Monday, Feb. 7.

Laurie was born on Jan. 2, 1953, in Charlevoix, to Capt. Richard B. Lyons and Ruth (Beckwith) Lyons. She graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1971 and received her bachelor's degree in criminal justice from Grand Valley State University in 1975. Ever-adventurous and wanting to serve a higher cause by helping others, Laurie joined VISTA (Volunteers in Service to America), a federal government program which is the domestic version of the highly successful Peace Corps Program.

In 1976 Laurie received a National Service Award from VISTA for her prison work developing a newspaper run by the female inmates of Stone Mountain Prison in Stone Mountain, Ga. The award was presented by Joan Mondale, wife of United States Vice-President Walter Mondale.

After serving her country for two years, Laurie returned to Michigan and on Sept. 24, 1977 married Tommy Howell of Rockford. They settled in the Boyne Falls area where she lived and worked until her death.

In 1978 Laurie began her professional career at Petoskey's Half Way Home (Harbor Hall) as a substance abuse counselor. The following year she accepted a position with the Charlevoix County Friend of the Court office. Later she served as the Charlevoix County District Court Probation Officer. Colleagues to this day speak about Laurie's work ethic and her devotion to fairness as well as her uncanny ability to give those under her care opportunities to right wrongs and straighten out their lives.

Laurie "retired" from probation work in 1996, but realizing the importance of early intervention and wanting to inspire young people, she decided to become a teacher.

So in her 40s, with her ever-present optimism, humor, and gusto, Laurie went back to college and took the training necessary to pursue her dream.

Laurie received her teaching certificate from Ferris State University in 2003 and in 2005 earned a master of arts in educational technology from Michigan State University.

Having successfully bridged the distance between the court system and the public schools, Laurie spent the rest of her life teaching vocation and computer technology at Boyne Falls Public School, which she did masterfully until a week before her death.

Laurie loved dogs, little kids, skiing, tug boats and barges, red roses, and going fast on snowmobiles. Above all, her passion and priorities were always centered upon people.

She is survived by her husband of 34 years, Tommy Howell, son Sgt. Nathan Howell of the Michigan Army National Guard, daughter Ruth Howell of Pierre, S.D., father and mother-in-law Jim and Glenna Howell of Boyne Falls, sisters; Leslie Cunningham (Ben) of Charlevoix, Susan Robertson of Lansing, Beth Shepherd (Frank) of Charlevoix, nieces; Crissy Cunningham of Charlevoix, Kori Quinn (Anthony) of Forrest Hills, nephews; Capt. Matt Cunningham (Jennifer), Capt. Michael Cunningham (Denise) of Charlevoix, Dr. Thomas Cunningham (Natoshia) of Cincinnati, Ohio, Jimmy Shepherd of West Hollywood, Calif., Luke Robertson of Lansing and Andrew Crandall (Emily) of Seattle, Wash. Laurie was a great aunt to Ray, Abby, Richie, Katie, Madie, Lukie, McMillan, Crandall, and Addison. She was predeceased by her parents and her sister-in-law Lana Crandall.

Memorial contributions may be made to Boyne Falls Public School, Laurie Howell Memorial Scholarship. Send c/o Karen Sherwood, superintendent, Boyne Falls High School, P.O. Box 356, Boyne Falls, Mich. 49713.

Northern Michigan Brass Band to perform

The Northern Michigan Brass Band will present another in a series of concerts titled "Something for Everyone

An Eclectic Program" at 3 p.m. on Sunday, Feb. 27, at the First Congregational Church in Charlevoix.

Now in its 12th year of operation, this 26 piece, British-style ensemble will perform a program of brass band music by Jean Sibelius, Antonin Dvorak, Jacques Offenbach, Derek Bourgeois, Karl King, Louis Ganne, Ray Charles, Duke Ellington and Glenn Miller. Admission is $10 for adults and $5 for students and senior citizens. Tickets are available at the door.

When planning a program, Northern Michigan Brass Band conductor Ralph Schweigert says he tries to remember that not everyone listens to music in the same way. "Some people listen with their heads, others with their hearts and still others with their feet," Schweigert said. "I try to include music that will appeal to all these listening styles on any one program. We're calling this concert 'Something for Everyone,' but we could actually give that title to any of our programs."

The program will open with a Marche Lorraine, a military march based on French folksongs by Ganne, followed by the tone poem Finlandia by Sibelius, Slavonic Dance No. 8 by Dvorak, and the overture to Orpheus in the Underworld by Offenbach. The second half of the program will begin with Barnum and Bailey's Favorite, a rousing circus march by King, Serenade by the contemporary British composer Derek Bourgeois and A Portrait of Ray Charles The concert will conclude with a couple of swing era classics by Duke Ellington and Glenn Miller.

Based in Gaylord, the all-volunteer Northern Michigan Brass Band has attracted adult brass players from across Northern Michigan from Alpena to Traverse City and north to Mackinaw City, including Petoskey, Charlevoix, Bellaire, Williamsburg, East Jordan, Beulah and Gaylord. Since the band was organized in January of 1999, it has presented more than 60 concerts in various venues throughout Northern Michigan. This will be the band's fifth appearance in Charlevoix.

This concert is being sponsored in part by CMU Public Radio.

Rayders rebound, hold on to share of league lead

STEVE FOLEY
NEWS-REVIEW
SPORTS WRITER

Coming off a tough loss earlier in the week to Elk Rapids, the Charlevoix High School boys' basketball team rebounded nicely Friday at home against East Jordan.

Andrew Plude had a game-high 18 points while Brendan Ackerman added 13 points, 13 rebounds and four blocks as the Rayders topped the Red Devils, 72-54, to stay tied with the Elks atop the Lake Michigan Conference standings.

Charlevoix is 12-5 overall, 10-2 league, while Elk Rapids, which defeated Boyne City, 64-48, on Friday, is 12-4, 10-2.

The two teams were tied at 14-all at the end of the first quarter before the Rayders took a 29-19 halftime advantage, limiting the Red Devils to just five second-quarter points. The Rayders then pushed their advantage to 54-34 at the end of the third.

"We upped the defensive pressure a little bit going into this game," said Wood, who's team completed a regular-season sweep of the Red Devils "The last time we played them at their place, it was a little closer (54-46). We wanted to increase the pace and our depth really helped in that aspect. I was just really impressed with our effort. Things started to go out way."

For East Jordan, 8-9, 3-9, Dustin Mellios finished with 14 points, while Wyatt Werner added 13.

On Thursday, the Rayder boys JV team fell to East Jordan 75-71 in overtime.

Charlie Hamilton scored 20 points, Tanner Catt had 17, and Sawyer Russell added 14 for the Rayders. Hamilton hit a 3-pointer at the regulation buzzer to tie it at 64-64 and send it to overtime.

Matt Bolser had 17 points and nine rebounds, Joseph Manville and Noah Bacchus added 16 points each, and Isaiah Sladdick finished with 15 points and 14 rebounds to lead the Red Devils.

On Tuesday Feb. 15, the Rayders lost a close game to Elk Rapids, 55-52.

The game moved the Elks into a tie with the Rayders for first place in the league.

Andrew Plude scored 15 points and Andrew Potter and Brennan Ackerman added 11 each for the Rayders. Matt Klooster had six assists for the Rayders, and Potter added five.

Austin MacMillen added 13 points for the Elks, who have now won eight straight games.

Rayders were slated to travel to Harbor Springs on Tuesday and will play host to Grayling on Friday.

"The next three games are big as far as conference and we can't let up any of those three nights," first-year Charlevoix coach Adam Wood said following Tuesday's loss. "We know that East Jordan and Harbor Springs are both going to come out fired up, and we have to play at Harbor Springs and most teams play better at home. We know they'll give us a good game. "And we finish up with Grayling, that's going to be a big one. We have to regroup and bounce back and know there's still a lot to play for."

The game was tied 39-39 after three quarters. The lead changed hands several times throughout the second half, Wood said.

The Charlevoix boys team is slated to start its district basketball run on against East Jordan on the Red Devils home floor at 7 p.m. on Monday, March 7.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

Rayder girls fall to Elks, Red Devils

The Charlevoix Rayders and East Jordan Red Devils girls basketball teams have one win each in the teams' two meetings so far this season, but the third and most important is still to come.

Grace Howes had a team-high 12 points while Jordyn Bacchus and Tanner McCune added 10 points each as East Jordan handed Charlevoix a 49-39 loss at home Friday.

East Jordan improved to 8-10 overall, 5-7 league and Charlevoix fell to 6-12 overall, 5-7 league. The Rayders who played Friday without gaurds Jenna Way and Sydney Carlson, defeated East Jordan 42-31 on Jan. 21.

The two teams will face each other for a third and final time in a Class C district semifinal on March 2 in Mancelona.

"We just have to stay positive and look forward," Charlevoix coach Leslie Hoffman said. "We know we play them again in districts and hopefully we'll be a little healthier then."

Charlevoix led 9-8 after the opening quarter before the Red Devils took a 29-21 halftime advantage. East Jordan was then in front, 42-33 at the end of the third.

For Charlevoix, Lynzie Gotshall finished with a game-high 26 points and 10 rebounds.

'Bridging Cultures' to perform in March

The Great Lakes Chamber Orchestra presents Bridging Cultures: South and North America evening programs, free to the public, with multi-talented guests from Colombia, who play a variety of guitar-like instruments that capture the sound and essence of the traditional music of the Andes. The haunting, guitar-based folk music, with origins stretching from Colombia in the northern part of South America down through Ecuador, Peru and Bolivia.

Organization officials said in addition to being finely trained musicians, the four presenters are wonderful communicators and love to share the background, sound and spirit of this fascinating music. They will show how the stories and sounds of the music have developed over the centuries and yet are still much a part of daily life for many millions of Andean peoples.

These programs will be presented three evenings at these locations:

· 6:30 p.m. Thursday, March 3, at the Charlevoix Public Library Community Room

· 7 p.m. Monday, March 7, at Northwestern Michigan College's, Milliken Auditorium

"Bridging Cultures: South and North America" is made possible in part by a grant from Michigan Humanities Council, an affiliate of the National Endowment for the Humanities. Visit glcorchestra.org for more information.

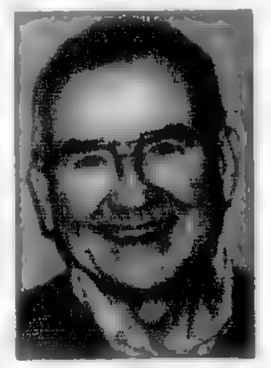
Community foundation makes board appointments

Kempton

Mueller



Spencer

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation recently appointed three members to its board of trustees: Dr. John Kempton, Linda Mueller and Don Spencer.

Kempton, of East Jordan, the founder of Maple Ridge Dental Group, practiced dentistry in East Jordan for 32 years, recently retiring to start Extraordinary Practices, a dental consulting firm. An active community leader, John has served on the board of education of East Jordan Schools, and has also served as a member of the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce and East Jordan Family Health Center boards. The foundation appointment is a reflection of Dr. Kempton's service commitment.

Mueller, of Charlevoix, owns and operates Castle Farms, a venue that has become one of the region's prime destinations for weddings, banquets and other special events since 2001. A longtime summer resident of Charlevoix, Mueller has served as a member of the Belvedere Club's Archive and Community Relations committees. Working with the community foundation allows her to expand her passion for the greater community.

Spencer, of Beaver Island, returns to the foundation board for a second term of service. After a long and successful career as a management consultant and business owner, Don has funneled his energy into volunteer service in retirement, serving as the vice-president of the Beaver Island Rural Health Center Board of Directors and as a member of the board of the Beaver Island Community Development Corporation, service that will continue with his re-appointment.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is a grassroots charitable organization made up of various funds — all of them established by local donors. Some funds are earmarked for specific causes, and others are open-ended to meet changing needs. The funds are held in permanent endowment, so they can continue to grow and generate income to enhance the quality of life in Charlevoix County, now and for generations to come. For more information about the grant-making process, establishing a fund or making a gift, contact the foundation at (231) 536-2440, or online at www.c3f.org.

Charlevoix receives three tribal grants

Grants will fund police cameras, Colorado Challenge, Lake to Lake Trail work

The City of Charlevoix recently received three grants totaling $41,000 from the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians.

The first grant was for $15,000 for the Charlevoix Police Department to install in-car cameras in two patrol vehicles. The grant will cover all equipment costs, software programs, labor for installation and training instructions for users. Commenting on the grant, police chief Gerard Doan said, "With tax revenues declining, the purchase of the cameras was not included in our 2011-12 budget. We are fortunate to have the support of the Grand Traverse Band."

The second grant will fund the Colorado Challenge Program, a week-long outdoor adventure camp for underprivileged teens. Program director Lawrence Bergmann said, "The $6,000 grant from the Grand Traverse Band will allow local teens to enjoy a unique outdoor recreation experience in the Rocky Mountains of Colorado. Teens learn basic mountaineering skills such as hiking, repelling and whitewater rafting. We are extremely thankful for the funding from the Grand Traverse Band of Ottawa and Chippewa Indians and could not undertake such a valuable outdoor recreation experience for our local kids without the funding."

The third grant includes $20,000 for engineering services for the future development of the Lake to Lake Multi-Use Trail. Once completed, the trail will link Lake Charlevoix with Lake Michigan for bicyclists, hikers, snowmobilers and cross country skiers. Grant monies will focus on a short trail segment along U.S. 31 and also look at trailhead improvements. "We are truly excited about the grant that will greatly assist our efforts to move forward on this worthy project. The engineered drawings will include costs estimates which will be helpful for other grant applications and fundraising efforts. The multi-use trail will eventually connect to other trail segments and be a great amenity for tourists and residents alike," city planner Mike Spencer said. A Trail Committee consisting of representatives from the city and Charlevoix Township, WATCH, St. Mary's Cement, Inc., a local snowmobile club and recreation enthusiasts meet every month. The committee hopes to unveil the preliminary plans in the next two months and will be spearheading other grant writing and fundraising efforts soon after.

Jane Brannon remembered

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF WRITER

Former Charlevoix County clerk, Jane Brannon, 59, died on Tuesday, Feb. 22 of natural causes, but she will not be forgotten by those who knew her and worked with her during her 35 years of service to the county.

From June 6, 1973, to Dec. 31, 2008, Brannon was a fixture in the county building, maintaining records and making sure county business ran smoothly.

"She knew the county and everything about it. If I had a question I could always go to her and she'd know the answer," said Shirley Roloff, former Charlevoix County commissioner who worked with Brannon for 12 years.

When Brannon started working for the county in 1973 she was a deputy clerk, but she quickly showed everyone that she could manage the clerk's office. On March 24, 1980, after less than seven years with the county, she became the county clerk. Those who worked with her said it was her dedication to the job and her work ethic that helped her be successful in the job.

"She was a strong-willed, hard worker who was very self assured," said Cheryl Potter Browe, the current Charlevoix County clerk. Browe worked with Brannon for 22 years in the clerk's office.

Brannon

According to Roloff, Brannon was one of the keys to the success for the county.

"She ran a good office. Sometimes I thought she did more for the county than all the rest of us. She was missed when she left the building and she will always be missed. She was the backbone of the county when she was clerk," she said.

In 2008 after being elected as county clerk seven times, Brannon retired.

Brannon had no siblings and no children, but was dedicated to taking care of her father, Vernon Kalchik, since her mother died in June of 2002.

According to Cecelia "Cookie" Borths, Charlevoix County chief deputy clerk, Brannon spent a lot of time with her father, cooking him dinner every night and communicating with him throughout the day to make sure he was OK.

Those who worked with Brannon at the county office say besides her dedication to work, county and family she had a passion to help a different kind of Charlevoix County resident.

"She loved animals. She had a horse for about 30 years and she always had a dog and cats," Kalchik said.

"She would pick up truckloads of feed for the turkeys. She had one room in her house with a wall that was all glass so she could sit and watch the animals," Borths said.

Borths added years ago Brannon received a small grant to help pay for feeding the turkeys, but later when the grant was no longer available she paid out of pocket because she loved the company of the birds.

Even though Brannon served the community and was dedicated to its people, she was a private person who many wish they could have known better.

"We worked with her for a long time, but she was such a private person it feels like we didn't really know her that well. But we will miss her," Browe said.

There is no funeral or memorial service scheduled for Brannon at this time. Memorial contributions can be mailed directly to the Charlevoix County Humane Society at 614 Beardsley Street, Boyne City, Mich. 49712.

Walloon Lake man seriously injured in U.S. 31 crash

BAY SHORE — A Walloon Lake man was seriously injured in a single-vehicle traffic crash that took place Wednesday, Feb. 23, in on U.S. 31, just south of Bay Shore.

Charlevoix County Sheriff's office officials said the crash occurred shortly before 2 p.m., between Murray and Villa roads in Hayes Township, when 27-year-old Joseph Santilli lost control of his red Subaru Forester while traveling west toward Charlevoix on U.S. 31. Santilli, who was the lone occupant of the vehicle, was transported to Northern Michigan Regional Hospital by Charlevoix City EMS, assisted by Allied EMS. He has since been transferred to another hospital, an update on his condition was not available at press time.

According to Charlevoix County Undersheriff Chuck Vondra, Santilli swerved into the westbound shoulder, bounced off a guard rail, cut across U.S. 31 and struck the passenger side of his vehicle on some trees in a ditch alongside the eastbound lane.

The cause of the accident remains under investigation.

Assisting the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office at the scene were the Charlevoix Township Fire Department, City of Charlevoix Fire and EMS, the Petoskey Department of Public Safety, Michigan State Police, Allied EMS and Charlevoix County Road Commission.

Correction:

An item that appeared in the Charlevoix County Circuit Court round up on page 2 of the Wednesday, Feb. 23, edition of the Charlevoix Courier contained an error. In the listing for the recent sentencing for Jeremy Grutsch, 34, of Boyne City, the word "months" was mistakenly omitted from the term of the prison sentence. The correct sentence range is 23 months to 40 years.

Robbery conspirator handed new charges at sentencing

STEVE ZUCKER

Wise

A Charlevoix-area woman who was recently sentenced to prison on an unarmed robbery charge is facing more legal trouble thanks to a letter she allegedly wrote while housed at the Charlevoix County Jail.

On Friday, Feb. 18, Ashely Chere Wise, 23, was sentenced to serve 40 months to 22 years in prison on a charge of conspiracy to commit unarmed robbery. Recently Wise pleaded guilty to the charge in connection with a strong-armed robbery of a woman in the Kmart Plaza on M-66 on in March of 2010.

Wise was the second half of brother-sister team who conspired in the robbery in which a 68-year old woman's purse was stolen. The victim sustained a broke hip in the incident. Wise's stepbrother and co-defendant Codey Allen Sisson, 20, was sentenced to serve 20 months to 15 years in prison after pleading guilty to the same unarmed robbery charge in July.

But on the day of her sentencing for the robbery charge Wise got something else — a fresh new set of charges, including two counts of prisoner in possession of contraband, and one count each of possession of the controlled substance Suboxone, second offense and possession of marijuana, second offense. The charges are punishable by up to five, four and two years in prison respectively. She also faces a habitual offender, third offense sentencing enhancement that could further increase the maximum penalties she faces.

According Charlevoix County Sheriff's office affidavit, while Wise was lodged at the jail awaiting the final disposition of her unarmed robbery case, jail staff intercepted a letter allegedly written by Wise, in which she admits to taking marijuana and Suboxone (a drug for treating addiction to pain killers) that had been smuggled into her jail cell by another inmate on her birthday (Jan. 28).

A portion of the letter police say Wise authored reads, "She got me waxed for my b-day. It was sweet. I never thought I'd have so much fun in jail."

The letter is dated Feb. 2.

Wise is scheduled to face a preliminary examination on the new charges on March 8, 2011. In the meantime, she has already begun serving her prison sentence on the robbery charge at the Women's Huron Valley Correction Facility in Ypsilanti.

Tech check, part 2: The Skype's (not) the limit

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

In 2007, I wrote an article about technology and its effect on my semi Amish lifestyle. Things have improved a little but I'm still not up to speed and probably never will be. It seems that these smart, young "whipper snappers" are coming up with something new every week. So here we are in 2011 and this is part two of my technology challenged update.

Life seems to whiz by me faster than the speed of sound. For my generation of folk, it takes a little more time to figure all of this out. I am pleased as punch that I am able to purchase fuel for my vehicle with a touch of a few buttons. OK, the term "pleased as punch" already gives you a clue that I am stuck in the 50s. The days when someone comes out to clean your window and check the fluid levels under the hood are long gone. Now if someone appeared at my car door they would probably be welcomed with a dose of mace.

I am on my second GPS device. Never argue with the Garmin. She's right 98 percent of the time. I argued and then lost my way but she turned me around and set me straight quicker than my grandma ever did. The disadvantage for my husband using a Garmin is when we travel together. He's listening to two women giving him instructions instead of one. Tough spot to put your husband in at 70 mph with lane changes in cities populated over the million mark. I am practicing on keeping my mouth shut. No, really I am.

I have discovered the advantage of being able to see a television show that has been previously aired and selecting a movie or two to watch without leaving the comfort of my recliner. The remotes in our home began to multiply like rabbits so we have been fortunate to combine them all into one thanks to modern technology. I just finished my class on how to use it.

In other high tech news, I've discovered I could download Skype with minimal effort. My children have been instructed that grandma needs her fix. It's wonderful seeing the grandchildren in their own surroundings. I can even check if they cleaned their room (if they have a laptop). One daughter asked if it might be legal for me to babysit via Skype. On that note the kids put their hands over the camera.

With this wonderful computer imaging I was able to ask our nine year old grandson to stand next to the grandfather clock located in their dining room. With the comparison I could comment on how tall he had grown. When they know you will be on line they can gather their school work and other items they have recently crafted. This becomes our show and tell time. The grandkids that are 3 and younger are fascinated with seeing their own reflection on the computer screen. They caught on quickly that we could make faces at each other and it wasn't long before we started playing peek-a-boo. Skyping will never replace the warmth of a hug but now I can see that technology is not looking so bad after all. I on the other hand, am not looking so good and have noticed the high definition quality of my reflection on the screen. Note to self: find a locale for Skyping that has soft lighting. Four years have passed since my technology update but I am happy to report at the rate I am taking it all in I should be just about caught up around the year 2014. Woo hoo!

'Check off' funds for the United Way

Editor,

This year, I encourage Michigan residents to "check off" for the United Way Fund on their Michigan tax returns. Form 4642 on the 2010 income tax return allows taxpayers to donate all or part of their tax refund, or to increase their tax payment, to donate to the United Way Fund. The Fund provides food, clothing and shelter for Michigan's low to moderate income families.

The United Way check off is the only Michigan tax check off which returns ALL of the funds directly to the local community. Funds donated are distributed to the local United Way based on the taxpayer's Zip code. In our area, Char-Em United Way will receive all tax donations from Charlevoix and Emmet Counties and will reinvest them to provide basic needs for our neighbors.

Last year was the first for the United Way check-off option, and local taxpayers donated $670 for basic needs in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

Given the continued high unemployment in Northern Michigan, more families are at risk than ever before and the need for assistance has never been greater. This year, please be sure to "check off" for the United Way Fund. All proceeds will directly benefit people served by our local United Way. Giving has never been so easy.

Sincerely,
Barb Perreault,
Char-Em United Way Treasurer

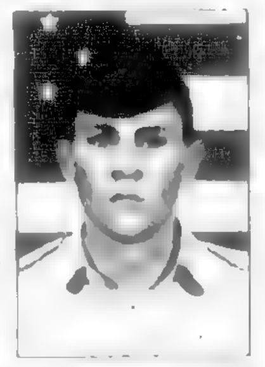
Three area graduates complete military training



Jones

Beck

Davis

Air Force Airman Tyler J. Jones and Airman Brandyn L. Davis both recently graduated from basic military training at Lackland Air Force Base, San Antonio, Texas. The airmen completed an intensive, eight week program that included training in military discipline and studies, Air Force core values, physical fitness, and basic warfare principles and skills.

Airmen who complete basic training earn four credits toward an associate in applied science degree through the Community College of the Air Force.

Jones, a 2010 Charlevoix High School graduate, is the son of Michael and Heidi Jones of Mulberry Lane, Charlevoix.

Davis, a 2008 Charlevoix High School graduate,

He is the son of Kelly Dunlap of Castle Pines Drive, and nephew of Treasure Eggers of West Shore Drive, both of Charlevoix.

Navy Seaman Recruit Stephen E. Beck, son of Penny L. Beck of Charlevoix, Mich., recently completed U.S. Navy basic training at Recruit Training Command, Great Lakes, Ill.

Beck was cited for outstanding performance by a single recruit in his company while undergoing recruit training. Beck's commitment to excellence put his performance above all of his peers, Navy officials said.

This Academic Excellence Award is presented to the sailor who achieved the highest overall academic score during recruit training.

During the eight-week program, Beck completed a variety of training which included classroom study and practical instruction on naval customs, first aid, firefighting, water safety and survival, and shipboard and aircraft safety. An emphasis was also placed on physical fitness.

The capstone event of boot camp is "Battle Stations." This exercise gives recruits the skills and confidence they need to succeed in the fleet. "Battle Stations" is designed to galvanize the basic warrior attributes of sacrifice, dedication, teamwork and endurance in each recruit through the practical application of basic Navy skills and the core values of honor, courage and commitment. Its distinctly "Navy" flavor was designed to take into account what it means to be a sailor.

Beck is a 2009 graduate of Charlevoix High School. His first assignment will be aboard the U.S.S. Constitution based in Charlestown, Mass.

Camp Sea-Gull closing down

Owners decide it's time to pursue other ventures

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

For the first time in 55 years, the campfires at Camp Sea Gull — the all girls summer camp off Boyne City Charlevoix Road on the north shore of Lake Charlevoix — will remain mostly unlit this summer.

Bill Schulman, who co-owns and runs the camp with his older brother Jack and their families and said the family recently decided it was time to persue other ventures.

Which means that, aside from a few group camps that are scheduled, the woods, cabins and waterfront that were home to about 100 girls each summer will be unusually quiet this summer.

Camp Sea-Gull was established in 1955 by Bill and Jack Schulman's parents, Lew and Regene Schulman.

Schulman said enrollment was still strong at the camp which typically drew about 8 percent of its campers from Charlevoix County. The rest came from location such as Chicago, Cleveland, the Detroit area and St. Louis. Most campers spent about four weeks each summer, but could stay as long as six weeks.

The camp typically employed a staff of between 30-35 people.

The camp property, with its 23 acres and 1,450 feet of Lake Charlevoix frontage, is now up for sale, currently listed for $6.5 million.

Bill Schulman said the property had been home to a camp long before his parents bought it and ideally that's what the family would like to see it remain. But, he noted there are many possible uses for the property which is currently zoned agricultural.

Schulman said the decision to close the camp was not an easy one and he will take many fond memories of the camp, campers and staff they've come to know over the years.

Schulman, who said he's done everything at the camp from being a camper to washing dishes, serving as a counselor on up owning the operation, said the camp will be difficult to let go.

"I grew up at that camp," Schulman, 54, said. "This will be the first summer in my life that I won't be there all summer. It's definately the end of an era."

Even as the Schulman family leaves Camp Sea-Gull behind, they won't be too far from the great outdoors. Bill said he has plans to open an outdoor outfitting company in Charlevoix in the near future.

Charlevoix County clerk's rates changing soon

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

Individuals going to the Charlevoix County clerk's office to obtain copies of records will soon be paying a little more for the service.

As of April 1, the rates for documents such as birth certificates, marriage licenses waivers, divorce papers and others will be increased for the first time in many years to make up for money lost in other areas.

"The vital records rate was increased in 2004. All other rates haven't been increased in more than 22 years," said Cheryl Potter Browe, Charlevoix County clerk.

The main reason for the increase is to make up for revenue lost starting on May 1 when the clerk's office is no longer able to process passports.

"The Inspector General said you can't, after May 1, create a birth certificate and a passport in the same office. They are worried that records could be falsified," Browe said

Since the clerk's office is the only place a birth certificate can be obtained in the county, the processing of passports had to be eliminated. Anyone seeking a passport after May 1 will have to apply for one through the post office.

According to Browe, some county offices will still be able to process both the birth certificates and passports because they have the ability to put them in different offices within their county buildings. Charlevoix doesn't have the ability to do that.

The county currently processes an average of about six passports a month for $135 each. The office will make up for the loss of money by increasing the cost of obtaining vital records, which are records such as birth and death certificates, from $8 to $10 each and $5 for a second copy, increasing the cost for a divorce packet from $10 to $25; increasing marriage license waiver from $5 to $20, increase notary certifications from 50 cents to $10, and will charge $2 per name for civil/criminal record searches, which used to be free. The clerk can also perform marriages for $20 each.

"Even though the rates are going up, they are still less than most of the surrounding counties," said Cecelia Borths, Charlevoix County chief deputy clerk.

Emmet County charges $25 for a marriage waiver, $40 for divorce packets and $15 for vital records.

"We knew we had to do something with the fees, but we didn't want the prices to be too high," Browe said.

JOLT drug team reports continued success

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

It has been a year since the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office pulled out of the multi-jurisdictional Straits Area Narcotics Enforcement (SANE) team and officials with the team created to take its place say the change is paying off

The sheriff's office was a part of the SANE team from its inception in the 1980s, but after seeing an increase in drug use in the county and considering the cost of being part of the team, the sheriff's office asked to county board of commissioners to pull out of SANE and allow them to handle the drug problem locally. Since then law enforcement officials have created the Joint Operational Law (Enforcement) Team, which is made up of officers from the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, the Charlevoix Police Department, the East Jordan Police Department and the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's office.

"Since we've been handling this here, other police departments in the area are talking more and becoming more educated. We work with several of the local police departments in the county to attack the issue," said Chuck Vondra, Charlevoix County undersheriff.

According to Charlevoix County Sheriff, Don Schneider, the split (from SANE) was in part because of a request of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners who didn't feel they were getting a good return on their investment. The SANE team was handling only about 25 drug cases a year in Charlevoix County because it was working in a seven county jurisdiction, but the county was investing nearly $100,000 a year into the team.

"We still work with SANE as far as sharing information and helping out in other ways when we can. We respect what they are doing, but now we're worrying about our county first," Vondra said.

The new law enforcement team has seen positive results since last February's development. In 2009 the SANE team enforced 23 drug cases in Charlevoix County. In the year since forming its own team, the sheriff's office alone has been able to enforce 125 cases at a lower cost to the office and the county, and the other city police departments have enforced more than 25 others.

"Our efforts have been so concentrated and so successful that we're hearing some (drug) dealers say they won't even try to sell drugs in Charlevoix County. None of us expected to see this kind of success," Schneider said.

The county is able to save money with the new enforcement team because it already has the personnel, vehicles and equipment necessary for the job. They also are helping fund its efforts with money made through the sale of confiscated vehicles from drug busts..

"With SANE we were helping pay for their administration, a secretary, equipment and other things. We have all that here already and don't have to pay extra for it," Schneider said.

The law enforcement team leaders are pleased with the results it has had with drug arrests over its first year because it's getting some of the drugs off the streets, but the team is also educating the community on the dangers of drugs.

"We don't want to fill our jail with drug dealers. We want to fix the problem. That starts in the family and the community," Vondra said.

Authorities said the drug problem has grown steadily in recent years, but the new drug enforcement team is using their experience to wage war on the issue.

"We're not optimistic that we're going to win the war on drugs, but this sheriff and undersheriff are in the fight," Schneider said.

BOYS BASKETBALL

Rayders win league title in dramatic style

KURT GRANGOOD
SPORTS WRITER

After sharing the top spot in the conference standings for parts of the season, the Charlevoix Rayder boys basketball team now stands alone with the league title firmly in had following a dramatic win on their home court Friday.

Trailing 41-34 with less than five minutes remaining, the Rayders went on a 16-2 game-closing run to beat Grayling, 50-43, and earn the Lake Michigan Conference boys' basketball championship.

"We showed some toughness tonight," said first-year Charlevoix coach Adam Wood. "We were down by seven in the fourth, and we were able to keep fighting back."

The Rayders, who finished 12-2 in the league, earned the title by themselves as Elk Rapids lost to Traverse City St. Francis, 79-58 on Friday. The Elks went into that game tied with the Rayders for the top spot. If the Elks had won, they would have shared the title with the Rayders.

Andrew Potter scored 13 points and Wyatt Drost added 12 to lead Charlevoix, which is 14-5 overall and closes the regular season with a non-league home game on Tuesday, March 1, against Cheboygan.

Steven Enos scored 16 points and Zane Tobin added 15 to lead Grayling, 15-4, 10-4, which led 34-27 entering the fourth quarter.

The teams traded buckets until the score stood 41-34, Grayling, when Charlevoix's Andrew Plude hit a jumper to start the Rayders on the comeback trail.

Drost hit back-to-back 3-pointers from the right corner, the first of which tied the game at 41-all with 3:00 remaining, the second put the Rayders in front to stay, 44-41, with 2:33 left. In between Drost's game-changing triples, Charlevoix's Dylan Putman made a steal.

"We played a tough physical team tonight led by two good players, Tobin and (Steven) Enos," Wood said. "The shot that changed the game was Wyatt Drost's 3-pointer late in the fourth quarter."

The Rayders made 13 of their 16 free throw attempts on the night, including 8-of-10 in the fourth quarter.

Gayling led early, but a 10-0 Charlevoix run in the second quarter gave the Rayders a 20-16 halftime lead. Grayling outscored the Rayders, 18-7, in the third quarter. Tobin scored 10 of his 15 points in the quarter.

"We were getting to the rim, getting rebounds, and putting them back in tonight," Grayling coach Rich Moffit said. "Late in the second, they (Charlevoix) simply out hustled us."

Dylan Putman scored 22 points and grabbed eight rebounds to lead the Rayders in that game.

The Rayders, then 13-5 overall, jumped to a 22-12 first-quarter lead on the Rams and extended it to 42-22 at halftime.

Brennan Ackerman added 14 points for the Rayders and Andrew Plude had 12. Putman finished with eight rebounds and five assists, while Ackerman added seven boards.

For Harbor, 6-11, 4-8, Scott Morse scored nine points, while Nick Cooper, Rourke Sylvain and Ben Kloss added eight apiece. Cooper grabbed 10 rebounds.

Next up, the Radyers will take on conference rival East Jordan on their home court in the first round of the state Class C district basketball tournament at 7 p.m. on Monday, March 7.

Also for Charlevoix, which finished the season at 7-13 overall and 6-8 in the Lake Michigan Conference and, Dani Barron added 14 points and Kelly Greyerbiehl added eight assits.

"It was a great team effort tonight," Charlevoix coach Leslie Hoffman said following the game. "We played without key players and stepped up our pressure defense and really passed well."

Charlevoix trailed 11-9 after one quarter, then out-scored the Vikings, 24-11 in the second quarter for a 33-22 halftime lead.

Grayling, 8-12 overall and 4-10 in the league, was led by Teresa Shereiber with 16 points.

Northwestern Bank adds Boyne location

Northwestern Bank officials in Charlevoix announced Monday that it has signed a lease for a new storefront in Boyne City. The building is located at 104 S. Lake Street, just off Water Street in the downtown retail district.

"We already have a number of customers in the Boyne City area," said Northwestern Bank vice president Steve Weber. "We've been hearing from them for years, and feel this is a good time to expand our presence in Charlevoix County."

Northwestern currently serves the Charlevoix and Emmet County areas with an office in Charlevoix, three locations in Petoskey, one in Bay Harbor and one in Harbor Springs. At this time, the bank has not announced what services will be offered at the Boyne City location or when it expects the new location to open.

Based in Traverse City, Northwestern Bank was chartered in 1955. The bank offers complete banking, investment and trust, and employee benefit services from 27 offices throughout northern Lower Michigan.

For more information on Northwestern Bank, go to www.nwbank.com or call (231) 547-6561.

College to host substance abuse forum

Several Northern Michigan agencies and organization will host a forum to discuss substance abuse in Northern Michigan at 7 p.m. on Tuesday, March 8, in the North Central Michigan College cafeteria.

Organizers said the forum is a combined effort of the college, the Petoskey Public Schools, the Petoskey Post of the Michigan State Police and a number of professionals, parents, and interested community leaders who have first hand experiences and professional advice to share.

The forum will include a panel of experts, including Dr. Michael Notorangelo, a psychiatrist currently practicing in Harbor Springs; Petoskey Public School superintendent John Scholten, Sgt. Brett Gooding from the Petoskey Michigan State Police Post; Petoskey High School assistant principal Julie Bergmann, and a young person of college age "who has very significant experiences to share."

Dale Hull, adjunct faculty member at the college, and attorney Peter O'Rourke, will serve as moderators for the forum. To begin, panelists will make prepared statements on the issues surrounding substance abuse from their own personal and professional perspectives. The moderators will then open the forum discussion.

eral travel shows in partnership with the Charlevoix Convention & Visitors Bureau. These events effectively showcase Charlevoix as a beautiful travel destination overflowing with fun and exciting activities for the entire family."

Peggy is Eucharistic minister at St. Mary's Catholic Church in Charlevoix, and is a member of Circle Michigan, the National Association of Professional Women, Delta Kappa Gamma and the Charlevoix Evening Garden Club.

Customer Service Award

The Customer Service Award, which honors an employee or owner of a member business, who exemplifies high standards by giving priority attention to every customer, client or guest, went to Dean Behan of Behan Window Cleaning.

"Nominated for this award unanimously by the board of directors, Dean exemplifies high standards and is consistently giving his time and energy to fulfill his customer's requests, even when it is not expected of him," Bemis said of Behan.

Chamber officials also noted Behan's customer service does not stop with his own business but carries over to the children he teaches snowboarding and skiing at Mount McSauba.

"Dean has earned a reputation as one of the most requested snowboard and skiing instructors at the recreational facility. Not only do the children enjoy their lessons but the parents and staff alike cannot say enough wonderful things about what an asset he is to the program."

Bemis said Behan's peers describe him as a hard working, positive individual who cares deeply not only for his customers but for everyone in his community, this is what makes his service so outstanding.

"He is not concerned about profit margins or business capital, but about forming a relationship with his customers."

Outstanding Citizen Award

Jackson

The Outstanding Citizen Award, which recognizes an individual who, over a number of years, has given freely of time, talents, and resources to make the Charlevoix area a better place to live, went to Charlevoix Area Hospital president Bill Jackson.

He remained the in that position until 1997 when he was named to suceed retiring hospital president Dick Krueger.

Bill currently serves on the boards for or is a member of Charlevoix State Bank, the Charlevoix Township Hospital Finance Authority, Boulder Park Terrace, the Michigan Hospital Association Business Advisory Council, the Healthcare Financial Managers Association, the Michigan Hospital Association Board of Directors, and the Charlevoix Rotary Club.

"Bill Jackson is an asset not only to our hospital and the healthcare field of Northwest Michigan, but also to our community. The countless organizations and community services that he is a part of make him one of Charlevoix's most outstanding citizens," Bemis said.

Business of the Year Award

The Business of the Year award, which recognizes a business that demonstrates success and exceptional performance in business practices, customer service and community involvement, went to Ace Hardware.

Business owners Mark and Vicki Greyerbeihl moved to Charlevoix in October 1997. At that time the store was located downtown on Bridge Street.

In 2003, the business moved to the current location on M-66; but the downtown shop remained open until 2004. A large addition to the M-66 shop was started in 2006 and complete in 2007.

"Mark is very thankful that Ace has been loyal to them, and that their customers are loyal in return. It's that family aspect that brought them to Charlevoix in the first place," Bemis said.

She pointed to Mark going the extra mile to open the shop for two different families on two Thanksgivings in a row for furnace parts and countless hours of volunteering and coaching and assistance from the entire team at Charlevoix Ace Hardware as examples Greyerbeihl's business philosophy.

"When I asked Mark why he enjoys doing business here, he says its two things. One: Family. Two: the comraderie and closeness of the business owners in this town," Bemis added.

Chairman's Award

The Chairman's award, which recognizes an individual (or business) who has volunteered time and/or resources to help the chamber of commerce went to Charlevoix State Bank.

Charlevoix State Bank was founded in 1994 by "five guys who wanted a hometown community bank." Bemis said. "Sadly missed along life's way,
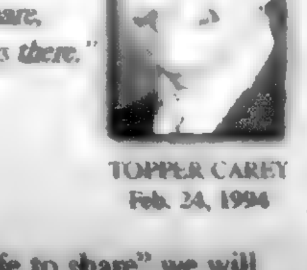
Quietly remembered every day,
No longer in our life to share,
But in our hearts youre always there."



TOPPER CAREY
Feb. 24, 1994

Although you are "no longer in our life to share" we will always appreciate the time we had together. We have continued "along life's way" sadly missing you, yet so grateful for the joy you brought to us. No amount of time or distance will ever diminish our happy memories. Your strength, love and courage will always inspire us.

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

The U.S. Department of Education has concluded that Charlevoix Public Schools officials improperly released student records information to police as they investigated a May 2008 vandalism incident at a high school construction trades project house.

The letter, dated Feb. 9, concerns a complaint filed by the person ultimately held responsible for the vandalism, Austin Wilhelm, (at the time a student at the school) about the release of some of his educational records to police during the investigation.

Following a long-delayed investigation and many court hearings, Wilhelm, pleaded no contest to a misdemeanor charge of malicious destruction of a building, less than $200. He was sentenced to serve four days in jail and to pay $3,200 in restitution.

Janik

Wilhelm's no contest plea was part of a plea agreement with the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's office, in exchange for which the two original felony charges against him were dismissed.

A no-contest plea is similar to a guilty plea in that the defendant is held responsible for the crime, but he or she does not admit guilt. Such pleas are typically permitted only in cases where the defendant either cannot remember the circumstances surrounding an event or (as in this case) when there is a potential for civil litigation to arise out of the charged event.

Jarema

In the letter to district superintendent Chet Janik, federal authorities find the district violated the Federal Education Rights and Privacy Act when it released information to investigators and the prosecutors office including "student's test scores, ID numbers, handwriting, race, gender, parents' names, courses, and absences."

Federal officials also find no merit in the arguments against the release being a violation made by Charlevoix County Prosecutor John Jarema, who responded to the complaint on behalf of the district.

Speaking to the Courier last week, Jarema said after learning of Wilhelm's complaint, he planned to draft his own response and simply asked Janik if the district wished to make his (Jarema's) response on behalf of the school as well.

Janik said he agreed because,

No support for additional liquor licenses downtown

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

A proposal to pursue a designation that would have allowed more liquor licenses in downtown Charlevoix appears to be dead in the water.

Charlevoix Downtown Development Authority director Keith Carey floated the idea at the Feb. 28, regular monthly board meeting, but the board quickly torpedoed it.

Carey suggested that the board consider asking the city council to designate the area within the authority's boundaries as a "redevelopment area."

The designation would allow a new or existing dining, recreation or entertainment business in the district, to apply for a new class C (on premise consumption) liquor license.

The business owners would have to show that they have invested at least $75,000 in improvements to their building in the past five years and that private and public investment in the district has been at least $200,000 in the same five year period. The Charlevoix downtown development authority would easily meet the second threshold thanks to the improvements in East Park.

Carey said currently there are five businesses with class C liquor licenses in the downtown, which is the maximum allowed without the special redevelopment designation.

BEAVER ISLAND — A Chicago couple is hoping others will be as inspired as they were ran across an alternative school for troubled youth on Beaver Island.

Beth Urech, a Michigan native, and her husband Mark Gillingham were so impressed with the school, students and their projects that they set up a scholarship fund and named it 10-10-10 Beaver Island Lighthouse School Scholarship, to commemorate their wedding date on the island.

"We have enough toasters, and blenders," Urech said. "We both love Michigan, and we wanted to make a lasting donation." The couple's wedding invitation requested all gifts be contributions to the fund, which has grown more than five times since it began in October.

The first recipient of the award was Katie Dougherty, who graduated this winter as the class valedictorian. Dougherty, originally a Central Lake resident, dropped out of Elk Rapids High School during her senior year. However, she excelled at the Beaver Island Lighthouse School and now plans on attending college and pursuing career in forensic science.

The scholarship fund is now open to anyone who would like to make a contribution. VIOLATION

absent Jarema's response, the district would have had to pay its attorney to draft a similar document

Despite the finding, the letter, and apparently the act itself has little in the way of disciplinary enforcement teeth

"There is no basis under FERPA to require that a school take punitive or disciplinary action against an individual as the result of a FERPA violation," the letter reads. (An organization, such as a school district, could lose its federal funding if it were found to have an ongoing pattern of violating the act.)

"In order to close the investigation of this complaint, the district should provide this office with assurance and evidence that appropriate officials have been apprised of FERPA's written consent requirement for disclosure of information from students' education records to third parties as it relates to the matters in this complaint," the letter reads.

And Janik has done just that.

In a letter to federal officials date March 1, 2011, Janik indicates that the district's principals, secretaries and counselors have attended training on the act, guidelines for complying with the act have been discussed at staff meetings, included in staff handbooks, posted on the district website, included in district newsletters and are available in each buildings' office.

Janik goes on to write that his letter "should serve to complete the required corrective actions and close the investigation by (federal officials.)"

But the letter from federal officials goes on to offer the district and law enforcement officials guidance on how to obtain the same or substantially similar information in future investigations without violating the privacy act.

First, federal officials said, the privacy act complaint would have been moot had the information been released to police in response to a search warrant or subpoena.

Federal officials also go on to explain that short of a court order, investigators might have obtained some of the information they were seeking simply by asking staff members about their observations — which would not be protected under the federal privacy act.

Finally federal authorities advise the school to designate the sheriff's office school liaison offer as a member of the school's "law enforcement unit," in which case, he could be provided with educational records data without violating the privacy act. The information contained in the records will still be protected by the act from disclosure to third parties, but the officer could use the information as a basis for further investigation.

Jarema doesn't dispute that police and his office had the documents mentioned in the complaint from Wilhelm. He said the documents were in with a stack of other documents in the case evidence, copies of which were turned over to the defense as part of pre-trial discovery

Jarema said it's important for his office and police to have a good working relationship with the schools in the county. To that end he plans to issue guidelines to officers county-wide that instruct them to not request educational records covered under the privacy act without first obtaining a search warrant.

To read the entire letter from federal officials and the school district's response visit www.charlevoixcourier.com to view the documents.

Winter hibernation sounds good, but spring is almost here

Roger Knutson

I am not really a fan of winter. If I had the choice, I would prefer to hibernate through January and February. The science fiction dream of putting people in cold storage for long space flights, during which time they appear not to age is not quite on the scientific horizon, but if it were, I would give it a try each year. The business of not aging when suspended is an added bonus. Hibernation seems to work well for creatures like bears and ground squirrels, although I don't know of any research that suggests they do not age during their winter sleep.

Why would I not continue my hypothetical hibernation until April? With the beginning of March there are the unquestionable signs of coming spring. The onions in our pantry are putting out green leaves, even though they have been mostly inactive during January and February. The daffodils near the south wall of our house have put up their first green shoots. Sap is beginning to drip from our Maple trees, and I am nearly certain that the buds on the Lilac bush are bigger than they were a month ago. Finally, our earliest spring flower, the skunk cabbage, has put up its first blooms. Those pointed purple structures, which have melted their way through any residual snow, are maintaining a nice comfortable seventy degree temperature to attract any wandering potential pollinator on the next sunny day. It is almost worth a trip to Beaver Island's swamps just to hold one in your chilled hand.

I would hate to miss any of those promising signals because I had slept too long.

One additional question. If I am no fan of winter, and I cannot hibernate, why do I stay here year-round? I can only answer, that for me, a bad day in Charlevoix, even a winter day, is better than a good day almost anywhere else.

Lucky us.

Editor:

On Monday, Feb. 14, 2011, Brent Lee Aronson, loving and beloved husband, father, son, brother and uncle tragically passed away.

We, his parents, Pete and Patty Aronson, on behalf of Brent's entire family would like to express our sincere gratitude and appreciation to the many people who made his memorial and the luncheon to follow, such an honorable and respectful success.

We are sure that our Lord was and still is greatly pleased to see the compassion, love and unity displayed in so many ways and comforting words by so many.

Our sincere and heartfelt thanks go out to: All fire and rescue personnel, most of whom are volunteers. All EMS responders, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department, the Charlevoix Middle School, the Charlevoix First Baptist Church, Winchester Funeral Home, Brent's many friends and co-workers along side countless others for their selfless contributions in volunteering their time and talents; and last but not least, the comforting words, hugs, cards, letters and condolences from those of you here locally along with many others across the United States and as far away as Mexico and the Ukraine in eastern Europe.

Brent is now, and always will be, dearly missed but we can not allow his passion to create fishing and hunting opportunities for young people who rarely or never get to enjoy those experiences to whither. His desire was to make a difference in their lives and we can insure that desire does not fade away. There are non-profit events presently being planned and put together to accomplish Brent's dream. Please watch for the fliers and notices and participate.

In conclusion, we spoke earlier of the compassion, love and unity demonstrated in the preparing and carrying out of Brent's Memorial. We now ask that we continue to demonstrate that same compassion, love and unity toward each other, daily, throughout all of our communities as an honest gesture of "Pay it Forward."

We can accomplish the words Jesus spoke in the gospel of John, chapter 15, verse 12, "This is my commandment, that you love one another as I have loved you." Brent's memorial already gave us a good start.

With sincere thanks and by God's grace, Pete and Patty Aronson

On Feb. 14, 2011, Brent Aronson, a Charlevoix Township firefighter, loving husband and father passed away in a tragic car accident.

Brent and Laurie were best friends, they enjoyed doing everything together. They were together for 17 happy years and had a 13 year old daughter, Haylee. Brent was a hard worker, very dependable, and was someone who would go the extra mile to help anyone out.

Aronson

Brent was very close to his parents Pete and Patty Aronson. He spent a lot of time fishing and hunting with his father while growing up.

Brent's passion besides his family was being a firefighter for the Charlevoix Township Fire Department. He joined the department in 2008 and loved it very much. He was 110 percent devoted to the Charlevoix Township brotherhood and family. When you spend as much time with your fellow firefighters, putting your life in their hands, that's what they become, you're family. Brent was someone you could rely on to have your back if you had to go into a fire. Brent once said to another firefighter "If you go, I go, brothers 'til the end, right?"

Brent was very involved with being on the department. He helped with anything that needed to be done. He was also part of the vehicle extrication team and in January was appointed training officer. Brent can never be replaced, he has left us all with what a "true brotherhood of devotion" truly is. His passion will live on forever in all of us.

Brent loved the outdoors. He was an avid fisherman and hunter. Brent was on the Charlevoix Trout Tournament committee and he assisted Kent Seymour in starting the Charlevoix Salmon Shootout in 2010. Brent was very involved with the White Caps Charter team and did several fishing tournaments. He always had a story to tell about one of his fishing tournaments.

Brent's daughter, Haylee was happy to spend every minute she could with her father. Haylee enjoyed, hunting, fishing and helping her dad out with anything that involved the fire department.

Right now Laurie is not only dealing with the loss of her husband, she is also dealing with the financial burden too. To help defray some of these costs, members of several Charlevoix County fire departments are organizing a benefit spaghetti dinner to help Brent's family.

The dinner is from 4-7 p.m. Sunday, March 13, 2011, at the Charlevoix Middle School. Donations will be accepted at the door. Additional donations can be made to the family at Charlevoix State Bank.

We'd like to thank all those who have helped the family so far.

Writer questions officials' actions in student privacy matter

In a letter to superintendent Chet Janek, dated Feb. 9, 2011, the United States Department of Education found that the Charlevoix Public School District violated the rights of former high school student, Austin Wilhelm, and by extension the rights of several other young people who have been similarly mistreated. The complaint cited a violation of the Family Educational Rights and Privacy Act (FERPA) when Charlevoix High School administrators, under the leadership of the superintendent of schools, offered private information about its students collected over the years by the school district to Charlevoix County Prosecutor, John Jarema and to the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department without notifying and receiving permission to do so from the parents or guardians of the students or from the students themselves.

The complaint was filed against superintendent Chet Janek in the name of the Charlevoix Public Schools. The school district's response to the complaint, however, came from Charlevoix County Prosecutor John Jarema, not from the school district, and written on Charlevoix County stationary in defense of the Charlevoix Public Schools. The defense arguments are made in 14 pages of John Jarema's prose supported by 48 pages of ancillary material. Time is money. County employees obviously spent a good deal of time at tax payer's expense defending a school district that has an attorney of its own.

According to the Department of Education finding, the school district has two weeks to prove it has taken measures to bring the district into compliance.

All of which begs two questions: Why didn't the Charlevoix Public School District answer in its own defense? Given the district attorney's arguments, the district had nothing to lose. The second question is when and how will the school district apologize to the students and families whose rights were violated? I'm not holding my breath.

Thanks for a great first Winterfest

On behalf of the Charlevoix Elks we would like to take a moment to thank all who helped and supported the "2011 Charlevoix Winterfest Games." Between the hard-working crew under Bo Boss at Mount McSauba, Charlevoix's recreation department director, Teresa Hart, all the businesses that were kind enough to sponsor this event, all of you who came out to enjoy the day and we must not forget Mother Nature for a perfect day of weather. Thank you so much.

All of these people put in a great deal of work to make this event the success that it was. Going beyond their daily schedules and work load to make sure they put smiles on the many faces that showed up to enjoy the day. I can say, on behalf of the Elks, it was our pleasure to serve with all of you at this event and we are already looking forward to next year's "Winterfest" hoping to continually make it better and better, year after year after year. Thank you again for all you do for Charlevoix and its community members. We live in a great town because of people like you.

County makes recycling easier

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

The Charlevoix County Recycling Program recently made some changes to make it easier for residents to recycle and there are more changes on the way.

The program is now allowing people to mix glass, tin and plastic in one recycling bin, eliminating the pre-sorting process.

"It's going to make it easier for everyone to recycle," said Michelle Hewitt, Charlevoix County Recycling Program chairperson.

The material that can be mixed is clear and colored glass, tin and aluminum containers and plastic containers such as bottles, jugs, cups and beverage cartons.

Until now all the different materials had to be divided before being placed in the bins, but now the Emmet County Recycling processing station, which handles all of Charlevoix County's recyclable material, has a machine that sorts the materials automatically.

"They still have people who have to help with the sorting, but it's a fast process," Hewitt said.

The recycling program is also working on acquiring more bins to reduce overflow issues at the recycling stations. It is applying for a $21,450 grant from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, which will pay for three new 30-meter-long bins for the county. The grant also requires the county to have matching funds, which will pay for three additional bins if the grant is approved.

The new bins will be distributed to the different recycling locations around the county. The locations are Boyne City at the Charlevoix County Road Commission, at the Beaver Island Transfer Station, Boyne Valley Township on Addis Road, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Office, the East Jordan Transfer Station and the Melrose Township Transfer Station.

"We also budgeted to have the current bins repainted and labeled," Hewitt said.

Funding for the recycling program comes from a .15 county-wide millage, which will come to a vote again in 2012.

For more information about the Charlevoix County Recycling Program and what materials can be recycled go to www.charlevoixcounty.org/recycling.asp.

He was born on June 13, 1923 in Charlevoix, the son of Everett and Alberta (Harvey) Crain. On Nov. 2, 1946 in Ellsworth, he married Anna "Midge" Gibbard. They moved to Charlevoix in 1947. She preceded him in death on Aug. 5, 1989. On Oct. 19, 1997 in Charlevoix, he married Ruth Combest Crawford in Charlevoix.

As a young man, Glenn bought and sold livestock. He also co-owned and operated the Holm & Crain Auto Parts in Charlevoix until 1974. Glenn also had worked as a grounds keeper for the Belvedere Club until the 1990s.

He was a member of the Burger King Coffee Club in Charlevoix and the Open Door Christian Coffee House in East Jordan. He enjoyed golfing, walking to K mart, hanging out at Burger King and gardening, especially tomatoes. He was well known for "telling stories and tall tales."

He is survived by his wife, Ruth Crain of Charlevoix; children, Mike (Dawn) Crain of Charlevoix, Sue (Bill Scott) Shively of East Jordan, Bob (Shelby) Crain of Atlanta, Ga., Roger Crain of Charlevoix, Dennis "Denny" (Evelyn) Crain of Garland, Texas, Connie (Brian) Schnupp of Sugar Land, Texas, Anne (Dan) Crick of East Jordan, Billie Jo Williams of East Jordan and Jon (Shannon) Crawford of East Jordan; 31 grandchildren; 36 great-grandchildren; 13 great-great-grandchildren; one sister-in-law, Clara Crain of Boyne City; and numerous nieces and nephews. He was also preceded in death by one son, Gary Crain in 1994; two daughters-in-law, Anna Crain in 1993 and Pam Crain in 1995; and two sons-in-law, Dave Shively in 2004 and Patrick Williams in 1992.

Funeral service took place at 11 a.m. on Saturday, March 5, 2011, at the Charlevoix United Methodist Church. The Rev. James L. Jordan of the Lighthouse Missionary Church in East Jordan officiated. Interment will follow in the spring at Brookside Cemetery, Charlevoix.

The family received friends from 5-8 p.m. on Friday March 4, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. Memorials may be directed to the Open Door Christian Coffee House, c/o Ron Klooster, #5 Manning Drive, East Jordan, MI 49727.

gram in recent years. He said he decided to make the proposal to the board now after being approached by some prospective business owners who had expressed interest in the program in Charlevoix and after seeing it used in neighboring communities such as Boyne City. Officials in Petoskey have also discussed the program.

But, Carey said, when visiting downtown business owners, including current liquor license holders, the idea wasn't typically well received.

Carey

He said the same was true among many members of the downtown development authority board.

Carey said most of the concern centered around enough business being present to support more establishments with liquor licenses — especially during the slower off-season months.

"There are two schools of thought. One, that this is going to grow the size of the pie, and the other that the size of the pie will stay the same and the pieces will just get smaller," Carey said. "My feeling, from an economic development standpoint is that restaurants are more of a draw to out of town visitors than shopping.

Without the support of the board, Carey said he'll keep an eye on the program, but it likely won't go anywhere for the foreseeable future.

"I think that the availability of these licenses would have been a great opportunity for downtown Charlevoix," Carey said. "It could have been a useful tool for filling space downtown."

However, Carey noted that as director of the downtown development authority, he has to be mindful of existing businesses, too.

"My job isn't just to bring in new businesses at the expense of the existing ones. It is business retention first and recruitment second."

Great Lakes Energy awards grants

Great Lakes Energy members continue to lend a hand to local community causes through their voluntary contributions to the People Fund. The People Fund board of directors awarded a total of $16,000 in grants in February to the following non profit organizations in northern Michigan:

Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan, Petoskey: $4,000 to fund remodeling and signs at the new resale shop location.

Gaylord Area Council for the Arts, Gaylord: $1,000 for building improvements.

Compassionate Hearts, Boyne City: $1,000 for funds for low-income families needing emergency financial assistance.

Lamplighters of Montmorency County, Lewiston: $1,000 for the Dolly Parton Imagination Library that provides free books to young readers.

Char-Em United Way, Petoskey: $2,500 to fund the 2-1-1 hotline.

District Health Department #10, White Cloud: $1,500 to fund the Girls on the Run program for Kalkaska, Crawford and Missaukee counties.

The People Fund is supported solely by Great Lakes Energy members who allow their electric cooperative to round up their bill each month to the next dollar. Since 1999, more than $2 million in grants have been awarded to charitable and community organizations throughout Great Lakes Energy's 26-county service area, which stretches from Kalamazoo to the Mackinac Straits.

"During these tough times for many families, the Great Lakes Energy People Fund needs support more than ever," Great Lakes Energy President/CEO Steve Boeckman said. "The average monthly contribution is just 50 cents per month. Members can enroll by contacting us so we can continue to help local, worthwhile organizations in need."

McSauba season finale set, 4 needed for advisory group

Officials with City of Charlevoix recreation department are planning to send off the winter sports season with a celebration at Mount McSauba Saturday, March 12.

Recreation director Teresa Hart said the event will be an expansion on past season-ending events at the city's well-know, ski, sledding and skating facility.

This year, in addition to the well-known water hole, activities will include cardboard sled races, a "big air" contest, bump jumper races, and scrambles.

Ski and snowboard rental and lift tickets have been reduced to $5 each and extra events are also $5 each.

And although Saturday will mark the end of another season of skiing, sledding and skating at Mount McSauba, recreation department officials are seeking community members to help plan for the future of the department by serving on its advisory board.

The city is seeking four people to serve on the advisory board, which serve to help guide the department on issues related to recreation and to encourage citizen participation; to advise and collaborate with the recreation director on issues and programs affecting recreation and leisure and to study issues in order to provide input on the values, goals, and objectives of a program.

Anyone interested in serving on the recreation advisory board should contact the city recreation department at (231) 547-3253.

MORGAN SHERBURNE
NEWS-REVIEW
SPORTS WRITER

EAST JORDAN — It was a game of who-could-score-the-lowest-but-still-win in the East Jordan-Charlevoix Class C boys' basketball district opener on Monday night.

The evenly matched teams held each other to a score of 46-38, with the Rayders coming out on top.

And the game was not a foregone conclusion — not even close. For the first 16 minutes of play, the Red Devils kept the Rayders in check, allowing them only two baskets, both 3-pointers, in the first quarter and holding them to 19 points for the first half.

Leading 27-19 at halftime thanks to a buzzer-beating triple by senior Derek Boyer, East Jordan then lost a little steam in the third quarter. Charlevoix reciprocated the defensive favor by holding the Red Devils to just three points in the third quarter.

"In the second half, we knew they were going to make a run on us, but we just did nothing on the offensive side," said East Jordan coach Darrin Weber. "A three-point third quarter, that's tough."

During that third quarter, Charlevoix took off, outscoring East Jordan 16-3 and forcing four turnovers in the last two minutes of the quarter.

"The first two to four minutes out of the half are really important to get the team on a roll," said Rayder coach Adam Wood. "The seniors just said they didn't want this to be their last game."

Senior Dylan Putman was a key player for Charlevoix, scoring 18 points and coming in as the Rayders' top rebounder.

"Dylan was a standout tonight not only scoring wise, but with his attitude," Wood said. "We were just really fortunate to come out on top."

The Red Devils fought back in the fourth quarter, putting up eight points to Charlevoix's 11, but they ran out of clock.

"They have four or five guys on the floor that could really hurt you," said Weber, whose team closed a 9-12 season. "The kids played hard. I thought we played them well."

The Rayders, 16-5, advance to a semifinal game on Wednesday against defending district champ Boyne City, 8-12. Wednesday's first semifinal, which begins at 6 p.m., pits Mancelona, 12-8, and Harbor Springs, 7-13. The Charlevoix-Boyne game follows.

The final is 7 p.m. Friday, March 11.

Dylan Putman scored 15 points and grabbed nine rebounds as Charlevoix rolled to finish a 15-5 regular season under first-year coach Adam Wood.

"We're excited about how the regular season ended up," said Wood, whose team lost to Suttons Bay, Petoskey, Cedarville, Traverse City St. Francis and Elk Rapids, teams that are a combined 76-19 in the regular season. "The guys really persevered."

On Feb. 25, the Rayders wrapped up the Lake Michigan Conference title with a victory over Grayling.

"Our league is pretty tough and I think it says a lot about our guys to have won the league title," Wood said. "We told our guys, congratulations on the regular season and now we start a new season. We're 0-0 just like everybody else."

Isiah Woodard and Damon Proctor scored 10 points apiece for Cheboygan, 4-15.

GIRLS BASKETBALL

District title just out of reach

Lady Rayders' last-minute comeback falls 4 points short

MANCELONA — A battered and bruised Charlevoix team had one big swing left.

Lynzie Gotshall made 13 of her 14 free throw attempts and finished with a game-high 21 points and 11 rebounds Friday but the Rayders could not overcome a poor shooting night and an 11-point deficit in falling to Harbor Springs, 50-46, in a Class C girls' district championship game at Mancelona High School.

The loss ended the Rayders' season at 8-14. It was the first district title since 2003 for Harbor. The Rams, 13-10, advance to the regional at Kalkaska High School where they were scheduled to play Johannesburg-Lewiston, 18-4, in a semifinal game on Tuesday, March 8. The regional final is Thursday, March 10.

With two starters, Dani Barron (knee) and Jenna Way (back), clearly hampered by injuries, the Rayders hung tough against Harbor despite falling behind by 11, 41-30, with less than five minutes remaining.

Charlevoix's deficit was nine, 47-38, with less than two minutes left, but the Rayders made a valiant surge to pull to within two points, 48-46, with under 30 seconds to play.

"Down nine points with two minutes (left) and we could have easily rolled over and said this thing is done," said first-year Charlevoix coach Leslie Hoffman. "I was so proud of the way we continued to battle back, get those (held) balls when we needed them, a turnover here and there that we forced. We really showed some grit coming down the stretch. Proud of that. How can you not be?'"

Barron managed 11 points while Way had eight, but the Rayders simply could not overcome an ice colding shooting night. They made just 12 of their 55 (22 percent) field goal attempts, including 2-of-12 from 3-point range. Charlevoix kept itself in the game by knocking down 20 of its 26 free throw attempts, and the Rayders' late game charge began at the free throw line.

A Gotshall free throw with 1 minute, 59 seconds left drew the Rayders within eight, 47-39, then Kelly Greyerbiehl hit another free throw with 1:32 left to make it 47-40. Two more Gotshall free throws with 57.7 seconds remaining brought Charlevoix within five, 47-42, then, after Gotshall's two makes, Barron stole the inbounds pass and scored on a layup to bring Charlevoix within three, 47-44.

Harbor's Emily Ford split a pair of free throws with 41.7 seconds left to re-up Harbor's lead to 48-44, then Gotshall made two more free throws with 29.5 seconds remaining to draw the Rayders within two, 48-46.

But that was as close as the Rayders would get. The door appeared to open with 20.3 seconds left with Harbor missed two charity tosses, but Harbor senior Allison Bartosh was there to corral the rebound. She was fouled and made both of her attempts with 18.3 seconds remaining.

Elena Ongaro scored 12 points to lead Harbor, while Ford finished with nine, and Jenna Lechowicz added eight.

"I thought when it came down to it, in those last three minutes tonight," Hoffman said, "we did what we had to do and we just couldn't get our shots to fall. There's nothing you can do about that. Everybody has nights like that."

Rayders prevail in evenly matched semi-final

The evenly matched teams — Charlevoix headed into the tournament 7-13 and East Jordan 8-12, and the two split their regular-season meetings — showed just how well-matched they were as the lead flip flopped by only a few points either way throughout the game.

"I was expecting a close game either way," said East Jordan coach Steve Hines, whose team won the district last season. "I expected it to go to the wire."

Jenna Way scored 20 points and Dani Barron added 14 as the Rayders pulled away in the second half to secure a spot in the Friday, March 4, final against Harbor Springs, 12-10. Harbor topped Boyne City, 55-37, in Wednesday's second semifinal.

Way provided a spark at the end of the first half, hitting a 3-pointer and scoring on a layup and a free throw. The game was tied 20-20 at halftime. The Rayders outscored the Red Devils, 32-24, in the second half to slowly pull away.

Juniors Kelly Greyerbiehl and Megan Peters grabbed seven rebounds apiece for Charlevoix, 8-13, which is seeking a return to the district winner's circle after a one-year hiatus.

The Rayders won three straight district titles from 2004-06, when the girls' basketball season was played in the fall. Then captured back-to-back crowns in 2007-08 and '08-09 when the season switched to the winter.

Senior Lynzie Gotshall, who scored 26 points when the Rayders and the Red Devils last met, was held to six points.

"(East Jordan) really shut her down, and the other girls really stepped up," first-year Charlevoix coach Leslie Hoffman said. "We showed a lot of poise and continued to break through their press and pressure. We made some really good choices with the ball and limited our turnovers, which helped us get into our offense better."

Scrappy sophomore Valerie Peters scored six of her 12 points in the fourth quarter and finished with four rebounds to help keep the Red Devils lapping at Charlevoix's heels.

"The girls showed a great effort tonight, Hines said. "We just did not make enough shots, and it didn't turn out the way we hoped."

Junior Tanner McCune led the Red Devils with 13 points and freshman Rainy McCune added nine points and pulled down four rebounds. Junior Grace Howes was East Jordan's top rebounder with eight.

If you are fond of Charlevoix's throwback wooden street name signs, enjoy them now because starting next year they will start disappearing from city street corners.

At Monday's regular semimonthly Charlevoix City Council meeting, city street superintendent Pat Elliott asked the council for some direction on the limited choices the city has to comply with a new federal regulation regarding street name sign regulations.

Elliott explained under new federal rules, by 2018 the city must replace its crop of aging wooden white-with-raised-black-letters street name signs with new steel signs that meet federal visibility and reflectivity requirements.

To comply with the regulations, municipalities may choose between one of four background colors — blue, green, black, or brown. The signs' white lettering may not be altered, but municipalities may choose to have the signs with or without a white boarder.

A straw poll taken by mayor Norman "Boogie" Carlson during the meeting among the council and the roughly 20 people in the audience found near unanimous preference for the black background with the border.

Elliott was seeking guidance from the council on the signs prior to his proposed phased replacement of the street name signs in the city starting in the 2012-13 budget year. His plan calls for breaking the city up into five section and doing one section per year for the next five years.

Elliott

He estimated the average cost for the signs will be about $35 each. With about 300 street name signs in the city (not counting private streets), that comes to a little more than $10,000.

Elliot said the council may want to consider whether it wants to require private roads to have a sign that matches other public road signs. He estimated there are about 20 private streets in the city.

In other business, the council approved a new four-year lease with Island Airways for the space that the company currently occupies at the Charlevoix Municipal Airport terminal. The lease sets the Island Airway's rent at $1 per year, but also stipulates that it must share in 50 percent of utility costs, gives the city the right to terminate the lease when the terminal is demolished to make way for a new building (expected in about two years), and settles a dispute between the city over whether the city may start collecting rent on the hangar Island Airways uses starting April 1. In a separate lease also approved Monday, Island Airways will begin paying rent on the hangar space on April 1 at a rate of 30 cents per square foot.

The new leases grew out of the city's decision to start handling the airport's day-to-day operations itself starting April 1 instead of contracting with Island Airways for those services as it had done in the past.

401(k) Review and Rollover Can Be Rewarding

Your 401(k) offers tax-deductible contributions, tax-deferred growth of earnings potential and a variety of investment options — so it's a great tool for building retirement savings. Yet like all tools, your 401(k) must be used properly to get the best results. That's why you should review your 401(k) at least annually and make whatever adjustments are needed.

Depending on where you work, you may get some 401(k) review help from your plan provider. But if that assistance isn't available, you might want to consult with a financial professional to make sure you're getting the maximum benefit from your plan.

As you begin to review your 401(k), your first question should probably be this:

"How much should I contribute?" At the very least, try to put in enough to receive your employer's matching contribution, if one is offered. If you don't earn this match, you are essentially walking away from "free money." Beyond this, though, the amount you put into your 401(k) might depend on what other retirement savings vehicles you have available. For instance, if you're eligible, you may also want to contribute to a Roth IRA, which offers tax-free growth potential, provided you've had your account for five years and don't start taking withdrawals until you're 59½.

Of course, it's not only how much you put into your 401(k) that determines its success — it's also how you choose to allocate your investment dollars. (Keep in mind that asset allocation does not guarantee a profit or protect against loss.) Your 401(k) may have a dozen or more investment choices, such as stock funds, bond funds and money market funds. To choose the right investment mix, you'll need to consider a variety of factors, including these:

- Your age — Generally speaking, the younger you are, the more aggressive you can afford to be with your 401(k) investments, because you'll have decades in which to potentially overcome the inevitable down periods of the market. As you get older, you may wish to invest somewhat more conservatively, but you'll still need some growth potential in your 401(k) portfolio.
- Your goals — Everyone has different goals for retirement. You might want to retire early and travel the world, while your co-worker desires to work as long as possible and then, upon retirement, stay close to home and pursue hobbies. Because you each have different goals, with different income needs, you also may need to follow different investment strategies within your 401(k).
- Your other retirement income sources — If you have a variety of retirement income sources — a pension from another job, an IRA, a spouse with generous retirement benefits — you may need to invest differently, perhaps less aggressively, than if you had fewer options for retirement income.

Apart from putting away as much as you can into your 401(k) and choosing the right investment mix, what else can you do to get the most out of your plan? Here's a suggestion: If you have worked at various jobs and acquired multiple 401(k)s, consider rolling them over into one account. You might save money on fees and reduce paperwork, but more importantly, you'll be able to concentrate your resources and pursue a unified investment approach, with your investment dollars working together toward your ultimate retirement goals.

As you can see, a 401(k) review and rollover can reward you in many ways — so do whatever it takes to maximize your 401(k)'s performance.

2-1-1 information and referral hotline coverage expands

On Feb. 11, residents from Antrim, Benzie, Grand Traverse, Kalkaska, and Leelanau counties joined those in Charlevoix and Emmet who can get non-emergency health and human services information by calling the toll-free hotline, 1-877-211-LAKE (5253).

The system had been available in Charlevoix and Emmet counties since September. Char-Em United Way has spearheaded development of the 2-1-1 service for Charlevoix and Emmet Counties for the past several years. A $2,500 grant from the Great Lakes Energy People Fund has just been awarded to the project and will help support services in the coming year. Later this year, the system will shift over the easy-to-remember 2-1-1 phone number.

"Although the service has only been available for a few months, it is clear that it is meeting an important need," Char-Em United Way Executive Director Martha Lancaster said. "In the first two and a half months of service, 66 local residents called the hotline. Of these 56 percent requested referrals for basic needs (housing/shelter, utilities, food, materials goods, and transportation.) More than 28 percent specifically requested utility assistance. Other high volume needs were health care, income support, legal services, and family life services."

Callers are connected to a highly-trained information and referral specialist who can provide information and referrals to local services. The service is available every day around the clock and is free to callers. Call-takers can help residents with a variety of needs including housing and utility assistance, location of food pantries, where to volunteer, information about after school programs, senior care services, mortgage foreclosure and more.

For more information, contact United Way at (231) 487-1006 or info@charemunitedway.org. A flyer about the 2-1-1 service can be downloaded from www.charemunitedway.org under the Community Impact tab. Additional information about 2-1-1 can be found at: http://www.uwmich.org/2-1-1.

Grant will extend alliance's entrepreneur program

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation and the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation recently awarded the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance grants totaling $18,300 to continue their Entrepreneur Program for a third year. The grant award enables the alliance to build on the foundation established two years ago by expanding programs and services for area entrepreneurs. The alliance will also ramp up marketing to the general public so existing and potential entrepreneurs are aware of the services available.

Maureen Radke, program officer for Charlevoix County Community Foundation, recently presented a check to the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance board of directors. She said the foundation is happy to have partnered from the beginning of the entrepreneurial project, and added, "It's great to see continued community impacts."

Sara Ward, program officer for the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation, likewise a partner with alliance's entrepreneurial project from the beginning said, "We made a significant investment in (the alliance's) efforts to encourage entrepreneurs in our region and we're very excited to see it take off."

"We look forward to building on the successes of past years with new companies being formed, established companies growing, and jobs being created and retained in our local workforce," alliance entrepreneurship director, Tom Erhart said.

Founded in 1984, the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance is the lead economic development organization for Antrim, Charlevoix, Cheboygan and Emmet Counties. Along with local foundation grants such as this, alliance achieves its mission of creating and retaining quality jobs through the assistance of core partners, including; Michigan State University Extension, the Michigan Economic Development Corporation, the Northwest Michigan Council of Governments, the Michigan Small Business and Technology Development Center and the Charlevoix-Emmet Intermediate School District. The organization also works closely with various local, state and federal economic development agencies and many elected officials from villages, townships, counties, state and federal government who employ a team approach to economic development.

For more information on alliance and the services it offers, call (231) 582-6482 or visit www.northernlakes.net.

County restricts grant writing expenses

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW STAFF WRITER

The Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners is developing a plan to limit grant writing, in hopes of saving the county money.

Grants applications are currently being written by the various departments and by Larry Sullivan, the county planning director who is also the unofficial grant writer for the county. Commissioners said some of the grants are costing more money in "man hours" during the writing process than the grants are worth.

"It doesn't make any sense to pay $1,000 for a $500 grant. If we know about it in advance we can prevent that waste of spending," said Chris Christensen, Charlevoix County commissioner.

According to Joel Evans, chairman of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, many grants are being written by the various county departments and the commissioners are left out of the loop. As overseers for county spending, the commissioners would like to have input on the grant applications.

"We want to make sure the county knows which department wants to apply for a grant, what for, and is it a fully funded grant or partially funded so we can say we can help out here or we don't have money to help out," Evans said.

Another issue is that many of the county's departments are approaching Sullivan directly for his experience in writing grants, but when he's taken away from his regular job as the county planning director, which pays an estimated $45 an hour, including benefits, he is unable to perform his other responsibilities.

One solution for this, according to Christensen, is to create a checklist for departments to fill out before approaching Sullivan with a possible grant. The checklist would have information about why the department needs the grant, how the money will be applied and the specifics of all information so Sullivan won't have to spend excessive hours researching to write the grant at a cost to the county.

After the checklist is completed it will go to the personnel committee for review and then be pushed to the commission for approval. The commission will determine if it's worth it or not to apply for the grant. If they approve and Sullivan writes the grant, the department will be charged $45 an hour for his service.

"There are departments in the building that may say, 'It's worth it for us to pay $45 an hour to have Larry work on it.' But if they want to write their own grants they can still do that, but we want to know what those grants are," Christensen said.

The county is still working on the specifics of the checklist, but plans to get the new process started very soon.

The effort of the commission to have more control over the grant writing process in the county is to save money for tax-payers in the current poor economy.

"We want to make sure the public understands that we are, bottom line, tightening our belts and trying to do everything we can to manage what we have. I don't think this downward turn is done yet and the funds aren't always going to come in," Evans said.

Snake Venom Erases Wrinkles

BEVERLY HILLS — Some are calling Vipox® the greatest breakthrough in skin research since botulism toxin for eliminating wrinkles. Vipox is an innovative cream which contains a synthetically similar ingredient to Waglerin 1, the peptide found in the venom of the Temple viper.

Vipox works similarly to botulism toxin by relaxing contractions in the skin to eliminate wrinkles, crows feet, expression lines and other signs of aging skin. But, unlike botulism toxin, Vipox is not injected and you don't have to make a doctors appointment to get it. Vipox is applied sparingly to the skin twice daily and is completely safe.

In an in vivo clinical study, 30 volunteers (ages 40-60) were divided into two groups. One group applied the Vipox formula and the other group applied a placebo. Both groups applied the creams to their foreheads twice daily. Results showed up to a 52% reduction in wrinkle size within 28 days of application in the Vipox group.

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

CHARLEVOIX — The Michigan Supreme Court has found in favor of the City of Charlevoix in a property tax case that could have implications for many property owners across the state.

In a unanimous decision released Thursday, the court found that the Charlevoix city's assessor properly raised the taxable value on a May Street property owned by Nathan Klooster in 2006 — but not for the reasons cited by lower courts.

In 2004, Klooster was added as a joint tenant, or co-owner, of a modest house owned by his father on May Street. After Klooster's father died in 2005, the city treated it as a transfer of ownership and nearly doubled the taxable value.

Under the state's Proposal A, a property's taxable value may not be increased each year by more than the lesser of 5 percent or the rate of inflation unless the property is improved or its ownership is transferred.

The court's complex ruling was at the same time a victory and a loss for both sides.

Klooster won because the court found first that under the circumstances, his father's death did not qualify as a property transfer because it met the conditions of an exemption to the property transfer definition.

However, he lost because the court went on to find that a joint tenancy he created later in 2005 — in which he added his brother as a co-owner — did qualify as a transfer and thus the city was justified in raising the taxable value on the home to it then-cash value.

The court's decision centered around a provision in the property tax law that makes, property transfers (under certain circumstances) involving "joint tenancy" (a form of co-ownership) exempt from uncapping. The court said the law requires at least one of the "joint tenants" (co owners) to have been an "original owner" when the joint tenancy was created. In Klooster's case, the transfer that happened when his father died (leaving him as sole owner of the property) qualified for the exemption because his father was an "original owner." However, the court said, the transfer involving his brother did not qualify for the exemption because neither Klooster nor his brother were original owners.

The court also found that a principle that a Michigan Court of Appeals panel had relied upon when it found in Klooster's favor in an earlier decision was not valid. In that decision, the Court of Appeals held that the father's death did not count as a transfer because the change in ownership took place automatically upon the father's death and was not executed by a written document. The Supreme Court, however, held that an ownership transfer (for purposes of uncapping the property's taxable value) can occur without a written document.

"We hold first that a 'conveyance' ... does not require a written instrument," the court wrote. The court goes on later in the opinion to write, "Conveyances to a trust, distributions from a trust, and conveyances by intestate succession do not re

School staff member rescues choking student

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

As a media center and discipline room assistant at Charlevoix Middle School, Cindy Whitley has many responsibilities, but after last week she can add one more to her list of duties: Lifesaver.

On Friday, March 4, Whitley, a 16-year veteran of Charlevoix Public Schools, came upon a student who was choking on some food while eating during the school's lunch period and was able to successfully dislodge the food, likely saving the student's life.

Whitely explained that one of her responsibilities is to keep tabs on the students in the cafeteria during lunch periods. This includes keeping tabs on a room across the hall from the cafeteria where students facing discipline are required to eat. Whitley said a small group of boys who don't care for the boisterous atmosphere in the cafeteria also usually eat in the room across the hall. Jarod Lowell is among that small group of students who prefer a quieter lunch.

Whitely said on March 4, she was making her usual lunchtime rounds between the two areas when she poked her head into the smaller room and saw three students starting to panic and Jarod sitting at the table, choking, unable to talk and turning blue in the face. Whitely said almost without thinking she stood Jarod up and performed the Heimlich maneuver on him. She said after about three thrusts to his abdomen, the piece of cheesy bread that had been lodged in Jarod's throat came out and in moments he was breathing normally again.

> "I truly wonder what would have happened if I hadn't walked into that room when I did. It really could have been deadly."

She said after making sure Jarod was OK, she had a custodian take him to the rest room to get cleaned up and notified his mother about the incident. After resting for a short time, Jarod finished the school day without any further complications.

EJ man injured in crash, cited for not reporting

EAST JORDAN — Police have cited an East Jordan man for failing to report a traffic crash that took place early Saturday in Wilson Township.

Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider said at about 2:15 a.m. Saturday deputies were called to a report of an accident on Marvon Road near Pesek Road

When they arrived, deputies found an unoccupied 1995 Chevy Suburban with heavy front end damage, smashed glass and dried blood within the vehicle's interior. Police said the scene surrounding the vehicle was littered with empty beer cans, bottles and broken glass. The vehicle's interior smelled strongly of alcohol and a search of the area failed to locate any of the occupants, police said.

Schneider said deputies attempted to track down the registered owner at his address but failed to make contact. He said about 10 hours later, Charlevoix Sheriff's Office received a call from the registered owner who wished to report the accident.

The sheriff said when deputies made contact with Christopher Dale Morse, 28, of East Jordan he reported that he dropped his cell phone and lost control of his Suburban while trying to pick the phone off the floor. Police said Morse reported that he attempted to avoid a collision but it was too late as he hit a clump of trees causing significant damage to his vehicle.

Morse suffered some minor lacerations to his hands from the broken/flying glass and his hand was also bruised from the impact. Morse did not seek medical treatment, nor was he planning on getting himself checked over, authorities said. Deputies cited Morse for failure to report a personal injury accident. He [illegible] got a suspended license and careless negligent driving.

Schneider reminds drivers that Michigan State law requires a driver to immediately report an accident that involves injuries, or damage that totals an estimated $1,000 or more

Three arrested in large heroin bust

Prevo

Smith

Police in Charlevoix recently arrested three people, two of them Northern Michigan residents, on multiple counts of heroin possession and delivery.

Charlevoix Police Department officials identified the suspects as Robin Prevo, 20, of Petoskey; Charles Kniseley, 25 of East Jordan and Larry Darnell Smith Jr., 20, of Farmington Hills.

Police officials said the arrests were a joint effort of the Charlevoix Police Department and the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office, who conducted a "controlled buy" of heroin which then lead to a traffic stop and the three arrests.

Police said in the course of the arrest they seized 166 packets of heroin, three "rocks" of heroin and a small amount of marijuana and the car allegedly used to transport the drugs. Charlevoix Police Chief Gerard Doan explained that a "packet" is a single use portion, while a "rock" is a larger quantity usually broken up into smaller pieces for sale. In all, police estimate the street value of the drugs seized to be more than $4,000.

Prevo and Smith were scheduled for pre-trial hearings in their cases on Tuesday while Kniseley was slated to face a preliminary examination on Tuesday. All three remained lodge Monday at the Charlevoix County Jail in lieu of bond.

Crash leads to three injuries, one arrest

Three people were injured in a two-vehicle traffic crash near East Jordan on Friday.

Charlevoix County Sheriff Don Schneider identified the injured as one of the drivers, Terra Lin Tansey, 33, of East Jordan, and her passengers Darian Alexandra Ballard, 12, of Boyne City and Abigail Peggy Tansey, 11, of East Jordan. Terra Lin sustained a back and neck injury and was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital by East Jordan Ambulance. Darian was transported to Northern Michigan Regional Hospital by East Jordan Ambulance where she was treated for an injury to the back of the head. Abigail was transported to Charlevoix Area Hospital by her father where she was treated for a bruise on her face. All three were treated for their injuries and released. The other driver, Mark Willson, 54 of Boyne City was not injured in the crash.

Police said the crash happened at shortly after 6 p.m. at the intersection of Rogers Road and Marvon Road in Wilson Township.

Deputies said Willson reported that he was traveling west on Rogers Road in a 1994 GMC Sierra Pickup when he saw a Jeep Cherokee, driven by Terra Tansey, sliding on the ice as it was approaching the intersection. Police said Willson turned to the right in an attempt to avoid the crash and struck the Jeep on its driver's side

A LOOK AT LIFE

Gayle Gennett

I was talking with my sister on the phone the other day and, in my usual counselor fashion, I was explaining to her how people come into your life for a reason. She felt her life was becoming routine as she reached that tender age of wisdom sometimes referred to as senior years. (Boy, am I going to be in trouble if she reads this.) I told her life gets more interesting when you push yourself to learn something new. With new challenges you will meet new people and that, in itself, makes life interesting. Being the wise sage of the family, I explained how people will come into your life at a point when you need direction and you, in turn, will enter into someone else's.

What started this conversation was, in part, what she was sharing with me on the phone. She decided to stretch herself literally and become an instructor in the fine art of T'ai Chi. At the workshop for future instructors, she met a gentleman who was kind, caring and more importantly took an interest in my sister. Turns out, besides T'ai Chi, he is also a tango instructor. He even owns his own dance studio. Both my sister and he had much in common regarding interests and values so now life became a little more interesting for my sister.

They decided they would try to meet in Spain for the next T'ai Chi workshop. In her infinite wisdom, she decided to surprise him before their next meeting and nail the Argentine dance with a little training, assuming they could break away from the group and find a little dance time. After all, she was a former dancer in her youth. She had a brief appearance on the syndicated TV show, "Finky Lee," a moment in time I'll never forget.

When she signed on for the dance classes she was met by a spirited young man who was young enough to be her son. Weeks went by and she was bursting with pride on her ease of managing this difficult dance. She was ready to show off her newly honed skills only to find out that "Tango T'ai Chi Teddy" (I give my sister's friends nicknames) would not be able to make it to the workshop in Spain. My sister began to realize that meeting him was why she even dared to take a dance class. She has since actually participated in dance competition, something she would not have done had she not met this man in the first place.

The story continues: My sister's cute and very young tango instructor lost his mom years earlier and began to develop a relationship with my sister that was enduring like a son would have with his mother. She lent her ear when he struggled with his own life decisions and helped guide him on a positive path. Months had now passed and this relationship eventually led to the introduction of his father to my sister. Now they have become good friends. I refer to him as "Dance Daddy." This gentleman has earned my sisters listening ear and guidance and with her encouragement is helping him sort his life since the loss of his wife. As much as she would love to continue this relationship he has thoughts of returning to his home town where his remaining family and friends are. This, of course, is in another part of the country. She is encouraging him to follow his heart. They will probably part as friends and their story will end here, but who knows?

It's nice if we can take the time to ponder who was placed in our lives and how our lives have been changed or challenged by the presence of those who have entered it. It's a plan that's been mapped out and we get to choose to follow it if we so desire. A wondrous life made more interesting by the people who are put in it.

LETTERS to the editor

Editor:

I see that Charlevoix is getting new street signs. The impetus for this seems to be the federal government, which believes there are several things wrong with the current ones. Rather than having white letters on a black, brown, blue, or green background with optional border, we have black letters on a white background. Our letters are upper case, not a federally preferred lower case with upper case only for the first letter (and using the preferred type font too, naturally). Our signs are painted, but are not reflective, and there are probably other things wrong with them as well, at least in the eyes of someone in Washington D.C., who is paid quite well, I imagine, to make these determinations.

I don't know how many other towns will need new signs, but a quick drive a few miles south made it look like Ellsworth and Central Lake will, in addition to New York City, and you can be sure there are a few locales in between as well that will be affected. Now might be just the time to invest in street sign manufacturers, or makers of reflective street sign paint application equipment. Business should be booming for the next few years.

So now, just sit back and reflect (like the new signs) on how we got to this point in the first place. How did we, as a country, reach a point where someone in Washington, D.C. is designing our street signs? Someone in Charlevoix did a fine job of this some number of years ago, and if there are current shortcomings, I am confident that Pat Ellliot, with the advice and consent of "Boogie" and the gang at city hall, can figure out what to do. Makes me wonder how many other busy and well-paid people in Washington, D.C. are working on other proposals, and what it will all be costing.

— Bill Briggs

quire any written instrument at the time of the transfer, yet all are transfers of ownership that will uncap property."

In 2010, the May Street property was subject to 51.7655 mills. One mill equals one dollar in property tax for each $1,000 of a property's taxable value. That means the difference in taxable value translates into about $1,750 more in overall property tax.

However, the sagging economy and housing market have lessened that impact. After reaching a high of $76,699 in 2008, the property's taxable value dropped slightly in 2009 and then by $16,000 in 2010 to about $60,000.

"This changes the law in Michigan considerably," said Klooster's attorney, Steven Stapleton. "Mr. Klooster ultimately lost but the taxpayers win. For estate and trust purposes, this is a big deal."

The Michigan Municipal League and Michigan Assessors Association had warned the Supreme Court that local governments would suffer financially if joint ownerships like the one in the Klooster case could be used to keep property values capped. They fear "perpetual tax shelters."

However, the court briefly addressed that matter noting that, just as in Klooster's case, successive joint tenancies would be subject to the "original owner" requirement to qualify for the uncapping exemption.

Attorney Paul McCord, who filed a brief at the court on behalf of Michigan tax lawyers, doubts local governments will suffer much, but said the decision is significant.

"Mom and Dad could buy a cottage and hold it for 30-odd years and pass it to the next generation for 30 or more years. The value could stay capped," McCord said. "Up north, there are a lot of cottages — and some are beyond cottages."

RESCUE

Whitely, who knew Jarod well before the incident, said she was glad she was in the right place at the right time to help him, but she credited her ability to react quickly and calmly to the situation to some emergency training that some staff at the school recently received.

In January, Charlevoix Fire Department Shift Commander Bill Brodin came to the school and gave a three and a half hour CPR and automatic defibrillator training class to nine staff members at the school.

And Whitely is no novice when it comes to CPR and Heimlich maneuver training. Not only has she had the training in the past, she used the Heimlich on another similar occasion about 10 years ago to rescue a special education student who was choking. She said despite the prior training and experience, she's sure the most training gave her the confidence to act decisively to help Jarod.

"I probably would not have felt as confident doing it were it not for that training," Whitley said. "He (Brodin) did such a good job."

Charlevoix Middle School Principal Travis Garrett praised Whitley for her actions

"Mrs. Whitley is an amazing person and an intricate member or our staff," Garrett said. "I have not met another adult in my public education career that is more concerned with the well-being of every student. We truly are blessed to have a Mrs. Whitley working with our kids everyday. I know Jarod would agree with me."

Garrett also said he and the staff are thankful for the training Brodin provided for the staff.

Whitley noted that one thing the incident has highlighted is the need to educate everyone — students included — on how to help someone who is choking.

"I truly wonder what would have happened if I hadn't walked into that room when I did. It really could have been deadly," she said.

County seeks grant for non-motorized trail section

DAVID HOPKINS
NEWS-REVIEW
STAFF WRITER

BOYNE CITY — At the Charlevoix County Commission meeting on Wednesday, March 9, the commissioners agreed with a 4-2 vote to proceed with the grant process for a section of non-motorized trail.

If the grant is approved, and money from other sources is acquired as well, the section of trail will start in Boyne City and will follow Boyne City-Charlevoix Road for 3.2 miles until it ends at Springwater Beach Road.

The county has been considering a trail from Boyne City to Charlevoix for several years, but they have run into some resistance from home owners along the route. If this section is constructed it will be the first of two or three potential segments to connect the two cities with a trail.

According to Larry Sullivan, the county's planner and unofficial grant writer, the total cost of the 3.2-mile stretch of trail is $954,500 and will be coming from several sources if everything is approved. A Natural Resources Trust Fund grant for $300,000 will be applied for by Charlevoix County; $44,300 will come from Boyne City and Evangeline Township; $44,300 will have to be raised from individual donations and foundations, and the remaining $565,900 will come from a Transportation Enhancement Grant, which will have to be applied for by the city of Boyne City.

After a recent policy change by the commissioners, which requires all potential grants to be presented to the board prior to the application process, Sullivan requested guidance from the board about whether to proceed with the application or not.

"Prior to spending time on this I wanted to run it by the county board to see if there was an interest and a desire to move forward with (the grant process)," Sullivan said.

All of the commissioners agreed that a non-motorized trail connecting the two cities would be beneficial to the county, but not all agreed that it was the right time to spend any money on such a project. The county doesn't have approval from all citizens along the entire route and the project could end with the completion of the first segment.

"The bike trail is important and we all wish we had it; however, I'm hesitant to OK this to go forward because we don't have complete permission to run the trail all the way through," said Joel Evans, Charlevoix County Commission chairman.

"I keep looking at what's happening here and think we have to focus on what we need not what we want," he continued.

There was other hesitation based on the cost of the grant writing process in man hours.

"Right now this county is in pretty good shape, but with the way the whole country is and the way the state of Michigan is I don't think we need to spend the money for this," said Ron Reinhardt, county commissioner.

After debating the issue the commissioners agreed to allow Sullivan to go ahead and assist the Parks and Recreation Commission move forward with organizing all the financial pieces of the project and the writing of the grants.

There will be a public hearing on the section of trail at the next Charlevoix County Commission meeting on March 23 at the county building.

OBITUARIES

Aaron Scott Whitley: Nov. 11, 1961 - March 12, 2011

Aaron Scott Whitley, 49, of Charlevoix, passed away Saturday, March 12, 2011, at his home. He was born Nov. 11, 1961, in Charlevoix the son of Stanley J. and Patricia Jean (Clausen) Whitley.

Aaron graduated from Charlevoix High School in 1980. He worked for Weathershield and for Harbor Industries in Charlevoix.

In 1984, he was paralyzed from the waist down because of an automobile accident, and has been in a wheelchair since. He never complained or let his handicap get the better of him, and he continued to do the things he loved: fishing and hunting and working outdoors. He would cut brush and hunt deer on his property, and spent time in the summer fishing off of the pier, where he would entertain kids by letting them reel in fish. Aaron also worked at Norman Brumm Studios for more than 10 years as a craftsman.

Aaron is survived by his daughter, Maria Whitley; parents Stan and Pat Whitley; brother, Larry Whitley and his friend Penny Beck all of Charlevoix; sisters, Joy (Greg) Greenman of East Jordan, Connie (Chris) Siegmund of Charlevoix; nieces and nephews, Tina, Adam, and Eric Greenman; April, Tyler, and Sydney Whitley; Chad (Victoria) Johnson; great-nephew, Nathan Greenman; many aunts, uncles and cousins. Aaron's niece, Alicia Johnson, preceded him in death.

The family met with friends from noon-2 p.m., Tuesday, March 15, at the Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix, where the funeral took place at 2 p.m., the Rev. Neil Turner of the Community Church of God in Charlevoix officiated. Interment will take place at a later date at Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix.

In lieu of flowers, memorial contributions may be made to the family of Aaron Whitley.

Those who would like to leave a memory or condolence message for the family may do so by visiting www.winchesterfuneralhome.com.

Ralph was born Jan. 25, 1919 to Louis and Dorothy Shapton at their farm on Barnard Road in Charlevoix. He loved to tell colorful stories of his childhood adventures on the farm. His childhood was full of good times as he fished, trapped, hunted, and rambled through the countryside. He occasionally played hooky to go smelt dipping, or chase boyhood dreams; always with his loyal friends and cousins at his side. Life for him in those early days was simply ideal. He dearly loved his family, friends, and surroundings.

His high school memories in Charlevoix were also a great source of joy for him. During his four years of playing varsity football, he started every game — and the team won every game during those four years.

During his teen years, he began a lifelong association with the Belvedere Golf Club and the game of golf. During a span of more than 70 years he served in many capacities for the club. To honor Ralph's great service, the Belvedere Club board of directors voted to give him a rare honorary lifetime membership.

After graduating high school in 1938, Ralph had two major opportunities to choose from; the first was an invitation to try out for a football scholarship with Michigan State University. The second was a job offer in Detroit that was arranged for by his future brother-in-law. Both options had their merits, but he did not make his final decision until he pulled off the road as he was heading south at the junction of roads leading to East Lansing and Detroit. He decided to take the job. A big factor in his decision was the fact that, with a job, he could marry his childhood sweetheart sooner.

Shapton

His wife, Rena Belle Supernaw was the true love of Ralph's life. Her family owned the farm that became the Belvedere Club in 1925. They were married in 1940 and enjoyed 49 years of marriage until Rena Belle passed away in 1989. They lived in the Detroit area suburbs for more than 30 years. Ralph excelled at his job at Rutland Tool Service in Detroit. He was hired in to sweep the floors and rose through the ranks quickly, becoming an expert machinist, supervisor, and finally a trusted superintendent of a shop of more than 60 men.

Ralph enjoyed many hobbies and had a full life. His love of the woods and waters of Northern Michigan prompted him to obtain an aviation pilot license. His airplanes were partially for business, but mainly so he could shorten the travel time on weekends and holidays to his beloved Charlevoix to visit family and friends and to enjoy outdoor sports and the good life. Ralph was also an experienced seaman on the Great Lakes and earned many certifications through the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary. He truly loved trolling for lake trout in Lake Michigan aboard his restored boat the "Fish 'n Fun."

He enjoyed all sorts of hunting and he was one of the original members of the Charlevoix Rod & Gun Club and also a founding member of the Charlevoix Hunting Club property in the Upper Peninsula near Channing.

Ralph retired from the tooling business at the age of 52 and moved back to Charlevoix for retirement. He did not slow down though. As a member of the Charlevoix Housing Commission, he gave back to the community and helped create the "Pine River Place" housing development. He also did a wide range of interesting work that included commercial fishing, construction of high-tech, gas-well monitoring control systems, ownership of rental homes, construction, U.S. Post Office, and his work at the Belvedere Golf Club.

Ralph is survived by three sons, eight grandchildren, 13 great-grandchildren, and 2 sisters. His sons include: James William (Joanne) Shapton of Greenville; Donald Louis (Judi) Shapton of Thompsonville; and Ronald Lee (Cindy) Shapton of Franklin, Tenn. Sisters include: Sally (Shapton) Harris of Oxford; and Helen (Shapton) Bogart of Dimondale.

Preceding Ralph in death was wife Rena Belle (1989); son Thomas Ralph (1961); and his sister Evelyn (Shapton) Schrouder of Traverse City

Ralph attended Barnard Methodist Church, a church that was founded by a group that included his grandparents William and Henrietta Shapton.

Ralph never had a shortage of friends. He was outgoing, gregarious, and always had a benevolent attitude. He will be missed by many.

The family respectfully asks that no flowers or other items be sent.

If so inclined, please send any donations in memory of Ralph to the Charlevoix Area Hospital. The family also wishes to thank the excellent staff at Boulder Park Terrace who cared for him with love and compassion.

If there are any cards, memories, or other information you wish to have shared at the memorial service, please mail to: Ralph Shapton Memorial,1433 Holly Hill Drive, Franklin, TN 37064

Burial will be managed by Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix. Those who would like to leave a memory or condolence message for the family may do so by visiting www.winchesterfuneralhome.com.

A memorial service is being planned for this summer. Details will be announced and published in advance.

She was born June 16, 1931, in Melrose Park, Ill., the daughter of Rudolph and Marie (Polka) Hinrichs. Maria earned a doctorate in piano performance from The American Conservatory of Music in Chicago, and taught students in Charlevoix and the Chicago area.

Maria is survived by her sons, Mark R. Kranz of Vero Beach, Fla., and Ken J. Kranz of Rockford; grandson, Kyle W. Kranz of Rockford.

In lieu of flowers, Maria's family has asked that donations be made to the Charlevoix County Humane Society, 614 Beardsley Street, Boyne City, MI 49712.

No services are planned. Interment will take place in Brookside Cemetery in Charlevoix. The Winchester Funeral Home in Charlevoix is handling arrangements.

'Frontier Boys' makes Charlevoix premiere

STEVE ZUCKER
COURIER EDITOR

It isn't every day that patrons at the Charlevoix Cinema III can look around inside the theater and see some of the same people who are on the screen sitting next to them in the audience.

But that's exactly the experience several hundred people had over the weekend as the full-length feature film "The Frontier Boys" made its Charlevoix debut.

In fact, there was so much interest in seeing the show for its debut Friday, that the 8 p.m. debut show sold out a day in advance, prompting the cinema to add two more showings.

Much of the interest likely stems from the local ties to the movie — and there are many. Not only was much of the movie shot in and around Charlevoix in some easily identifiable locations by a Charlevoix native's production company, but also several local people appear in the movie in small roles or as extras. The movie's story is also set in Charlevoix.

Indeed, the film's first frames feature a winter-time shot of the landmark breakwater and lighthouse. Other easily well-known locations appearing in the film include the downtown Charlevoix, the Charlevoix County Sheriff's office, Charlevoix Area Hospital, Charlevoix Middle School and many other locations.

The movie is the story of four high school boys whose undefeated basketball season and friendship are threatened after a drive-by shooting leaves one of them in a coma and one of them with a secret. They are inseparable on and off the court until one of the four gets caught up in his older brother's mixed-up life.

Excitement about the film has spilled way beyond Charlevoix. The movie recently won the ADAM Award for Best Feature at the 2011 Sabaoth International Film Festival, a festival for Christian films in Milan, Italy. The film was one of 10 feature films nominated from countries around the world. The four-day event which took place March 2–5.

"Seeing the reactions of a European audience to this distinctly American film was a pleasant surprise, and the reaction was incredible," Grooters said. "When the film ended the audience cheered and applauded with boisterous enthusiasm. As this is first film festival we've entered with The Frontier Boys, we really had no idea what to expect. Bringing home the award for Best Feature Film is a great blessing and a tribute to the cast and crew who poured their hearts into this film."

On Friday, Grooters said that preparations are under way for shooting the second installment of the movie's series. The next will be shot partially in Charlevoix and partially in Italy.

The movie is tentatively slated to show for two weeks in Charlevoix. Call the Charlevoix Cinema III for details. For more on the movie, visit www.frontierboys.com.
